Regulations for a Military Academy

1. [ACADEMIA MILITAR, Santiago]. Reglamento de la Academia Militar ... [text begins:] Debiendo el Director de la Academia militar someterse al reglamento que por el artículo 3° del decreto de 19 de julio del presente año ha de servirle de pauta .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta de la Opinion, dated 29 August 1831. 4°, early plain wrappers (soiled, stained). Caption title. Light stains and soiling. In good condition. 33 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of these regulations for the second incarnation of the Academia Militar, ancestor of Chile's present Escuela Militar. They specify admission requirements, a four-year course of study with the content of each course (pp. 17-24) and the exams (pp. 24-28), what the cadets will be doing every hour of every day, and even how often they will shave and change their linen. Also covered are the duties of the director, sub-director, faculty, chaplain, surgeon, bursar, and doorman. Like many military academies established after the Napoleonic Wars, this one followed the French model in organization, regulations, and uniforms.

The Academia was founded in 1817 by Bernardo O'Higgins, but closed for financial reasons in 1819. President Ramón Freire, attempting to reopen the school a few years later, failed due to the chaotic situation in Chile during the 1820s. It was finally reestablished in 1831, under President José Joaquín Prieto and his minister Diego Portales. After another lapse (1838-1842), it reopened under the name Escuela Militar, and has existed since then with only one brief hiatus (1876-1878).

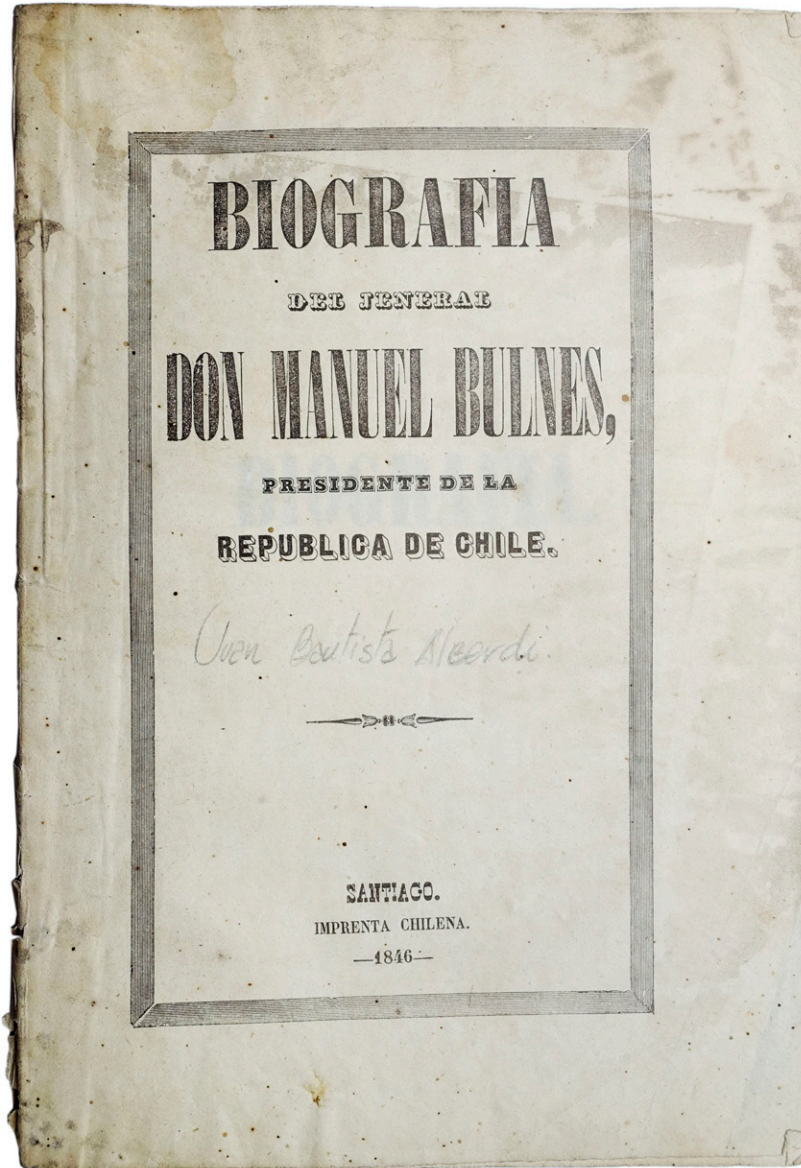

OCLC attributes the work to Fernando Errázuriz and Diego Portales.

Was Cleric Legitimately Chosen During War of Independence?

2. Adición a la admonición fraternal del parroco del Obispado de Concepción, dirigida al autor del impreso: Gloria á Dios y á su Santa Iglesia. Sr. D. Juan Vidaurre. Hermano en Jesucristo, segunda vez vuelve á hablaros vuestro compatriota, no solo animado del celo mas puro, sino tambien del afecto mas fino con que os aprecia .... [Colophon] (Santiago de Chile): Imprenta de la Biblioteca, (1828). 4°, disbound. Caption title. Dampstained, with pinkish stains at the edges (from a rouged edge on the former binding?). Overall in good condition. 8 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In 1828 D. Juan Fermin Vidaurre (1770-1829) published a short work, Gloria a Dios y a su Santa Iglesia, that criticized the way in which the vicario

capitular was elected in the diocese of Concepción. He was criticized and responded. This work, dated July 4, seems to be a rebuttal to Vidaurre's second publication, which the author calls "tan intempestivo como incendiario." The issue was the legitimacy of a cleric who was elected during the war of independence, after the incumbent decamped to Lima. The supporting documents at the end are dated 1813 and 1824.

*Substantial Sections on Bulnes's Battles with the Araucanian Indians,
The Pincheira Brothers, and on His Financial Program*

3. [ALBERDI, Juan B.] Biografía del Jeneral Don Manuel Bulnes, Presidente de la Republica de Chile. Santiago de Chile: Imprenta Chilena, 1846. Large 8°, original beige printed wrappers (soiled). Small marginal stain on first few leaves. In very good condition. 84 pp. $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. When this biography was written, General Manuel Bulnes Prieto (1799-1866) had just been unanimously reelected as president of Chile, a position he held from 1841 to 1851. The biography recounts his efforts during Chile's War of Independence (pp. 9-14), his campaign against the Araucanian Indians in 1820-1823 (pp. 15-21), his victory in 1832 over the Pincheira brothers, who had allied themselves with Indians (pp. 22-33), his defeat of Santa Cruz and the Peru-Bolivian Confederation in 1838-1839 (pp. 34-61), and his first years as president of Chile (pp. 62-84). President Bulnes encouraged educational, cultural, and industrial expansion. The University of Chile was founded in Santiago in 1842 and the settlement of Fuerte Bulnes was established in 1843, to enforce Chilean sovereignty over the Strait of Magellan (see pp. 70-71). The author of this work was particularly impressed by Bulnes's handling of Chilean finances (pp. 75-79). A half page at the end describes Bulnes's appearance: "hombre de alta estatura i considerable cupulencia. Su aire es noble i abierto ...."

la Independencia, dated 21 April 1829. Folio (29 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Very light foxing. Good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. 3 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Aliaga defends his honor, asserting that he and his brothers, José and Santiago, had been falsely accused of crimes in San Fernando and almost forced to flee their homes. The charges were the result, he alleges, of hatred that remained after they were tried in 1820 as revolucionarios—a charge of which they were completely cleared in 1827. Aliaga asks the courts to publish all relevant documents and to clear their names yet again.

6. APPLETON, Elizabeth Haven. Insurrection at Magellan. Narrative of the Imprisonment and Escape of Capt. Chas. H. Brown from the Chilian Convicts. Boston: Published for the Author by Geo. C. Rand, 1854. 12°, original brown publisher's cloth, spine elaborately gilt, covers stamped in blind (spine ends slightly chipped, slight wear to corners). Light dampstaining (mostly marginal), scattered light foxing. Contemporary owner's signature on front endpaper. Frontispiece, 228 pp., floor plan of the barracks at Sandy Bay. $500.00

FIRST EDITION. Brown was captain of the Florida, an American merchant ship based in New Orleans. In October 1851 the Florida set sail from Valparaiso, intending to pick up cargo in Rio de Janeiro. At the Chilean government's request, Brown agreed to ferry a group of political prisoners, most of them participants in the 1851 rebellion, to the penal colony at Sandy Bay in the Strait of Magellan. On arrival, the Florida was captured by mutinous Chilean officers. Brown describes in considerable detail the insurrection,

AVISO AL PUBLICO.

Lima Diciembre 18 de 1824.

GRAN VICTORIA

TRIUNFO DECISIVO

El ejército libertador al mando del general Sucre ha derrotado completamente al ejército español el 9 del presente mes en los campos de Guamanguilla. El general La-Serna que lo mandaba, ha sido herido y se halla prisionero con los jenerales Canterac, Valdes, Carrasilla y demás jefes, oficiales y tropa. Por consiguiente, todos los bagajes, del enemigo, su armamento y pertrechos, se hallan tambien en nuestro poder. El teniente coronel Medina, ayudante de S. E. el Li-bertador conducia los partes oficiales de la accion; y es de lamentar la desgracia que tuvo de ser asesinado en Guando por los rebeldes de aquel pueblo. Mas todas las autoridades de los lugares inmediatos al sitio de la batalla, avisan oficialmente el triunfo de nuestras armas, añadiendo que el jeneral Canterac que quedó mandando el campo, despues de haber sido herido el jeneral La Serna, capituló con el jeneral Sucre estipulando espresamente, que la fortaleza del Callao se entregará al ejército libertador.

El 9 de diciembre de 1824, se ha completado el dia que amaneció en Junio: al empezar este año, los españoles amenazaban reconquistar la América con ese ejército, que ya no existe. Los campos de Guamanguilla han sido testigos de la victoria que ha terminado la guerra de la independencia en el continente de Colon. Allí se ha decidido la cuestion que divide la Europa, que interesa inmediatamente á la América, que es trascendental á todo el jenero humano, y cuyo influjo alcanzará sin duda á mil de mil jeneraciones que se sucederán: esta cuestion es, si el mundo debe gobernarse por el poder absoluto de los que se llaman Legítimos, ó si es llegada la época en que los pueblos gozan de sus libertades y derechos. En fin, el ejército libertador ha resuelto el problema y ha levantado el último monumento que faltaba á su gloria: la gratitud escribirá en él los nombres de los vencedores de Guamanguilla, y del ilustrado jénio que ha dirigido la guerra, que ha salvado al Perú, y que en los sucesos de febrero no ha encontrado, sino nuevos caminos para la gloria: su fama durará hasta la muerte del mundo, y este es un presentimiento que tienen hoy todos los corazones que suspiran por su libertad.—(Lima, 1824 imprenta administrada por J. Maria Concha.)

$1,500.00

This report from Lima, dated 18 December 1824, gives a brief account of the Battle of Ayacucho (9 December) and its aftermath. It was the final battle in the struggle for Peruvian independence, and thus the end of the Spanish-American wars of independence. According to the cover letter, dated at Valparaiso, January 9, 1825, and signed by José Ignacio Zenteno, the report was handed by the Libertador del Perú to the captain of the a French frigate, who brought it to Chile.

Folio (30 x 19 cm.), disbound. Woodcut ornament below caption title. Light browning and short tears at edges. Overall in good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $300.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Domingo Lavin, one of the heirs of Baeza's original landlord, claimed (either to get rid of Baeza or to embarrass him) that Baeza had not paid the rent. He even sent a letter to that effect to Baeza's father. Baeza reproduces that letter, his father's reply, and testimonials from José Miguel Infante and F.A. Biography of a Military Reformer

10. [BARROS PASSOS, José, writing under the initials J.B.P.]. Biografía del Señor Jeneral D. Juan de Dios Rivera. Valparaiso: Imprenta del Mercurio, 1843. 4°, disbound. Elaborate typographical tailpiece on p. 16. Light foxing on opening leaves. In good to very good condition. Author's name in early manuscript on title page. Small rubber stamp ("62243") in lower margin of p. 5. 16 pp. $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Barros Pasos describes the high points of the career of General Juan de Dios Rivera, who fought during the War of Independence and was Chile's minister of War and the Navy in 1823-1824, under General Ramón Freire. In that position he revamped the administration of the military hospital so the soldiers would be treated better (numerous details on pp. 8-10) and forbade the castigo de palos for soldiers. In early 1823 he was dispatched as governor to the ever-restless province of Concepción: "Bastará a nuestro intento mencionar en globo los inmensos beneficios que a los esfuerzos inteligentes, patrióticos e infatigables del jeneral Rivera, deben las artes, la ilustracion, la moral, las costumbres, la industria agrícola y la milicia de la provincia de Concepcion."

Not mentioned here is the fact that in the Chilean presidential election of 1829 (following the adoption of the Chilean Constitution of 1828), Juan de Dios Rivera ran against a field of 9 candidates, losing to Francisco Antonio Pinto and coming in sixth, with 2.7% of the votes. He died on June 21, 1843. Rivera is not to be confused with the silversmith and engraver of the same name (Cuzco, 1760-Buenos Aires, 1843) who designed the coat of arms of Argentina.

Muy señor mio: el interes que V. ha tomado en estampar en su Liberal Núm. 51 el atentado horrible cometido por el Gobierno pasado contra mi persona ....* (Santiago de Chile): Imprenta de la Biblioteca, dated 12 July 1827. Folio (30 x 20 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Some soiling; 3 cm. tear into text, without loss. Overall in good condition, if just barely. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author, a businessman in Yumbel, was sent into exile in May 1827 by Señor de Gandarillas (Manuel José de Gandarillas?), for reasons that were unclear: "no se halla acusacion, ni aparece calumniador, pues todo ha caminado bajo la sombra del misterio, como se encubre siempre la negra intriga y la maldad." The order for exile was revoked by the president of the republic himself, General Francisco Antonio Pinto. The incident had been reported, sympathetically, in Liberal no. 51; Beltran Mathieu wanted this further explanation published in the following issue, but there was not enough space to include it.

Beltran Matheiu (born in France, Louis Bertrand Mathieu Begosse) was residing in Buenos Aires in 1818, when he became secretary to Miguel Zañartu, the ambassador of Chile to the United Provinces. Having returned to Chile with Zañartu, he set up as a businessman in Concepción and Yumbel. In 1826 he acted as intermediary between the government of Chile and the Spanish commander Miguel de Sonosiaín, and in the same year persuaded the cacique Francisco Mariluan to put down his arms. Beltran Mathieu owned properties in Los Angeles, Talcahuano, and the Isla Quiriquina (near Concepción). Later he served as consul of France and as deputy to the Chilean Congress. He died in 1841 or 1842 in Talcahuano.

Purple stamp of Luis Sotomayor B. consisting of his name with a sword below it. Broadside. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Printed signature at end of D. J. B. at Maipo, dated 28 February 1834. Benavente denies having written all or part of a piece that appeared in the Mercurio of Valparaiso. He also denies being the object of a Contestacion al anónimo, which was signed "E.C." According to Briseño the author of that piece was Enrique Campino; he and his brother Joaquín were the prime movers of the Campino Mutiny (Sublevacion del Campino) in January 1827.

Having supported José Miguel Carrera in the War of Independence, Benavente (1790-1867) fled to Buenos Aires while O'Higgins was in power. From 1823-1825, under Ramón Freire, he served as minister of Finance, but his support of the Portales, Cía y Compañía monopoly made him unpopular. In the 1830s he opposed Portales. From 1834 to 1861 he was elected senator nine times.

$1,000.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Addressing the Chilean Congress, the Minister of Finance proposes means of funding the government, including taxes on capital expenditures that vary depending on whether the money is used for building, agriculture, or commerce, the use of papel sellado for various transactions, and annual taxes on foreigners in Chile. For each of these, he includes drafts of proposed legislation. Benavente also suggests the use of copper coins and a weekly government lottery.

mentions the expedition to Chiloé (whose capture in 1826 marked the end of the struggle for Chilean independence), the state of the Chilean navy, the suppression of an Indian rebellion in the south (pp. 8-9), and the monopoly on tobacco and other goods held by Portales, Cía y Compañía. FIRST and ONLY EDITION. D. Ildefonso Zavala had offered insults and violence to Da. Rosa Riqueras, the wife of Juan Maria Blanco. Here he explains why he had not taken D. Ildefonso to court: the judge who should have tried the case was too closely related to D. Ildefonso; the next judge in line was out of the province; so D. Juan is forced to wait until the Chilean government sends a judge qualified to hear the case.

Iquique, capital of the Tarapacá Region, is a port city in northern Chile, west of the Atacama Desert.

Valdivia. He mentions O'Higgins, Lord Cochrane, Ramón Freire, and San Martín. At the end are several reports he submitted to Bernardo O'Higgins in 1818. The aspersions on Blanco Encalada were cast by Charles Whiting Wooster, who later became a rear admiral.

The year after this pamphlet was published, Blanco Encalada led a naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, but was forced to surrender.

Uncut. Some light foxing. In good condition. iv, 116 pp. $300.00

First edition thus. This is volume III of New Voyages and Travels, consisting of extracts from Brackenridge's two-volume work, Voyage to South America, performed by order of the American government, in the years 1817 and 1818, in the frigate Congress, Baltimore, 1819. The Advertisement (p. iii) states, "[Brackenridge] has presented to the world two luminous volumes on the subject of South America, in which many valuable disquisitions, historical and political, have been mixed with his personal adventures and local observations,—but, in the pages which follow, the former have been rejected, and only the latter preserved." It includes chapters on Rio de Janeiro and Brazil; São Paulo, Santa Catarina, and Rio Grande; Montevideo and Buenos Aires (with an interview with the Supreme Director and other high officials); Chile; principal events in Buenos Aires since 1806; and Venezuela and New Granada.

Henry Marie Brackenridge (1786-1871), a native of Pittsburgh, was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar in 1806, and set off with Manuel Lisa on a trip up the Missouri in 1811, then sailed to New Orleans, where he took up residence as a district judge and published Views of Louisiana, 1814. When the former colonies in South America were declaring their independence, Brackenridge published South America, a Letter on the Present State of that Country, which was sent to James Monroe. Six years later Monroe incorporated many of its ideas into the Monroe Doctrine. Meanwhile, Brackenridge was chosen part of a commission to sail on the frigate Congress to observe firsthand the situation in Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo, Buenos Aires, and Chile.

Caption title below woodcut ornament showing a helmet, shield, and other martial equipment. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Broadsides. $400.00

First Chilean edition? Bulnes, the commander-in-chief of the Chilean army in Peru, encourages his soldiers to celebrate the twenty-ninth anniversary of Chile's independence and announces that ships are waiting to bear the triumphant army home. The Chileans decisively defeated the Peru-Bolivian Confederation at the Battle of Yungay on January 20, 1839, but it was not until August 25 that General Gamarra assumed the presidency of Peru, decreed that the Peru-Bolivian Confederation was dissolved, and reunited North and South Peru.

The proclamation was issued on September 17, 1839, at Lima, but was presumably printed in Santiago for the benefit of other Chileans. The woodcut above the caption title of our edition is exactly the same as the woodcut that appears on a broadside of August 9, 1836 printed in Santiago at the Imprenta de la Opinion (Las clases del Batallon Num. 4 de Guardias Civicas de Santiago).

EXMO. SEÑOR.

EL Ciudadano D. Onofre Bunster, con la mayor sumision y respeto, represento á V. E. que obligada mi gratitud, con la distincion y particulares consideraciones, que generalmente he merecido y debo, á los dignos individuos de este grato suelo, con quienes he tenido la honra de tratar, y familiarizarme largos años, he empeñado mi influjo, y puesto en movimiento cuantos arbitrios han estado á mi alcance, para que aceptados con agrado por mis correspondientes en Londres, se decidiesen, ó inclinasen, á dar el mas pronto, y activo movimiento á varias negociaciones y especulaciones, de que es susceptible esta recomendable república: que aunque ellas no son en substancia nuevas, sino muy antiguas: han estado y están tan atrasadas y paralizadas, que parece no han llegado á su principio.

No podia llenar cumplidamente mi deseo: por ello creí con razon, que exponia, y aventuraba su buen suceso, si impremeditadamente me avanzaba á proponer cuantos negocios ocurriesen á un tiempo: asi es, que conformandome con las primeras producciones del Pais y con la natural inclinacion de sus habitantes á toda operacion mineralógica, cuyo preciso objeto es, laborear las minas, que producen los preciosos metales de oro y plata; las de cobre, azogue, plomo, fierro, y de otros, que por falta de fomento, ó son aun desconocidos, ó no tienen entre aquellos el lugar que merecen: di gustoso la preferencia á tratar en grande de el fomento de tan importante giro: hablé y me dirigí sobre él con detencion á aquellos mis correspondientes, y convencidos de las ventajas del proyecto, han contestado á favor, y mandado sus particulares instrucciones: á virtud de ellas, tengo el honor de proponer, y sujetar á la Suprema aprobacion del Soberano Congreso, por la respetable mediacion de V. E. en el ante dicho proyecto, á efecto, de realizarlo, bajo los artículos, que siguen—

1.º Se entablará una Compañía (nombrada) de la Union de Mineros extrangeros y del Pais. FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Bunster proposes statutes for a company to mine Chile's rich deposits of gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, and mercury. The "Union de Minereros Extranjeros y del País" is to start with one million pesos in capital, raised from Chileans and foreigners. The statutes set out how much is to be paid for silver, the reward for finding new mines, and the company's relationship with the Casa de Moneda. This document was directed to Supreme Director Ramón Freire and the Chilean Congress.

As new. xx, 723 pp., frontispiece color plate, large folding color map of Patagonia, 8 additional leaves of color plates, printed on both sides: 6 with maps, 1 with title pages, and 1 with other illustrations; maps tables, and illustrations in text. Extensive footnotes, bibliography, and analytical index. ISBN: 978-1-908145-20-8. $120.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In 2009, after a public appeal, the British Library purchased a manuscript 'Booke', which Captain Narbrough bought in 1666 and into which he subsequently entered his journals of his voyages and correspondence relating to them. The 'Booke' contains his own fair copy of the journal of his voyage through the Strait of Magellan and north to Valdivia in the Sweepstakes, 1669-1671. This is published here for the first time, together with an incomplete and somewhat different copy of the journal, held in the Bodleian Library, which was made for him by a clerk after he returned to England, and which was partially published in 1694. Both versions of the journal together with previously unpublished records made by members of his company, as well as reproductions of the charts which Narbrough relied on and those he produced, are printed here. Narbrough's mission was to carry out a passenger who referred to himself as Don Carlos Enriques and who claimed to have expert knowledge of Peru and Chile, and contacts with disaffected colonists and indigenous peoples. Don Carlos's written proposals to King Charles II and his ministers, only recently discovered, are here translated from Spanish, and give a clear sense of the character, if not the real identity, of an adventurer, who gave the authorities in England, Chile and Peru totally different and changing stories about his status and the purpose of the voyage.

Folio (30.5 x 21.5 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Uncut. Short marginal tear. Fine condition. Broadside. $800.00

With the aim of preserving the peace after a military coup, Colonel Campino orders that no public gatherings be held "con el objeto de hacer peticiones, ú otro acto semejante" and that there be no gatherings of armed men. Penalties will be imposed "segun la calidad de la persona que lo cometa y enormidad del delito."

The Sublevacion de Campino (Mutiny of Campino) in January 1827 was a failed attempt to strengthen the power of the radical federalists by replacing President Agustín Eyzaguirre with Colonel Enrique Campino, brother of prominent liberal Joaquin Campino. Colonel Campino dissolved Congress and imprisoned some conservative ministers (including Diego Portales and Manuel José Gandarillas). Government troops put down the rebellion, but Eyzaguirre resigned at the end of January and Ramón Freire was named president.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Colonel Campino, who had just been named president by a military coup, assures his fellow citizens that "jamás me habria puesto á la cabeza de la fuerza armada, si aun remotamente hubiese creido que al mas mínimo de los ciudadanos se iba de inferir el mas pequeño mal."

The Sublevacion de Campino (Mutiny of Campino) in January 1827 was a failed attempt to strengthen the power of the radical federalists by replacing President Agustín Eyzaguirre with Colonel Enrique Campino, brother of prominent liberal Joaquin Campino. Prominent FederalistArgues That Provinces Should Elect Their Own Governors

24. [CAMPINO, Joaquin]. Proyecto de un reglamento provisorio para la administracion de las provincias presentado al Consejo Directorial por el Ministro del interior. [text begins:] Se ha espuesto ya estensamente en los documentos, que se han publicado en los diarios del gobierno números 8, 11, 12, 23, 27, y 28 .... (Santiago de Chile): n.pr., dated 30 November 1825. Folio (30.5 x 21 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Slight creasing at gutter edges. Good to very good condition. (2 ll.) $500.00

FIRST EDITION? This argument in favor of allowing provinces to elect their governors directly was proposed by a leading liberal who strongly favored federalism. He notes that the provisions in the 1823 Constitution regarding the provinces had still not been implemented, and that if the provinces had local government, the central government "tanto mas y mejor podrá ocuparse de los intereses generales de la república."

According to Vicuña Mackenna (quoted in Collier), Joaquín Campino (1788-1860) was the only politician on the liberal side whose influence might have rivalled that of Diego Portales among conservatives. In 1823, 1825 and 1826 he was minister of Domestic and Foreign Relations; in December 1824 he was named president of the Congress. In January 1827 he was a leader of the Sublevacion de Campino (Mutiny of Campino), a failed attempt to strengthen the power of the radical federalists by replacing President Agustín Eyzaguirre with Campino's brother, Colonel Enrique Campino. Colonel Campino dissolved Congress and imprisoned some conservative ministers, including Diego Portales and Manuel José Gandarillas. Although government troops put down the rebellion, Eyzaguirre resigned at the end of January and Ramón Freire was named president. Joaquín Campino later served as minister plenipotentiary to the United States and then to Mexico.

Folio (27 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Light browning. Discolored at corner (8 x 1.5 cm.). Good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this argument regarding a case where a son bequeathed money to his illegitimate sons and to others who were not relatives, but did not leave a cent to his mother, who survived him. The author cites precedents in Spanish law as far back as the Leyes de Toro.

Early manuscript foliation in ink, "154-155" in upper outer corner of rectos. (2 ll.) $200.00

This item was included in a bulk purchase of hundreds of early Chilean imprints, from a source in Chile. We think it is probably an unrecorded early example of printing in Chile, prior to the establishment of presses in 1812, but so far this is mere speculation.

Foldlines, light soiling. Overall in good to very good condition. Early manuscript address on verso ("Dn. Estanislao Portes, Santiago"). Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A Chilean businessman who is moving to Coquimbo lists his assets so that creditors will know he can pay his debts. Among the items listed are moneys owed and goods held in Coquimbo, Santiago, Valparaiso and Peru.

In the mid-1820s, José Manuel Cea was Diego Portales' business partner; their company held the estanco, a government-granted monopoly on tobacco, tea, liquor, and playing cards. In return for the monopoly, Portales y Cea serviced Chile's foreign debt. After the monopoly was taken back into government hands in 1826, Portales became the leader of the prominent conservative faction known as estanqueros.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION, setting out stringent regulations for submitting lists of cargo and paying taxes, with fines for noncompliance. Marketplaces in Chile are to be free of taxes, and there is to be no price-fixing by government officials.

After the 55 regulations on pp. 7-10 (signed in print by Pedro Nolasco Mena) come lists of imports and customs duties. Items exempt from duties include books and printed materials, maps, war matériel, gold and silver coins, livestock, industrial machinery, and musical instruments.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this lengthy description of a mutiny of infantry in Rancagua on April 3, 1830, with names, places, times, and who said what to whom. The most prominent figures seem to have been the local governor Ramon Tagle and infantry sergeant José Solís. The Breve repulsion was written to refute Francisco Angel Ramirez's Un Chileno Constitucional, a sus conciudadanos, issued April 20, 1830.

FIRST EDITION? Conservative, moralistic, and outwardly illiberal, this constitution was a major triumph for Mariano Egaña, its chief author. It was doomed to failure in the Chile of the 1820s. According to Collier & Sater, with its 277 articles "the constitution was far too complex to be applied to Chile (or anywhere else)." It was abrogated by the Chilean Congress in November 1824 and replaced by the Ensayo federal of 1826.

FIRST EDITION??? of the 1828 constitution. Briseño does not cite this edition, but lists 3 others, one folio, one quarto, and one folding. This liberal constitution, the finest achievement of the regime of Francisco Antonio Pinto (1827-29), provided for popular elections at the national level and a system of checks and balances; it also provided for a Constituent Convention to meet in 1836 to revise and amend the document.

Title page within typographical border. A few small stains and light soiling to title page. Some minor soiling to final leaf verso. Internally clean and crisp. Overall in very good, almost fine condition. Letter "G" in later ink in upper outer corner of title page. (1 l.), 48 pp., (1 l.) $1,600.00

Second or later edition [?] of the 1833 constitution, issued the same year by the same press in the same format as the first edition. We have compared this to another quarto edition which is a very close but different setting of type to the present one. Our reason for assigning the other quarto edition priority over this and a folio edition we have seen is that on the verso of the final leaf of the other quarto edition the word "sesiones" stands alone on the final line as a "widow". In the present edition as well as the folio edition the word "sus" has been moved from the end of the penultimate line to the ultimate one, thus eliminating the widow, as any good typographer would have known to do.

Promulgated under the Portales regime, this conservative document gave a very powerful executive all the means necessary to suppress disorder and guarantee stability, but allowed for only a weak legislative branch and a judicial arm appointed by the executive. The Constitution of 1833 remained Chile's governing document until 1925.

Our reason for assigning it priority over two other editions we have seen is that on the verso of the final leaf the word "sesiones" stands alone on the final line as a "widow". In the other two editions the word "sus" has been moved from the end of the penultimate line to the ultimate one, thus eliminating the widow, as any good typographer would have known to do.

Promulgated under the Portales regime, this conservative document gave a very powerful executive all the means necessary to suppress disorder and guarantee stability, but allowed for only a weak legislative branch and a judicial arm appointed by the executive. The Constitution of 1833 remained Chile's governing document until 1925.

35. [CHILE]. Estado que manifiesta la entrada y gastos [sic] que ha tenido la Tesorería General de Santiago en el mes de Junio de 1814. [Santiago de Chile]: n.pr., dated 1 July 1814. Oblong folio (17 x 26.2 cm), unbound. Caption title. Two columns. Light browning. 8.2 x 2.4 cm. rectangular piece cut from blank left margin. In good to very good condition. Broadside.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION: an overview of Chilean finances near the end of the Patria Vieja, while the patriots based in Santiago were struggling against royalists supported by Peruvian troops. Among the expenses are salaries for soldiers and other costs of waging war, plus payments to disabled veterans. The funds are noted as being partly in charge of "ntro. Teniente de Valparaiso."

The account is signed in print by Hipolito de Villegas and Rafael Correa de Sa.

Young Chileans Support New Tax Law

38. [CHILE]. Invitacion que unos Jóvenes Chilenos tan Patriotas como amantes del bien de sus hermanos hacen à estos para que despues de haber olvidado y aun burlado en lo intimo de sus corazones la triste rutina de miserables macsimas, invoquen la sancion de la Ley que sábiamente el digno Ciudadano José Miguel Infante propuso à la Nacion representada, el 7 de enero en el siguiente. Proyecto de Ley. [text begins:] Queda abolida la subasta de los Diezmos .... [Santiago de Chile]: n.pr., dated 7 January 1825. Folio (28.5 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Light browning. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Five-line annotation at the end comments on the proposed law. Broadside. $900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A group of young Chileans ("Un Sociedad de Jóvenes Republicanos") invites their compatriots to support a new tax law proposed on January 7, 1825 by José Miguel Infante, the text of which is reproduced here.

Infante (1778-1844) was one of the few residents of colonial Chile to be well versed in the sort of Enlightenment philosophers who had been forbidden under Spanish rule. An early proponent of independence, he became one of the foremost political theorists in the new nation. Under José Miguel Carrera he was regent for the Junta Gobernativa and under O'Higgins was briefly secretary of the Treasury. Soon he turned against O'Higgins and helped force the latter's resignation in 1823. As a judge in the superior court, Infante abolished slavery in Chile. From November 1825 to March 1826, he served as Chile's supreme director.

In 1826, when the Constitution of 1823 was abrogated, Senator Infante laid before Congress a scheme to turn Chile's government from a strong central government to a loose federation, on the model of the United States. Infante and his supporters managed to pass a group of laws that gave Chile a federal organization, circumventing the constitutional assembly. The result was a chaotic but short-lived interregnum known as "The Anarchy." The constitutional assembly dissolved itself in 1827 and a new constitution was approved the following year. Infante refused to acknowledge the Constitution of 1828 and largely retired from public life.

Considerando atentamente las utilidades que resultan á los Pueblos de la rebaxa de los reditos, dice el Genovesi (*), nos venceremos de que esta operacion egecutada sin respeto alguno al interés privado, es la mas sensata. En efecto, él demuestra la justicia y conveniencia con razones tan solidas, que lo que era problematico en tiempo de Lock, es hoy una verdad para los economistas y los que no lo son. A sus principios y reflexiones politicas se puede agregar otras deducidas de la Historia sagrada y profana. Con la luz de esta, vemos en las Republicas de Grecia y Roma subir ó baxar los intereses del dinero, segun las varias circunstancias en que se hallaban: vemos frecuentes quejas, tumultos y guerras intestinas, con que el Pueblo escaso de fundos y estos recargados, agoviado de deudas y tiranizado con usuras, pensó librarse de acreedores inhumanos; de allí los proyectos de comunidad de bienes, LL. agrarias

Caption title. Printed on pale blue paper. In good to very good condition. 16 pp. $1,600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In November 1818, Supreme Director Bernardo O'Higgins declared that because the expenses of the war had weighed heavily on landowners, landowners would only be required to pay 3% interest (not 5%) on borrowed money. The decree is quoted in full here (pp. 3-4). The loans were mostly from ecclesiastical funds, and the anonymous author of this pamphlet recounts the Church's objections to this reduction in interest. He ends by speculating what will happen to the Church and its representatives in Chile once the war is over.

Folio (31.5 x 20 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Uncut. A few short marginal tears. In very good to fine condition. (1 l.) $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The law decrees that the estanco is to be transferred to the Treasury, for a period as long as Congress wills, and sets out the mechanism by which implementation and accounting are to be transferred to government officials. The law is signed (in print) by José Miguel Infante, who had recently (November 1825 to March 1826) served as Chile's supreme director, and at this time was a member of the Senate. The decree immediately following is signed (again in print) by Eyzaguirre.

The estanco (monopoly) for trade in tobacco, tea, foreign liquor, and playing cards was originally granted to Portales, Cía y Compañía, founded by Diego Portales (1793-1837), a member of a prominent merchant family in Santiago. In return for the monopoly, the company serviced Chile's foreign debt. Unfortunately the government was unable effectively to control such trade, and the company went bankrupt. Its memory lingered in the name of Portales's conservative followers, known as estanqueros.

In the 1830s, Portales, as leader of the conservatives and a proponent of a strong central government, was the power behind the president. Since he was largely responsible for the Chilean Constitution of 1833, his political beliefs remained influential for another century.

Gallardo, dated 30 May 1813. 4°, disbound. Caption title. Light soiling on final leaf. Good to very good condition. (1), 9 pp. $2,400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this substantial and fascinating explanation of why it was proper for the Chilean patriots to commandeer, arm, and use in battle the Portuguese ship Fama, which was carrying wheat to the British. The seizure is justified (with legal precedents) on the grounds that it was "indispensable para salvar la existencia politica del Estado." On pp. 1-3 the authors list the offenses committed by José Fernando Abascal, viceroy of Peru, who had invaded southern Peru in early 1813 and was aided by Chileans who favored royal rule over independence.

The Manifiesto is addressed to the prince regent of Portugal, the king of Great Britain, and Lord Strangford. It is signed in print by Francisco Antonio Perez as president,

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The cabinetmakers of Chile (led by José del Tránsito Cárdenas, Jorje Gaskill and Valentin Pages) submitted a petition to Congress asking for protection against imported furniture. Although a committee comprised of Luis Ovalle, José Ignacio Larrain, and Manuel R. Bascañan agreed that the artisans had a valid complaint, the petition was lost in the system. Here one of its authors complains that "siempre la Cámara está ocupada de otras cosas mas importantes, como proyectos del Supremo Gobierno, la aprobacion de rentas etc.," but warns of evil effects to come: "Si no se piensa en establecer algunas nuevas fábricas, y en proteger las que felizmente existen, los hijos de los pobres, se dedicarán sin duda al hurto, al juego, y demas vicios, que al fin ya jeneralizados, será imposible desarraigarlos."

FIRST EDITION. This seems to be the first set of customs regulations for independent Chile. The "Memoria" (pp. i-vii) announces a new system for customs collection that will cover all imports, and summarizes the anticipated effects. The main text sets out the rules for imports that come by sea or overland and at Valparaiso (a free port). #### Finances in the Patria Vieja

47. [CHILE]. Estado que manifiesta la entrada y gastos que ha tenido la Tesoreria [sic] General de Santiago en el mes de Febrero de 1814. [Santiago de Chile]: n.pr., dated 28 February 1814. Oblong folio (21.5 x 26.5 cm), disbound. Caption title. Two columns. Foldlines. Small tear in blank margin. In good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink ("120-121"). Broadside. $1,600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION: an overview of Chilean finances near the end of the Patria Vieja, while the patriots based in Santiago were struggling against royalists supported by Peruvian troops. Among the income listed are goods (or profits?) belonging to residents of Lima, which were presumably confiscated. Among the expenses are salaries for soldiers and other costs of waging war, plus payments to disabled veterans and to widows of soldiers. The funds are noted as being partly in charge of "ntro. Teniente de Valparayso."

The account is signed in print by Santiago Ascacibar Murube.

Neither Medina nor Briseño notes the misspelling of the word "Tesoreria" in the title.

* Briseño I, 140. Cf. Medina Santiago de Chile 70 (14 x 21 cm.; surely a different edition). OCLC: 55284195 and 55284137 (both Biblioteca Nacional de Chile). Not located in CCPBE. Not located in Rebiun. Not located in Jisc. Not located in KVK (51 databases searched).

48. [CHILE]. Estado que manifiesta la entrada y gastos que ha tenido la Tesoreria General de Santiago en el mes de Mayo de 1814. [Santiago de Chile]: n.pr., dated 1 June 1814. Oblong folio (19.9 x 28.5 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Two columns. Light browning. In very good condition. Broadside. $1,900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION: an overview of Chilean finances near the end of the Patria Vieja, while the patriots based in Santiago were struggling against royalists supported by Peruvian troops. Among the income listed are goods (or profits?) belonging to residents of Lima, which were presumably confiscated, and money returned from

Rancagua for buying material for the army. Among the expenses are salaries for soldiers and other costs of waging war, as well as payments to disabled veterans and to widows of soldiers. The funds are noted as being partly in charge of "nuestro Teniente de Valparaiso."

The account is signed in print by Hipolito de Villegas and Rafael Correa de Sa.

Latest on Activities of the Quillota Mutineers

49. [CHILE]. Noticias de Valparaiso y Quillota ... [text begins:] Una fuerza de 300 infantes y 50 hombres de caballería enviada por los sublevados de Quillota llegó ... Santiago de Chile: Imprenta de la Opinion, dated 5 June 1837. Folio (27.8 x 18.7 cm.), disbound. Woodcut ornament below caption title. In good to very good condition. Broadsheet. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. An up-to-the-hour report on the activities of the mutineers at Quillota, who had sent a force of 300 infantry and 50 cavalry to gather munitions, but had withdrawn at sight of the Valdivia battalion. Rumors were circulating that only the officers had wanted to mutiny and that many foot soldiers were deserting during the retreat. Diego Portales, Necochea, and Commandant Garcia are reported to be in Santo Domingo, in the hands of the brother of the leader of the mutineers, Colonel José Vidaurre.

Soothing the Residents of Concepción

50. [CHILE]. Proclama del Gobierno. [text begins:] Provincia de Concepcion: habeis sufrido todos los males consiguientes a una guerra inopinada .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta del Estado, dated 8 November 1813. 4°, disbound. Caption title. Short tear in upper margin. In good to very good condition. 3 pp. $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The government assures the residents of the province of Concepción that it is reimbursing as quickly as possible those whom certain junior army officers had robbed. To those living in occupied provinces, it also points out the benefits for trade, government and defense that will result from being free of Spain, and urges the residents to join the fight for independence. Events in Mexico and Buenos Aires are referred to briefly. Printed at the end: "Sala del gobierno en el quartel general de Talca y Nobiembre 8 de 1813. Jose Miguel Infante—Agustin Eysaguirre—Jose Ignacio Cienfuegos—Mariano Egaña secretario."

Un ciudadano a sus compatriotas sobre federacion y gobiernos electivos.

Entre los infinitos grados de estension ó limitaciones que admite la federacion, dos pueden considerarse como mas sustanciales. 1.º Cuando los Pueblos federados se constituyen independientes, y soberanos. 2.º Cuando formando una sola masa nacional y dependientes de un solo gobierno, se reservan gran parte de su administracion departamental, y aun establecen Asambleas administradoras y conservadoras de las facultades, y atenciones departamentales. La primera llamaremos federacion Soberana; la segunda, federacion municipal. La Nacion Chilena podrá elegir la que le convenga. Pero es preciso que proceda con perfecto conocimiento de sus intereses y libre de dos ilusiones con que algunos tratan de fascinarla.

1.º Le dicen que con la federacion existirá mayor igualdad entre los ciudadanos, mas popularidad de elecciones, y menos dependencia de la capital: que podrán establecer sus tribunales de justicia, departamentos de educacion, policia, amonedacion, y demas admaistraciones provinciales. Sepan los Chilenos (que no se hallen versados en estas materias) que sin ninguna clase de federacion pueden criar y gozar todos estos tribunales y establecimientos en sus Provincias como se practica en los departamentos aun de los reinos mas despóticos. Que en ninguna constitucion se les puede privar de estas instituciones si tienen como costearlas, y que en la Unitaria deben erigirse en las Provincias ricas. Sepan tambien que en el sistema democrático representativo unitario y consolidado no puede existir desigualdad de derechos y prerrogativas entre ningunos ciudadanos por motivos que se hallen: que la popularidad y generalidad de las elecciones debe ser la misma ó mayor que en el sistema federal: que no puede haber capitalismo cuando las elecciones son nacionales verificadas inmediata y directamente por toda la masa de los Pueblos; que mas capitalismo debe existir en la constitucion de Estados Unidos v. g. donde todos los empleos Nacionales se nombran por el Presidente ó Senado (á escepcion del mismo Presidente y Vice-presidente que tampoco le nombra el Pueblo) que en la constitucion chilena de 23 donde todos los principales empleos nacionales los elegian directamente desde el primero hasta el último ciudadano de la República; y los provinciales todos

Includes Comparisons of Chile to Argentina and the United States

51. Un ciudadano a sus compatriotas sobre federacion y gobiernos electivos. [text begins:] Entre los infinitos grados de estension ó limitaciones que admite la federacion, dos pueden considerarse como mas sustanciales .... [Colophon] (Santiago de Chile): Imprenta de la Biblioteca, (1827). Folio (30.5 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Some soiling and stains on final leaf, without loss of text. Overall in good condition. (2 ll.) $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Part of a lengthy debate over whether Chile should have a strong central government or a looser, federalist structure. After comparing Chile's status with the United States and Argentina, the anonymous author concludes that Chile has neither the funds nor the local bureaucrats required to manage nearly sovereign provinces.

52. Un Ciudadano al Congreso. Soberano Señor. [text begins:] Cuando inflamada vuestra soberanía de aquel espíritu heroico que distingue al ciudadano amante de la prosperidad publica .... (Santiago de Chile): Imprenta de la Biblioteca, dated 8 November 1826. Folio (29.3 x 19 cm.), disbound (separated at fold). Caption title. Good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author ("Un habitante del campo") praises a law of July 29, 1826, that abolished "proratas," but gives a vividly detailed account of an incident at Quillota (near Valparaiso) when the law was disregarded by officials who were commandeering horses for government use. Higher-ranking officials were unable or unwilling to enforce the law, and fighting broke out. This seems to be an illustration of the sort of anarchy that was occurring in Chile in this period when it lacked a strong central government.

German Immigrants Concerned about Right to Marry Catholics

53. [CLARO, Ricardo]. Proyecto de lei sobre el matrimonio civil. (Signed at Concepción [Chile]): n.pr., dated 25 August 1866. 8°, modern plain wrappers. Caption title. Text in two columns. Lacks title page? Overall in good to very good condition. 68 pp. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Pages 1-63 are the Proyecto, presented to the Chilean Congress and signed by the deputy from Concepción, Ricardo Claro. Pages 65-68 contain the essay "Matrimonio civil, solicitud de los disidentes de Llanquihue e Valdivia," with 49 names at the end (mostly German). The petitioners argue that making marriage of a non-Catholic to a Catholic require special permission negates the clause in the Chilean Constitution that guarantees equality for all citizens. They cite 3 cases in which the law has already interfered with marriages of German immigrants, and warn that this sort of legislation will discourage immigrants from Europe.

In the aftermath of the failed German Revolution of 1848, many Germans emigrated to Chile, encouraged by the Chilean government that wanted to colonize the underpopulated areas of the south. By 1860 more than 3,000 Germans had settled in the Araucanía Region, the Los Ríos Region, and the Región de los Lagos, with concentrations in the Lake Llanquihue area and Puerto Montt. Many of these Germans were Roman Catholics, but some were Protestants.

Folio (29 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Light foxing. Overall in good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.)

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A scathing reply to Victorino Garrido's Defeza; the latest document here is dated October 5, 1827. The author points out that Garrido did not mention who insulted him (it was Governor Francisco de la Lastra) or on what grounds; that only 16 of the guests signed documents supporting Garrido (of 40-60 guests who attended); and that the governor is a notably polite man for whom insulting behavior would be most unusual. Garrido, he asserts, made toasts that were "tan impuros, tan sucios y tan indecentes, que nos degradariamos en sumo grado si los publicasemos por la prensa," and takes this as a sign that Garrido is one of "estos decantados liberales españoles, que no ceden á la pretencion de dominarnos."

Garrido (1779-1864), born in Spain, disembarked at Talcahuano in 1818 to fight the Chilean rebels, but shortly after defected to fight with Bernardo O'Higgins. He became a friend and counselor to O'Higgins and to other important figures in the early years of Chile's independence, including José Joaquín Prieto, Diego Portales, and Manuel Bulnes. Garrido was a journalist and a diplomat, and a soldier again in the campaign against Peru in 1838, under Manuel Bulnes. From 1837-1843 and in 1846, 1849, and 1852 he served as deputy in the Chilean Congress, and from 1855-1864 as senator.

AL INDEPENDIENTE.

SANTIAGO JUNIO 4 DE 1821.

Muy Señor mio: cuando leí por la primera vez el núm. 1.º del periódico de V. me pareció que aquella maxima estampada en el mismo, „la ley debe tener proporcion á la ilustracion de los pueblos, destruía enteramente todo cuanto V. quiso persuadirnos en órden á que mudemos nuestro actual gobierno, y adoptemos otro fundado sobre los principios mas liberales, y tal como lo tienen los Estados Unidos de la América del norte. Por eso omití entonces responder á V.; pero al leerlo segunda vez, con motivo de la contestacion que dió á V. el Republicano de Melipilla, he notado tantas equivocaciones en las noticias que nos comunica del estado de Europa, y tantos errores en las consecuencias que saca de ellas, que no puedo menos de discutir amigablemente con V. las unas, y rectificar las otras por lo que pueda importar á nuestros conciudadanos. Perdone V. pues, si encuentra en esta carta alguna expresion que no le agrade, y vamos al caso.

No le diré á V. que es mui elocuente la descripción que nos hace del estado actual de la España. Apenas entiendo el idioma en que V. escribe, y no puedo juzgar de las bellezas de su estilo; pero si le diré, que es tan

58. Contestacion al Independiente. Santiago Junio 4 de 1821. [text begins:] Muy Señor mio: cuando leí por la primera vez el núm. 1º del periódico de V. me pareció que aquella maxima estampada en el mismo, "la ley debe tener proporcion á la ilustracion de los pueblos," destruia enteramente todo cuanto V. quiso persuadirnos .... (Santiago de Chile): n.pr., dated 4 June 1821. 4°, disbound. Caption title. Uncut. Good to very good condition. 19 pp. $1,200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? This substantial pamphlet examines the European political situation, particularly the actions of the Cortes in Spain (pp. 4-6), the opposition of the czar of Russia to the liberalization of Spain (pp. 4-6), events in Portugal (pp. 7-8), and rebellions across Europe. The writer prefaces his analysis of Chile's foreign and internal affairs by denying that Chile can use the same model as the United States: "El ejemplo del gobierno americano seduce en efecto, por su prosperidad, por que se piensa dice el ilustre Bolívar en su discurso inaugural al congreso de Venezuela que las bendiciones de que goza aquel pueblo son debidas exclusivamente á la forma de gobierno y no al carácter y costumbres de los ciudadanos. Este pernicioso error es el que ha causado las desgracias de todas las repúblicas americanas donde se ha querido establecer aquel gobierno" (pp. 9-10). Chile, he continues, needs reform of its laws, but for its constitution should stick with the status quo. (A new constitution went into effect in 1822, replacing the provisional constitution of 1818.)

The work is signed in print "Un Chileno."

59. Contestacion de un Cabo 20. del ejercito Constitucional al oficio de la nombrada Municipalidad de Rancagua fecha 11 del presente mes de Noviembre. Santiago de Chile: Imprenta Republicana, dated 18 November 1829. Folio (30 x 20.3 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Folded; adhesive from circular tag remains in upper inner corner of first leaf recto. In good to very good condition. Stamp of Luís Sotomayor B. in blank portion of first leaf. (3 pp.). $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION (?). The anonymous corporal defends himself and his fellow soldiers against Manuel Casimiro Gandarillas, who had charged that they were "militares imbeciles acaudillados por tres miserables advenedizos soldados mercenarios." He ferociously attacks Gandarillas, Fernando Baquedano, Pedro Urriola, Alejo Calbo, Francisco Ruiz Tagle, and Chillanejo Rodriguez, giving the family history and worst deeds of each in lengthy footnotes. In September 1829 a coalition of conservatives, aided by the army in Concepción, had launched a revolt against the liberal regime. In the ensuing Chilean Civil War of 1829, the author of this pamphlet was fighting on the side of the liberals.

Printed on bluish paper. Caption title. In verse. In fine condition. 4 pp. $900.00

FIRST EDITION [?]. There appears to be another edition of about the same time, but probably slightly later, also without imprint (but in all likelihood printed in Peru), as well as a 16° edition.

This is a reply, in verse, to Despedida de las Chilenas al Ejercito Libertador del Peru (cf. Briseño I, 1010). The Chilean expedition to liberate Peru from Spanish rule set out from Valparaiso on 20 August 1820. The text refers (p. 2) to the fact that Chile has been fighting for independence for ten years: "Este Chile, mansion de tantos bravos, / Que para sostener su Independencia / Aún empeñan la lucha de diez años ...".

* Briseño I, 76. OCLC: present edition apparently not listed in OCLC: cf. 55295260 (John Carter Brown Library, Biblioteca Nacional de Chile, listing it as [Peru, n.pr.], giving the date as 1800-1820?); 55241167 (Biblioteca Nacional de Chile, 34 cm., giving the date as the 1820s); and 460686383 (Bibliothèque nationale de France, 16°, n.pr., n.d.). # DEL PERÚ

¡ Que terrible contraste,
O dulce Patria amada,
La Expedición deseada
Causa en el corazón!
Ya es tiempo de cumplirse
Tu orden irrevocable:
La Libertad amable
Lúida con el amor.
...; Amor! ; Patria!... marchad:
Marchad, bravos Guerreros,
Y volved los primeros,
Y volved vencedores
A que la gratitud y los amores
Os ciñan la corona merecida
Do innarrable honor, solo devida
A los Héroes de la Libertad..
Silencio amor... marchad.
Defensores de Chile
Corred á la victoria,
Y volved con la gloria
Que os adquiera el valor.
El cobarde que ceda
A menos noble empeño
Vea siempre ardo el ceño
De la Diosa de amor.
... Si Guerreros... marchad..
Nuestro sexo os empuja:
Y el alma entera lidia
Con tanta violencia
Entre el amor, la Patria, y la impotencia
De nuestra débil mano, que esmerada
Texará la guirnalda preparada
A los Héroes de la Libertad.
Silencio amor... marchad.
He Cuzco y Maypo
¿ Quien el triunfo ha olvidado ?

¿ Quien el denado osado
Que inspira la virtud?
¿ Cobardía? ..; O que infamia!
¿ Que cosa es cobardía?
Ella cupo algun dia
En los hijos del Sud?
... Hijos del Sud = marchad:
Y es infame mas fuego
Que aquel que el amor ciego
En el corazón prende,
La cara Patria vuestro ardor enciende
Eunudezan los torpes, los profanos,
Y atónitos se hucillen los Tiranos
A los Héroes de la Libertad.
Silencio amor... marchad.
Que no libre la Esposa
Ni la Madre querida
Quando se le despida
El dueño de su amor
¿ Morirá? ..; Dulce muerte
Bendecida del Cielo!
En ti misera el consuelo
Presentas al dolor.
... No hay llanto, no; marchad
Salvad al oprimidos
Y que el Perú روندido
A la Causa sagrada
Y á la amistad por Chile acreditada,
Suba al rango á que Chile se ha elevado,
Y la naturaleza los señalado
A los Héroes de la Libertad.
Silencio amor... marchad
Ciudadanos ¿ que os falta?
Por nuestra parte nada
No hay cosa reservada
A tan vizarra accion.

Tollo (in the cordillera) and persuaded to sign a document that gave her worldly goods to a much younger woman, Maria del Carmen Quintano. Meri later revoked the donation. The lawyer reviewing the case argues that Quintano unscrupulously manipulated Meri and that although Meri had filed for a divorce from her husband, Dionisio Bravo, the divorce had not been finalized so Meri could not donate her property without the husband's consent. The lawyer also argues that women should never be allowed to make legal decisions such as this donation, due to "inesperencia, debilidad, falta de instruccion en sus derechos."

Folio (31 x 21.5 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Uncut. In fine condition. (2 ll.) $500.00

In the 1820s, Chileans engaged in an ongoing dispute over whether the nation should have a strong central government or should be a loose confederation of provinces. This proposal includes lists of what the provincial assemblies will be allowed to do and what they are restricted from doing. Among the provincial powers are supervising education, electing certain judges, disbursing pensions, and organizing provincial militias. Among the actions forbidden to such assemblies are setting restrictions on trade, engaging in foreign affairs, maintaining warships, and granting sanctuary to those wanted for crimes in other provinces.

The document bears the printed signatures of Diego Antonio Elizondo, Francisco R. de Vicuña, Juan Fariñas, and J.M. Novoa.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Sets out the terms under which Portales, Cía will have a monopoly for trade in tobacco, tea, foreign liquor, and playing cards. Diego Portales (1793-1837), born into a prominent merchant family in Santiago, established Portales Cía y Compañía in 1821, with branches in Valparaiso and Lima. The company was granted a monopoly (estanco) on trade in tobacco, tea, liquor, and playing cards, in return for which they serviced Chile's foreign debt. Unfortunately the government was unable effectively to control such trade, and the company went bankrupt. Its memory lingered in the name of Portales's conservative followers, known as estanqueros.

In the 1830s, Portales, as leader of the conservatives and a proponent of a strong central government, was the power behind the president. Since he was largely responsible for the Chilean Constitution of 1833, his political beliefs remained influential for another century.

The first document is signed (in print) by Francisco Xavier de Errazuris and Domingo Eyzaguirre; the second (also in print) by Supreme Director Ramón Freire and Minister of Finance Diego José Benavente.

68. Esposicion que dirijen al Supremo Gobierno de la Republica los armadores i navieros nacionales, esponiendo la situacion de la marina mercante, i proponiendo medidas dirigidas a su proteccion i fomento. Valparaiso: Imprenta del Mercurio, 1845. Folio (26.5 x 17.5 cm.), disbound (traces of early wrappers). Small woodcut vignette of ships' stores on title page. Good to very good condition. 24 pp., (2 ll.) $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In an 1845 address to the Chilean legislature (quoted on p. 3), President Manuel Bulnes lamented Chile's lack of a merchant marine. In this document Chilean ship owners propose ways that the government can improve the situation. They urge that in order to be considered part of the merchant marine, a ship must be built in Chile, wholly owned by Chileans, have a Chilean captain, and have a crew that is predominantly Chilean. The owners suggest that in order to keep a larger merchant marine busy, a law should be passed that goods produced on the west side of the Americas can only be delivered to Chilean ports by Chilean ships, and that the merchant marine be given a monopoly on the salt trade. If such measures are passed, Chile will dominate the Pacific and the Strait of Magellan, and will not even have to fear a canal through Panama (p. 21).

The tables at the end list ships by type (frigate, bark, brigantine, schooner) with the name, weight, and country of origin (or port within Chile).

In the period of stability and peace following the War of the Confederation, President Manuel Bulnes (held office 1841-1851) encouraged educational, cultural, and industrial expansion. The University of Chile was founded in Santiago in 1842 and the settlement of Fuerte Bulnes was established in 1843, to enforce Chilean sovereignty over the Strait of Magellan.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this substantial overview of the state of Chile after the War of Independence, including the state of the public treasury, foreign affairs, the navy, and the army. The signers were the members of the Junta de Gobierno (Agustín de Eyzaguirre, José Miguel Infante, Fernando Errázuriz, plus its secretary, Mariano Egaña), who after O'Higgins abdicated on January 28, 1823, were given control of the government until General Ramón Freire arrived in Santiago in late March. ## SEÑORES DIPUTADOS.

La reunion de los Representantes del Pueblo en esta augusta Asamblea, es el momento suspirado de la Patria para aplicar remedios á los terribles males que la afligen; y jamás Gobierno alguno se vió en circunstancias de desearla con tan ardiente empeño como la Junta Gubernativa en la crisis actual. Vosotros vais, señores, á restablecer la Nación, que desgracias que no era facil preveer amagan reducir á la nada. Seis años de un gobierno coronado en todas sus empresas con sucesos felices, respetado entre los extraños, y temido al menos en nuestro territorio, habian dado al Directorio pasado todo el poder de hacer bien. Al impetu de las armas, y á la exaltacion de pasiones que acompaña los primeros momentos de toda revolucion, habia sucedido la calma de la paz. El pueblo conocia, que sus derechos no consistian en el uso de un poder ilimitado, y ejercido aisladamente que podia precipitarle en la anarquía; y que su sólida felicidad estaba en el orden y en establecerse instituciones garantas, que bajo el imperio de las Leyes le defendiesen de la arbitrariedad. Pero por una desventura que acompaña al lado de las Naciones, faltó tino para hacer el bien al Gobierno que mejor pudo hacerlo. El descontento público rompió la barrera de la opresion, y agitadas las pasiones en este impetuoso choque contra el anterior gobierno, amagan males, que si no se evitan antes del término en que lleguen á ser irremediables, sumirian á la Patria en el sepulcro, llevando tras sí el recuerdo de doce años de gloria y de sacrificios perdidos. A vosotros, pues, Padres del Pueblo se encarga alejar la confusion, la desorganizacion, el deshonor de la Patria. Este es el preciso y el grande objeto con que sois llamados. La Junta no teme decirlo. Chile nunca se vió en crisis mas peligrosa. Nuestra revolucion presenta vicisitudes en que casi se han cometido todos los errores é inadvertencias de que es capaz el espíritu humano; mas en un Gobierno siempre concentrado, y en la estrecha union de todos sus hijos, oprimia la Patria un dique á las desgracias que iban á inundarla. Hoy por la primera vez amenaza el grito de desunion, y esta voz mas que á los oidos debe herir el corazon de los Patriotas. La prudencia, un generoso desprendimiento de intereses subalternos que nada son delante del bien general del Estado, y los principios de la mas exacta igualdad y justicia, evitarán los desordenes, las divisiones que van á hacer á los pueblos maldecir la hora en que salieron de su tranquila esclavitud.

Luego se cumplirán dos meses á que el voto de nuestros conciudadanos nos llamó á encargarnos de la Administración pública, y no ha pasado un día de este corto período, que no haya sido señalado con alguna circunstancia que agrabase la amargura de nuestro

Ni los tres, ni alguno de nosotros nos consideramos capaces de llevar al termino el triunfo del órden” (p. 8).

Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title page. Clean and crisp. In good to very good condition. 48 pp. A-F<sup>4</sup>.

First and Only Edition in Portuguese of a work originally published in Paris the previous year under title: Documens relatifs au commerce des nouveaux états de l’Amerique, concerning the commercial products of Mexico and South America. There are sections on Mexico (pp. 5-21); Colombia (pp. 21-6); Peru (pp. 27-31); Chile (pp. 32-7); Buenos Aires (pp. 37-42); and Brazil (pp. 42-6). The report on Brazil correctly notes that England has secured the greatest part of the Brazilian trade, with The United States of America being second due to the increased importance of her shipping; it is further noted that the U.S.A. is transporting large amounts of goods from Portugal to Brazil in her ships. On pp. 47-8 is a letter from the President of the Tribunal of Commerce in Bayonne stating that since Brazil is now independent, French silks can be sent there, but they have to be manufactured according to certain stated sizes, and the colors must be sky blue, white, green, red, or violet. There is much discussion of tariffs, regulations and products, as well as suggestions for French products which could be imported. The Portuguese translator explains that he translated these reports in order to help the Portuguese merchants.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In documents dated from September 20 to October 5, 1827, sixteen guests confirm that Garrido behaved like a perfect gentleman at the Independence Day banquet, and did nothing to provoke the insults that were offered to him. The nature of the insults and the identity of the speaker are not mentioned; from another document, we know that the speaker was Governor Francisco de la Lastra.

Garrido (1779-1864), born in Spain, disembarked at Talcahuano in 1818 to fight the Chilean rebels, but shortly afterwards defected to fight with Bernardo O'Higgins. He became a friend and counselor to O'Higgins and to other important figures in the early years of Chile's independence: José Joaquín Prieto, Diego Portales, and Manuel Bulnes. Garrido was a journalist, a diplomat, and a soldier (fighting in the campaign against Peru in 1838 under Manuel Bulnes). From 1837-1843 and in 1846, 1849, and 1852 he served as deputy in the Chilean Congress, and from 1855-1864 as senator.

Folio (30.2 x 20.4 cm.), unbound. Some small chips from left margin, foldmarks. In very good condition. Broadside. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Garrido's answer to insulting comments and writings by Muñoz Bezanilla, a fervent liberal politician and publicist who had been responding to perceived libels against him that appeared in the periodical Hambriento, which he thought Garrido had helped write.

Garrido (1779-1864), born in Spain, disembarked at Talcahuano in 1818 to fight the Chilean rebels, but shortly after defected to fight with Bernardo O'Higgins. He became a friend and counsellor to O'Higgins and to other important figures in the early years of Chile's independence: José Joaquín Prieto, Diego Portales and Manuel Bulnes. He was a journalist, a diplomat, and a soldier (fighting in the campaign against Peru in 1838 under Manuel Bulnes). From 1837-1843 and in 1846, 1849, and 1852 he served as deputy in the Chilean Congress, and from 1855-1864 as senator.

José Santiago Muñoz Bezanilla (ca. 1780-1836), a native of Santiago, was involved in the Chilean independence movement as early as 1811, when he helped suppress the Figueroa Mutiny. After Rancagua he was exiled by the Spaniards to the Juan Fernández islands, returning only after the Battle of Maipú in 1818. As a liberal, he wrote for El Pipiolo and El Monitor Araucano, and several times during the 1820s served in Congress. He also helped promulgate the Constitution of 1828, and under President Francisco Ramón Vicuña was secretary of War and the Navy.

Internally fine; overall in good condition (needs binding). (3 ll.), 295 pp.; (3 ll.), 303 pp.; (4 ll.), 304 pp., each volume with a lithographic frontispiece. 3 volumes. $250.00

First and only Dutch translation of Gerstäcker's recently published Achtzehn Monate in Süd-Amerika und dessen deutschen Colonien. The collection, describing the author's eighteen months in South America, includes chapters on Ecuador, Quito, Guayaquil, Peru, the Amazon River, the route from Callao to Valparaiso and from there to Valdivia, Patagonia, Cape Horn, and Uruguay. The lengthy section on Brazil (III, 130-287) mentions Porto Alegre, Rio Grande, Santa Catarina, and Rio de Janeiro.

Gerstäcker (1816-1872), novelist and travel writer, son of a famous opera singer, left his native Germany at age 21 to wander through the United States. Upon his return 6 years later he found that his mother's publication of his New World sketches had made him famous. From 1849 to 1852 Gerstäcker visited North and South America, Polynesia, and Australia. In 1860, with German immigration in mind, he revisited South America, recording his observations in this work, published in 1863. Gerstäcker left 44 volumes of published works that were quite influential: his short story Germelshausen was adopted as the plot of the musical Brigadoon (1954).

Baird and Sir Home Popham*, originally published in Leeds, 1818. It contains a description of Rio de la Plata and Buenos Aires, with accounts of Montevideo, the Banda Oriental, and Chile at the end.

In 1806 Sir Henry Popham (without Admiralty approval) sailed a fleet to Buenos Aires and captured it with ease, aided by General William Beresford and 1,400 soldiers. Led by a French officer (the Spanish were at the time allied to Napoleon's regime), the Creole inhabitants forced the British to surrender. Gillespie, a major in the Royal Marines, was one of those captured; in this work he recounts his experiences as a prisoner of war in Buenos Aires and the interior.

First Edition in English. Peru justifies its participation in the War of the Pacific (1879-1833), between Bolivia and Peru on one side and Chile on the other. The points of dispute were the mineral-rich provinces of Tarapaca, Tacna and Arica (Peru) and Antofagasta (Bolivia). The war broke out on February 14, 1879 when Chilean troops occupied the port of Antofagasta.

A Million-Pound Loan Essential for Independence

83. IRISSARI, Antonio José de. Emprestito de Chile. (Santiago de Chile): Imprenta de la Opinion, dated 16 May 1833. 4°, recent blind-ruled calf. Woodcut vignette with "RR" monogram on title page. Light browning. Overall in very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.), 49 pp. $600.00

Irisarri's enemies had been attacking him for some time because in 1822, while serving under Bernardo O'Higgins, he had negotiated a loan for Chile of a million pounds sterling. Here he explains the historical context (the need to invade Peru and end the War of Independence) and why the funds could not be raised via taxes. He compares Chile's situation with that of Mexico, Peru, and the United States (pp. 23-25) and refutes all the objections to the loan. Irisarri quotes Say, Tracy, Storch, Necker and Walpole, among others. A table on p. 42 sets out amortization rates over 30 years.

Antonio José de Irisarri (Guatemala, 1786-New York, 1868), one of the fathers of Chilean journalism, served as interim supreme director of Chile for a few days in 1814. When this manifesto was issued, he was minister of government and foreign affairs under O'Higgins. After negotiating the Treaty of Paucarpata in 1837, which caused an uproar in Chile, Irisarri was accused of high treason, and prudently took his diplomatic skills to Guatemala, Salvador, Ecuador, and Colombia. In 1855 he became minister to Washington for Guatemala and Salvador, and for many years was dean of the diplomatic corps.

Over the course of decades he was editor-in-chief of periodicals in Santiago, Guayaquil, Quito, Guatemala, Bogotá, Curaçao, and New York. He also published nonfiction works and satirical poetry.

Summary in Favor of Recently Abolished Mayorazgo

84. LARRAIN, Juan Francisco, José Agustín Valdes, Francisco García Huydobro, José Miguel Irrázaval, Manuel José Valdivieso. Exm.º Señor. [text begins:] Cuando en el siglo en que se proclaman tanto las garantías individuales, vemos burladas nuestras esperanzas, quebrantados nuestros derechos, inutilizados nuestros afanes, y destruido para nosotros el principio fundamental de las asociaciones.... N.p.: Imprenta de R. Rengifo, dated 3 August 1828. Folio (29.2 x 19 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Light browning. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript "Nº 7 [?]" at head of first leave. Early manuscript foliation in ink ("108-109"). 4 pp. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. An excellent summary, in flourishing rhetorical style, of arguments in favor of the mayorazgo, which the Congreso Constituyente had just abolished. Among the issues raised are the proper duties of a constitutional convention; the rights of man in society; inheritance in ecclesiastical vs. civil law; the fate of Spanish laws in places where Spaniards no longer rule; the economic need for large tracts of land in agriculture; and the effect of primogeniture in France and England. The signers are members of Chile's most prominent families, many of them with mayorazgos.

The mayorazgo, a form of primogeniture that entailed large estates, preventing them from being dispersed, became part of Castilian law in 1505 and was carried over into Latin America. After Spain suppressed the mayorazgo in 1820 by the Ley Desvinculadora, debate raged between Chilean liberals and conservatives over its abolition. O'Higgins abolished the mayorazgo by a decree of June 1818 that was ignored. The Constitution of 1828 abolished it, too, but it was effectively reinstated by the Constitution of 1833, and not abolished completely until the 1850s, under President Montt.

Proposal for a National Bank

85. LASTARRIA, José Victorino. Proyecto de Lei sobre creacion de un banco nacional, presentado al Congreso. Santiago de Chile: Imprenta del Progreso, dated 6 July 1850. Large 8°, disbound. Small woodcut vignette on title page includes the scales of Justice and crossed torches. Light browning. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript notation ("Nº 35") and foliation in ink ("29-36"). 15 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this proposal by one of Chile's noted liberals for the establishment and operation of a national bank. Lastarria opens, aggressively, with, "La necesidad de un banco en Chile es sentida i confesada por todos, aun por los intereses egoistas que se han pronunciado contra la libertad de industria i contra la planteacion de instituciones de crédito."

José Victorino Lastarria Santander (Rancagua, 1817-Santiago, 1888) helped form the liberal Sociedad Literaria in 1842, which was suppressed after barely a year by conservative President Manuel Bulnes. When the government became even more repressive in 1848, Lastarria joined the Sociedad de la Igualdad, whose goal was to end the rule of Bulnes and overturn the Constitution of 1833. Sent into exile in Lima in 1850, Lastarria returned to participate in the Revolution of 1851 that failed to overturn Manuel Montt's election to the presidency, and had to flee back to Peru. By 1859, he was an important figure in the transition to liberal government and served several times as minister and ambassador. Lastarria's Don Guillermo, a political roman à clef, was the first novel written in Chile.

Los empréstitos extranjeros se levantan con el fin de salvar el pais empeñado en una guerra activa ó con el de abrir canales, caminos ó fundar establecimientos conocidamente ventajosos á la Nacion ....* [Santiago de Chile]: n.pr., dated 24 August 1824. Oblong folio (28.8 x 36 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Printed in two columns. Folded in half, with reinforcement strip added on blank verso for insertion into binding. A few light spots. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript ink "Nº 17" at head of recto; early ink manuscript "39" on verso. Broadside. $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The Chilean government had borrowed an enormous amount to improve canals and roads, but was in such disarray that it had not spent most of the money and was using the loan itself to pay interest. This was a major problem for Portales, Cía y Compañía, which was servicing Chile's foreign debt in exchange for a monopoly on tobacco, foreign liquor, playing cards, and tea. General Ramón Freire and Finance Minister Diego José Benavente ordered that the monopoly of Portales Cía be more strictly enforced. Anyone with these forbidden goods is required to use them within two weeks or turn them over to the government. Only a few subastadores are allowed to grow tobacco in Chile. The decree was circulated by the governor of the province of Santiago, Francisco de la Lastra, whose name is printed at the end along with that of his secretary, Joaquin de Huerta.

Diego Portales (1793-1837), born into a prominent merchant family in Santiago, established Portales Cía y Compañía in 1821. The government was unable effectively to control such trade, and Portales's company went bankrupt. Its memory lingered in the name of Portales's conservative followers, known as estanqueros. In the 1830s, as leader of the conservatives and a proponent of a strong central government, Portales was the power behind the president. Since he was largely responsible for the Chilean Constitution of 1833, his political beliefs remained influential for another century.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. As governor and intendant of the province of Santiago, Lastra chides his compatriots for not surrendering the goods covered by the estanco—i.e., tobacco, tea, liquor, and playing cards, for which the government of Chile had granted a monopoly to Portales, Cía in exchange for having that private company service Chile's external debt.

Francisco de la Lastra (1777-1852) was an early advocate of Chilean independence and in 1814 served briefly as the country's first supreme director, before signing the Treaty of Lircay. Deported to the Juan Fernández Islands from 1814 to 1817, he returned to take up a position as intendant of Santiago. In the absence of Ramón Freire, Lastra was again the supreme director of Chile for a few months in 1823-1824. Lastra later led the liberals in the Civil War of 1829. After being defeated by General Prieto at Ochagavía, he became a judge and was elected to the Camara de Diputados del Congreso Nacional.

Gallardo, dated April 5, 1814. 4°, disbound. Caption title. Light browning. In good to very good condition. 6 pp., (1 blank l.). $2,600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Lastra, supreme director of Chile, explains the plans and precautions instituted by the government. He reassures citizens that whatever happens, Chile will never go back to its former role as a colony: "Ninguno, por estúpido que sea, se persuadirá que si los enemigos ocupasen este Estado nos reduciríamos unicamente al antiguo sistema colonial, y de nulidad política" (p. 1). Reversion to Chile's former status was, in fact, precisely what the royalists (allied with troops sent by the Viceroy of Peru) were fighting for, and what was forced upon Chile after the defeat of O'Higgins at Rancagua in October 1814.

Lastra mentions Quito, Montevideo, and Buenos Aires; he also brings up piracy, the victories of O'Higgins and MacKenna in March 1814, the number of troops and artillery that Chile can put into the field, and the activities of José Miguel Carrera, who in July overthrew Lastra's government.

Lastra reports the news gathered from the British brigantine Macard. First is a list of army officers who had been disgraced by their opposition to General José Antonio Páez during the "Cosiata" in Venezuela, which had begun in mid-1826 and had only recently been ended by Simón Bolívar's intervention. Also mentioned are new ministers chosen in Gran Colombia (modern Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Panama, northern Peru, and northwest Brazil), and the call for a Congreso Estraordinario Constituyente to write a constitution. This resulted in the Convention of Ocaña, whose failure to achieve a compromise among warring parties in Gran Colombia led Bolívar to take over as dictator, and by 1830 to resign and retreat into self-imposed exile.

A number of early manuscript corrections in ink. 38 pp., (1 blank l.). $900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Mackenzie was thrashing out a legal dispute (summarized on pp. 29-34) with Nicolas Peña regarding the Juana Gordon. Here Mackenzie (represented by the British consul) argues that by appealing the Supreme Director's decision to Chile's highest court, Peña has violated Mackenzie's legal guarantees as a British citizen.

The earliest references to the case (per OCLC) are 1824, with this work and Peña's Memoria en que el ciudadano Nicolas Rodriguez Peña justifica sus derechos en la causa con D. Paulino Makensi sobre la cobranza del valor del cargamento [sic] y Buque Juana Gordon. The case dragged on at least until 1838, but no item listed in OCLC is earlier than this one of late 1824.

Nicolás Rodríguez Peña, Mackenzie's opponent, was a hero of the Argentine independence movement: Rodríguez Peña Square in Buenos Aires is named after him. Following the Battle of Chacabuco in 1817, he went into self-imposed exile in Santiago, where he remained until his death in 1853.

LAS reflexiones que V. me hace en su estimable son tan justas, como propias de sus luces y prudencia. Al que no conoce dice, la cuestion de Mayorazgos, y note la alarma que ha producido, pareciera sin duda la mas interesante á la causa nacional. No puede á la verdad calificarse de otro modo, cuando la subsistencia de aquellos se denuncia al Congreso como la mayor plaga de la República; cuando se interrumpen sus angustas funciones, y cuando se pierde miserablemente el tiempo debido á la ley fundamental, al sistema de rentas, y demas ramos de la administracion, en circunstancias que la desorganizacion politica conduce al pais á una guerra civil, y el ejército y los pueblos han perdido la moral. La incesante fatiga en que se tienen las prensas, y los gritos con que se aterra la Sala del Congreso reclamando su estincion, parece igualmente indicar gran importancia en el asunto: el calor sube al extremo, y se presenta la cuestion como el fundamento primordial de la suerte futura de la Patria. V. justamente se ha poseido de la indignacion que afecta á una alma buena cuando conoce las intrigas del interes, en vista de que el objeto de tanto ruido son solo 17 mayorazgos de las calidades que demuestra el borron que le remití. After Spain suppressed the mayorazgo in 1820 by the Ley Desvinculadora, debate raged between liberals and conservatives over its abolition in Chile. O'Higgins abolished the mayorazgo by a decree of June 1818 that was ignored. The Constitution of 1828 abolished it, too, but it was effectively reinstated by the Constitution of 1833, and not abolished completely until the 1850s, under President Montt.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Argues that property rights are inviolable and that since mayorazgos implement an aspect of property rights (the right to bequeath one's property as one pleases), they therefore cannot be abrogated merely for the sake of convenience. The learned Europeans who condemn them do not know that the mayorazgos in Chile differ from primogeniture and that they do not promote an aristocracy. The author further argues that such large estates are not harmful to agriculture, and praises them as promoting capitalism: "Si un capitalista es en los ojos de los economistas la alhaja mas preciosa de un Estado.—Si segun ellos valen mas á la produccion, como á la riqueza pública y particular mil pesos, por ejemplo, puestos en una mano hábil, que las misma cantidad repartida en otros tantos individuos de igual habilidad ... es evidente que estas instituciones que en Chile solo tienden á mantener una moderada acumulacion, llenan todos los objetos que en esta parte puede proponerse un legislador.”

The mayorazgo, a form of primogeniture that prevented large estates from being dispersed, became part of Castilian law in 1505 and was carried over into Latin America. After Spain suppressed the mayorazgo in 1820 by the Ley Desvinculadora, debate raged between Chilean liberals and conservatives over its abolition. O'Higgins abolished the mayorazgo by a decree of June 1818 that was ignored. The Constitution of 1828 abolished it, too, but it was effectively reinstated by the Constitution of 1833, and not abolished completely until the 1850s, under President Montt.

Wood engraving below title of two allegorical figures, one of them Justice. Minor stains. Overall in good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. ii, 19 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The wife of José Santiago Muñoz Bezanilla, a prominent liberal, asks that her husband—exiled without benefit of a trial—be allowed to return to his family. After the defeat of the liberals in the Chilean Civil War of 1829, Muñoz Bezanilla was exiled to the town of Huasco near the Atacama Desert, famous as the driest place on earth. The 14 documents reproduced here are signed by President José Tomás Ovalle, Diego Portales, Fernando Errazuriz, and Mariano Egaña. Dating from July to November 1830, they focus on who sent Muñoz Bezanilla into exile and whether the Constitution of 1828 gave them the authority to do so.

Muñoz Bezanilla (ca. 1780-1836), a native of Santiago, was involved in the Chilean independence movement as early as 1811, when he helped suppress the Figueroa Mutiny. After Rancagua he was exiled by the Spaniards to the Juan Fernández islands, returning only after the Battle of Maipú in 1818. As a liberal, he wrote for El Pipiolo and El Monitor Araucano, and several times during the 1820s served in Congress. He also helped promulgate the Constitution of 1828, and under President Francisco Ramón Vicuña was secretary of War and the Navy.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Like Ramón Estomba (whom he mentions in a footnote), Necochea was mistakenly accused of taking part in a conspiracy to overthrow Bolívar. In October, after 56 days in prison, he was released without having been allowed to defend himself, and was told to leave Peru. "Por lo demas si la Patria nada tiene que agradecerme, yo jamas faltaré á la gratitud debida á cualesquiera servicios particulares que el Libertador me haya hecho."

Mariano Necochea (1792-1849), a native of Buenos Aires who fought in the wars of independence of Argentina, Chile, and Peru, fought at the Battle of Chacabuco (1817) and under Simón Bolívar at the Battle of Junin (1824). The false accusation he rebuts here occurred shortly after he was named director of the Casa de Moneda in Peru. After serving in Montevideo and Chile, he returned to Peru for the final decade of his life.

MANIFIESTO DEL GOBIERNO A LOS PUEBLOS

QUE FORMAN EL ESTADO DE CHILE.

Todos los Pueblos de la tierra tienen un derecho imprescriptible al establecimiento de su libertad; pero pocos consiguen disfrutarla, por que los grandes sacrificios que ella exige, son superiores al terror que inspira el despotismo á las almas debiles. Ellas saben que el primer paso en esta empresa es resolverse á perderlo todo antes que sucumbir en ella; y que para reformar las instituciones políticas de un pueblo, es preciso que la mayor parte renuncie su existencia, abandone sus intereses, pierda su tranquilidad, y comprometa muchas veces su misma reputacion. En el curso de una revolucion calculada para inovar el destino de la mitad del mundo y quizá del mundo entero, es bien difícil que haya un solo individuo que á su turno dexé de pasar por la alternativa de todos aquellos sacrificios. El pueblo Chileno ha conocido yá por su propia experiencia la necesidad de correr este periodo intermedio de escollos y vicisitudes, antes de consolidar las reformas que exige el siglo en que vivimos, y las actuales relaciones del genero humano. Pero ni el quadro de los horrores de una guerra sostenida con ferocidad por el Gobierno Español, ni el peso de las calamidades que causa el choque de las pasiones inexpertas de un pais naciente; nada ha podido hacerle variar los sentimientos que mostró en la celebre revolucion del 18. de septiembre del año diez. Desde aquella epoca hasta el 1. de octubre de 1814. hicimos el primer ensayo de nuestras fuerzas, y pudimos desde luego conocer que ellas eran bastantes para sostener las quejas de un pueblo ofendido, siempre que los conflictos interiores no debilitasen los recursos que debía proporcionar la union de los que estaban animados de un mismo interes, y amenazados de iguales peligros.

Nosotros no podiamos substraernos á esa antigua Ley de la naturaleza que fixa el orden que siguen todos los seres en su organizacion física ó moral. Puestos en marcha hacia nuestro destino empezamos á concebir ideas, formar opiniones, y executar proyectos que al paso que descubrian la tendencia de nuestras miras, manifestaban que no se habia en nuestro arbitrio acertar con la verdad salvando todos los errores, mover las pasiones publicas, y precaver siempre los efectos de su rivalidad; resistir en fin á los enemigos interiores y exteriores, sin que algunas veces fuiesemos que ceder al impulso de la fuerza, ó al plan hostil de sus maniobras. Estas causas obraron de tal modo sobre nuestras combinaciones, que el enemigo triunfó del entusiasmo y de los sacrificios que hizo Chile desde que emprendió la obra de su regeneracion. El Pais cayó nuevamente baxo el yugo Español, y sus habitantes fueron tratados como rebeldes, por que toda revolucion es un crimen, quando el buen éxito no releva la justicia de su causa. La opresion y los ultrages que antes habia sufrido Chile, respecto de las atrocidades de que

Folio (32 x 22 cm.), disbound. Caption title. Uncut. In good to very good condition. 6 pp. $3,000.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this substantial manifesto issued over the printed signatures of Bernardo O'Higgins and Antonio José de Irisarri, barely 3 months after the Battle of Chacabuco had restored Chilean independence and O'Higgins had become head of the government. O'Higgins summarizes the triumph of Chile over Peru and argues that despite the high cost of waging war, Peru must be liberated from Spanish rule before Chile can be truly secure: "Lima no puede substraerse por mas tiempo á la ley general que obedece la America, y es preciso que sus principios se uniformen con los que han proclamado Chile, y las Provincias Unidas." He describes San Martin's exploits in the south and the activities of the Chilean navy. O'Higgins also expresses high hopes for the upcoming congress in Santiago. For the sake of accurate representation at the congress, he will be issuing orders for a nationwide census.

The co-signer, Antonio José de Irisarri (1786-1886), one of the fathers of Chilean journalism, served as interim supreme director of Chile for a few days in 1814. When this manifesto was issued, he was minister of Government and Foreign Affairs under O'Higgins.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? This extremely rare work passionately defending comic theater was published in La Serena, capital of the Coquimbo region in northern Chile. O'Loughlin considers comedies in terms of morality, utility, and convenience, describes the state of drama in Chile (which lacks permanent theaters and schools for aspiring actors), and presents a sweeping historical survey of comedy in France, Rome, Spain, Rio de Janeiro, and ancient Greece. O'Loughlin frequently refers to specific actors.

O'Loughlin was an Irish comic actor who managed Valparaiso's theatrical stock company. In Lima in 1854, he mounted an early dramatic adaptation of Harriet Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin. Preocupaciones is dedicated "A los distinguidos e ilustrados

CONTESTACION

Dada por un antiguo oficial del Perú á un artículo inserto en el Mercurio Peruano núm. 650.

CUANDO la depravacion y mala fé de los malvados, que han calculado sus ventajas sobre la ruina del Perú, llega al extremo de forjar documentos, ó interpretarlos, con el fin de que sean nuevamente aberrojados los peruanos, nos será permitido presentar aquí las pruebas de esa maldad. En el número 650 del Mercurio Peruano se inserta un tratado hecho en Guayaquil á 18 de marzo de 1823 entre los jenerales Portocarrero y Paz del Castillo, y ratificado en 6 de abril y 2 de junio del mismo año. De él se quiere deducir un derecho á Colombia para expatriar á los soldados peruanos que reemplazasen las bajas durante la campana del Perú.

Siendo el asunto de reemplazos el principal motivo hostensible que dió mérito á la guerra declarada por parte de Colombia, no era posible que ese gobierno al presentar este documento al del Perú hubiese omitido la ratificacion que ahora publican sus agentes secretos en Lima. Esa ratificacion, y mas que todo la siniestra interpretacion que le dan, ponía la cuestion á favor de Colombia, y por consiguiente habria evitado las repetidas discusiones y numerosas notas entre el ministerio de relaciones exteriores de Colombia y el señor Villa, ministro plenipotenciario del Perú. La ignorancia pues en que se halla el gobierno de Colombia, de que hubiese existido esa segunda ratificacion de 2 de junio, es la mas relevante prueba de que ella es supuesta.

En la Prensa Peruana, papel ministerial, contestándose al cargo que hace el gobierno de Colombia al del Perú, de que se le reemplacen los hombres perdidos en la campana de la dominacion de esta república por Bolívar, se copia el tratado referido, diciéndose que se habia conseguido una copia de él, remitida de Bogotá por el ministro Villa; pero en ella no aparece la ratificacion. En la correspondencia entre este ministro plenipotenciario y el de Colombia, impresa en Bogotá y publicada por orden de aquel gobierno, no se halla tampoco ratificacion alguna. Es pues bien extraño que el gobierno de Colombia, á quien tanto le interesaba, ignorase lo que él mismo tenia en su poder, ó lo que es lo mismo, exijiese al del Perú que ratificase un tratado que ya lo habia sido. Luego quien ha publicado ese documento en el Mercurio Peruano debe ser considerado un falsario, ó deberá presentar el orijinal, ignorado de los gobiernos contendores del Perú y Colombia, por el que conste que el ex-Presidente consintió en la expatriacion de los soldados peruanos.

Como en las secretarías del despacho hay constancia de todo cuanto se expide por ellas, será consiguiente que se halle estampada en el libro de acuerdos la segunda ratificacion de ese tratado, asi como los terminos en que lo fué. Rejístrense los archivos y libros; preséntense las notas oficiales acerca de ese tratado: véase el celebrado entre el coronel Urdaneta y ministro de la guerra Her-censores de Santiago D. Ventura Blanco y D. Victorino Lastarria, en prueba de aprecio y respeto.”

5,000 Peruvian Soldiers Exiled to Colombia, Per the Treaty of Guayaquil

107. [PERU]. Contestacion dada por un antiguo oficial del Perú á un artículo inserto en el Mercurio Peruano núm. 650. [Text begins:] Cuando la depravacion y mala fé de los malvados, que han calculado sus ventajas sobre la ruina del Perú, llega al extremo de forjar documentos .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta Republicana, dated 28 December 1829. Folio (28.5 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. One small stain. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In 1828, Colombian forces under General Sucre defeated a much larger Peruvian force that was attempting to annex Ecuador. Under the terms of the Treaty of Guayaquil, signed September 22, 1829, the border was established between Gran Colombia and Peru, Peru agreed to indemnify Colombia for all the expenses of war, and Peru further agreed to replace—man for man—Colombian soldiers who had died, deserted, or become licenciados in the campaigns in Peru. Five thousand Peruvian soldiers were shipped off to Colombia.

The anonymous author finds this third provision impossible to accept. He claims that the treaty was not properly ratified and that Bolívar is attempting to enforce this provision merely to make Peru so weak that it can be occupied by Bolívar.

Early manuscript foliation in ink. (2 ll.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This debate over permitting two Peruvian ministers to Chile hinges on whether allowing two ministers implies acceptance of the legitimacy of both governments, or whether such recognition merely establishes a means of communication with those governments. The anonymous author, responding to articles in El Araucano and El Mercurio, discusses diplomacy, maritime law, and the rights of nations, with mention of blockades, General Luis Orbegoso, the United States before it won its battle with Great Britain, D. Miguel in Portugal, and Grotius. Given the frequent mentions of Santa Cruz and Bolivia, this pamphlet was certainly published during Orbegoso's term as president of North Peru (February 7-August 11, 1836). The mention of a letter from Bolivia dated July 8 narrows the time down to late July or early August 1836.

The author of Dos legaciones questions the legitimacy of the 1833 election that brought Orbegoso to the presidency, as well as Orbegoso's authority in Peru after he allied himself with President Andrés de Santa Cruz and formed the Peru-Bolivian Confederacy, of which Santa Cruz was Supreme Protector and Orbegoso merely the president of the Republic of North Peru. Many Peruvian politicians who opposed the idea of the confederation fled to Chile, where they were supported by Diego Portales.

These notes, from number 1, dated Lima, 7 de Abril de 1832 to number 177, dated Rio de Janeiro 25 de Novembro de 1876, deal mostly with territorial limits of Brazil and her relations with other South American nations, as well as British and French Guiana. There are actually more than 177 notes; for example there are numbers 166, and 166A, 167, 167A, 167B, and 167C, etc. Pages [53]-59 list and describe briefly 33 maps which support the notes.

Duarte da Ponte Ribeiro, first and only Barão de Ponte Ribeiro (Viseu, 1795-Rio de Janeiro, 1878) was a Luso-Brazilian physician, diplomat and cartographer. He joined in the movement for Brazilian independence, and was nominated Cônsul-geral to Spain, given the task of gaining recognition. Afterwards he served in Lisbon, México, Peru, Bolivia and Buenos Aires, up to the war against Rosas, of which he was an important participant. A member of the Instituto Histórico e Geográfico Brasileiro from 1838, he was also a member of the Academia Real das Sciencias de Lisboa, and of the Sociedade Geográfica de Lisboa.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Imposes penalties for smuggling tobacco, foreign liquors, tea, and playing cards. Diego Portales (1793-1837), born into a prominent merchant family in Santiago, established Portales Cea y Compañía in 1821, with branches in Valparaiso and Lima. The company was granted a monopoly (estanco) on trade in tobacco, tea, liquor, and playing cards, in return for which they serviced Chile's foreign debt. Unfortunately the government was unable effectively to control such trade, and the company went bankrupt. Its memory lingered in the name of Portales's conservative followers, known as estanqueros.

In the 1830s, Portales, as leader of the conservatives and a proponent of a strong central government, was the power behind the president. Since he was largely responsible for the Chilean Constitution of 1833, his political beliefs remained influential for another century.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Portales Cía y Compañía reports that they are being discussed in Congress as if they had acted in a criminal manner under their monopoly contract (estanco). The 12 pages of attached documents are intended to provide accurate information.

Since 1821, the Portales Cía (headed by Diego Portales) had enjoyed a monopoly on trade in tobacco, tea, liquor and playing cards within Chile, in exchange for servicing Chile's foreign debt and depositing substantial sums in Chile's caja nacional de descuentos. As the company points out in the first document, this ten-year contract required a large number of employees and complex financial transactions: the company had invested a great deal in it. However, the goods on which Portales Cía held a monopoly were all highly tempting for smugglers, and the company had been suffering substantial losses. Coquimbo (always at odds with the central government in Santiago) had even recently proposed to make payments on its share of the debt in return for not abiding by the estanco. Portales Cía states bitterly that it seems only government officials, not the citizens of Chile, were willing to abide by the contract.

This set of documents goes on to record the negotiations to dissolve the contract, listing the obligations of the company and what they require as recompense when the contract is terminated. Congress offered considerably less, and with the final document, dated August 18, 1826, Portales Cía vows to present documentation before a judge in order to have the compensation increased.

Diego Portales (1793-1837), born into a prominent merchant family in Santiago, established Portales Cía y Compañía in 1821, with branches in Valparaiso and Lima. After the company went bankrupt, its memory lingered in the name of Portales's conservative followers, known as estanqueros. In the 1830s, Portales, as leader of the conservatives and a proponent of a strong central government, was the power behind the president. Since he was largely responsible for the Chilean Constitution of 1833, his political beliefs remained influential for another century.

SEÑORES

EN esta tarde hemos sabido que el Congreso Nacional en sesion de esta mañana ha tomado en consideracion el negocio de estanco en consecuencia de un reclamo que don Carlos Dobson dirigió al Presidente de la República, y que éste transcribió al Soberano Congreso. Supimos igualmente que se acordó se presentase á discusion en la sesion siguiente la mocion de un señor diputado sobre estincion del estanco, ó su traslacion al fisco. Al llegar á nuestra noticia la escalfacion y acrimonia con que ha hablado otro señor diputado á cerca de nuestra conducta suponiendonos criminales y de mala fé, declamando por que se nos persiguiese, de un modo horrible y desconocido en las leyes, manifestando una suma desconfianza, creyendonos capaces de ocultar bienes y hasta de fugar, condenandonos sin oirnos, y sin advertir que por acuerdo del mismo Congreso Nacional somos actualmente ejecutados por la caja de descuentos ante juez competente. Al llegar esto á nuestra noticia, repetimos, formamos la resolucion de presentar á los señores diputados aquellos documentos que fuesen mas del caso y que la suma estrechez del tiempo permitiese imprimir para que en presencia de ellos se dignen mirar este negocio en su verdadero punto de vista, y que su lectura pueda hacer que desaparezca cualquiera prevencion causada por la voz pública que siempre presenta disfrazados todos nuestros hechos y todo cuanto nos toca.

La misma angustia del tiempo sólo nos permite referirnos á los citados documentos que dan los antecedentes necesarios para formar un juicio correcto á cerca del estado de la negociacion de estanco. Anadirémos solamente que el último de setiembre próximo se cumplen tres semestres de nuestra contrata. El Gobierno creeria contraer una grave responsabilidad, si desatendiese por mas tiempo la necesidad en que se halla la Republica de una fuerza naval que guarde nuestras estensas costas, desprovistas de todo jenero de defensa, que vijile sobre la puntual observancia de las leyes fiscales y proteja nuestro comercio exterior. Y no bastando a llevar este objeto las rentas ordinarias del Estado, que no es posible aumentar sin la embarazosa imposicion de nuevas cargas y contribuciones, el Gobierno, antes de recurrir a este ultimo arbitrio, ha querido probar si seria posible levantar entre los capitalistas chilenos, y los extranjeros establecidos en Chile, un empréstito del valor de 400 mil pesos; suma que jorja bastaria para la compra y avío de una fuerza naval competente. Antes de dirijirse al cuerpo lejislativo a fin de que le faculte para realizar este plan, y señale fondos para el pago de los intereses y amortizacion del empréstito, ha tenido a bien dirijirse previamente a aquellos individuos en quienes supone facilidad y disposicion para proporcionar al Estado esta suma con la mira de saber de ellos de un modo positivo el numero de acciones con que podrian suscribirse a ella. El Gobierno no se halla en el caso de ofrecer condiciones que pudiesen presentar un abyecto a la codicia; dirijiendose a V., como a los demas habitantes a quienes crec no pueden ser un objeto indiferente la seguridad del Estado y la observancia de sus leyes, cuenta solo con su despropen-

Portales became his "universal minister," and his ideas shaped the Constitution of 1833, which remained in force until 1925. Portales remained a powerful figure until his death in 1837.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A government employee in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs complains that he has been denied a promotion because someone had anonymously informed his superiors that a translation he said was his was in fact the work of a foreigner. He insists on confronting his accusers and rails bitterly against aristocrats "dispuestos á recibir designados el yugo de cualquier tirano que les conserve (como ellos lo sienten) en sus prerrogativas y antigua prepotencia de caballeros y ricos."

According to Briseño, "N.P." is Nicolás Pradel, a noted journalist and "popul-liberal." Collier cites Pradel several times as an example of a writer who was concerned with the treatment of the Araucanians and who attacked the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a hereditary caste.

First or second edition in Spanish; another appeared in Buenos Aires in the same year. Pradt describes and analyzes events in Brazil (especially Pernambuco; pp. 12-48), Buenos Aires (pp. 48-53) and Tierra Firme (modern Venezuela, Colombia, and Panama, especially the effects of Murillo's death; pp. 53-66). He then turns to a lengthy discussion of the actions Spain and other European powers ought to take in view of these developments.

Pradt (1759-1837) was born in Allanches (Auvergne) and received a doctorate of theology from the Université de Paris in 1786. In 1789 he was elected to the États Généraux, where he defended the interests of the clergy until the French Revolution, when he fled to Germany. For the next decade he lived in Hamburg and Münster, where he published several works critical of the Revolution. Returning to France in 1800, Pradt soon earned Napoleon's favor, and with it the offices of bishop of Poitiers (1805) and archbishop of Malines (1808). He undertook several diplomatic missions for Napoleon but, unable to serve Church and state equally, found the work increasingly repugnant. Pradt renounced his office in 1816, immediately placing his pen in the service of liberal ideas and against monarchy. Of Pradt's 50 or so published works, all but a handful appeared in 1816 or later. Among his many works are Des colonies et de la révolution actuelle de l'Amérique (1817), Des trois derniers mois de l'Amérique Méridionale et du Brésil (1817) and Les six derniers mois de l'Amérique et du Brésil (1818).

Pradt describes and analyzes events in Brazil, especially Pernambuco (pp. 7-46), Buenos Aires (pp. 47-52), and "Terre-Ferme," or northern Spanish South America (especially the effects of Murillo's death; pp. 53-68). Then he discusses at length what actions Spain and other European powers ought to take in view of these developments.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In early June 1837, with public opinion running high against President José Joaquín Prieto and the War of the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, Chilean troops under Colonel José Antonio Vidaurré mutinied at Quillota. They imprisoned Diego Portales, who was there to organize a military expedition against Peru (referred to here as "ministro encargado de preparar y acelerar la espedicion al Perú"). Portales, who was in large part responsible for the conservative Constitution of 1833, held few offices in the 1830s but wielded more power than anyone in the Chilean government. Prieto reminds his fellow citizens that since they entrusted the government to him seven years ago, "esta es la primera nube que oscurece el horizonte pacífico que os ha cercado."

Colonel Vidaurré set off to Valparaiso, where he was defeated by Admiral Blanco Encalada. When the news of the defeat reached Quillota on June 6, the mutinous troops executed Portales. Portales thereby became a martyr, and public feeling abruptly veered in favor of the war.

FIRST EDITION? Briseño refers to a folio edition of the same year; both editions listed in OCLC seem to be 4° (18 cm. and 20 cm.); priority has not been established. The proclamation urges inhabitants of the island of Chiloé who are fighting for the Spanish to reconsider their allegiance, arguing that they are naturally bound more closely to their fellow Americans than to the Spanish, and that the Spanish will not keep any promises they have made to the soldiers. Printed at the end: "Francisco Antonio Perez—Jose Miguel Infante—Agustin Eyzaguirre—Mariano Egaña, Secretario," and dated Palacio de Gobierno de Santiago 9 de Junio de 1813.

The inhabitants of Chiloé were staunch royalists, and in December 1817 the island became the last stronghold of the Spanish royalists fleeing from the Chilean mainland. The island was not fully incorporated into the Republic of Chile until 1826.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. President Bulnes, in accordance with the powers granted him by a law of November 20, 1845, sets out statutes for the guild of laborers and boatmen in Valparaiso, Chile’s most important seaport. These include qualifications for becoming a member of the guild, duties of the foremen of gangs and guild administrators, dues, pensions for members who are ill or disabled or for members’ widows and orphans, and the amounts to be charged for shifting various cargoes such as iron, salt, barrels, or packages (by weight).

Rengifo Brothers Threaten to Use Their Press to Reply to Attacks

131. RENGIFO, Manuel, and Ramon Rengifo. Al Publico. En un papel impreso que don Santiago Muñoz Bezanilla dedica a los editores del periodico titulado el Hambriento, despues de nombrar .... Santiago de Chile: (R. Rengifo), dated 4 March 1828. Small folio (25 x 19.6 cm.), disbound. Caption title. In good to very good condition. Broadside. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The Imprenta de Rengifo had published the periodical Hambriento, in which Muñoz Bezanilla was attacked. In his rebuttal, Muñoz Bezanilla had attacked not only the writer but the publishers, for printing the work and for keeping the author's identity secret. The Rengifos promise Muñoz Bezanilla that if he libels them again, they will attack him in all periodicals that issue from their press "en los términos que creamos convenientes," that they will publish his biography, distribute broadsides throughout the country, and print free of charge any work that shows him in a bad light.

Ramon Rengifo (ca. 1795-1861) was "one of the wittiest conservative writers of the time" (Collier). His brother Manuel Rengifo Cárdenas (1793-1845) served as Portales' Finance Minister from 1830 to 1835.

José Santiago Muñoz Bezanilla (ca. 1780-1836), a native of Santiago, was involved in the Chilean independence movement as early as 1811, when he helped suppress the Figueroa Mutiny. After Rancagua he was exiled by the Spaniards to the Juan Fernández islands, returning only after the Battle of Maipú in 1818. As a liberal, he wrote for El Pipiolo and El Monitor Araucano, and several times during the 1820s served in Congress. He also helped promulgate the Constitution of 1828, and under President Francisco Ramón Vicuña was secretary of War and the Navy.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Rengifo elegantly but acerbically refutes the assertion of an unnamed member of Congress that la faccion del estanco (i.e., those supporting Diego Portales) had recently silenced opposition by buying all five of Chile's publishing houses, only leaving "una prensa escasa y miserable." Rengifo states that he bought his press with his brother for 6,500 pesos, that they have no partners telling them what to print, and that they print anything for anyone—and will in fact print the deputy's rebuttal to this essay, "si es que quiere molestar en dar una." An interesting footnote explains that Rengifo did once refuse to print a work by Nicolas Pradel, but only because it was a rush job and the press was not yet fully operational.

Ramón Rengifo (ca. 1795-1861) was one of the wittiest conservative writers of his time. He began his career as a businessman and journalist, but by the 1840s and 1850s was serving in the Congress himself.

Caption title. Dampstained at one corner. Small piece missing from blank margin on both leaves. In good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. 3 pp., (1 l.). $900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. On behalf of Chile's cabinetmakers, José del Tránsito Cárdenas, Jorje Gaskill and Valentin Pages explain that Chilean artisans can compete in quality and good taste with foreign furniture manufacturers, but cannot compete in price, because manufacturers abroad are using industrial equipment that allows them to produce goods so cheaply that even the current 30% tariff on imported goods does not equalize prices. Given the time frame (just before 1848, the "Year of Revolution"), it is fascinating that company owners raise the threat of revolution by the workers. The workers in Chile were paid more because their cost of living was higher, note the owners; if those workers are forced to work longer hours for less pay, the result would be "anárquica ... precipitando a la turbulencia y a la rebelion a una clase numerosa y terrible en el desencadenamiento de sus instintos. Sobran ejemplos de esta verdad, en las naciones europeas." The cabinetmakers request that goods used in furniture manufacturing be free of import duties and that foreign-made furniture be taxed so that its price is equal to the current price of Chilean furniture.

FIRST EDITION thus. Cayetano Requena, from the Ancash region of Peru, is one of the heroes of that country's independence movement. The first 8 pages of this work are a reply (signed "Y.A.U.") dated 4 December 1819 to a letter Requena published on 24 November 1819. The letter brands Requena a rebel and an apostate, and berates him for daring to call himself a chaplain of the Chilean fleet and a canon of the church in Concepción.

Pages 8-32 contain Requena's spirited reply of 20 May 1820, in which he focuses on the need to liberate Peru from Spanish rule and discusses ecclesiastical offices in Chile. Requena mentions Valdivia (captured from the royalists in early February 1820), Chillán, and Chiloé, as well as Ferdinand VII, Lord Cochrane (commander of the Chilean navy), and the Constitution of Chile. By 1820 Chile had turned the tide against the royalists and, under José de San Martín, was invading Peru.

Si su lenguaje no tiene aquella fuerza superior que venciendo todos los obstáculos, penetra hasta el corazon, no lo atribuyas, nó, á falsedad en sus expresiones, ó sofisma en sus raciocinios; impútalo sí, á la poca destreza con que sabe manejar armas tan nobles, ó bien á tu alma misma perturbada con las perniciosas ideas de una libertad que por mal entendida, ha sufocado en ella la llama sagrada de la verdad y de la religion. ¡ Ah, si pudiera yo partir mi corazon en otras tantas letras, como he de emplear en esta carta! Entonces leerías un idioma que desconoces, y te convencerías de unas verdades que no has podido olvidar, sino que no quieres entender. Hermano, oye á tu hermano. Te llama al lado de su padre y del tuyo. Si una desgracia á que te llevó la miseria que no supiste vencer, te ha separado de tu familia, él te dice que no la sostengas creyéndola irremediable; sino que abjurándola de corazon, vuelvas como el Pródigo á tus antiguos hogares, seguro de que hallarás en ellos la ternura paternal pronta á estrecharte en sus brazos, y de que darás á tu angustiada fa-

Attack on North Peru's Minister Plenipotentiary, Who Had Defended Admiral Charles Whiting Wooster, a New Haven Native

137. [RIVA AGÜERO, José de la]. D. José de la Riva de Agüero. [text begins:] Aunque presumo que el autor del artículo remitido sobre el manifiesto del pretendido Contra-almirante de la escuadra de Chile D.C.G. Wooster que se principió á insertar en el número 2232 del Mercurio de Valparaiso .... [Santiago de Chile]: Imprenta Araucana, dated 14 May 1836. Folio (27.5 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink (trimmed). (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. According to the anonymous author, Riva Agüero published a document claiming that Admiral Charles Whiting Wooster, who had recently decided to retire to the United States (he was a native of New Haven, Connecticut), had been treated very badly by the government of Chile. The author, who signs himself as "Un Chileno," declares with rhetorical flourishes that Riva Agüero has no idea what he's talking about. "Quien es el que determina el premio que merecia Wooster de nosotros por sus servicios?—;D. José de la Riva Agüero que no sabe cuáles son esos servicios, lo que cuestan a la nacion ni lo que verdaderamente valian!"

José de la Riva Agüero, who was at this time minister plenipotentiary to Chile for General Luis José de Orbegoso of North Peru, succeeded Orbegoso as president of North Peru on August 1, 1838. He was ousted after the Chileans and South Peruvians defeated the Peru-Bolivian Confederation at the Battle of Yungay on January 20, 1839. Exiled to Chile, he wrote one of the most important sources on the history of Peruvian independence: Memorias y documentos para la historia de la independencia del Perú y causas del mal éxito que ha tenido ésta, Paris, 1858.

Folio (29 x 19 cm.), disbound. Caption title. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The object of this scathing attack is not identified in the text, but judging from a mention of Lima and the author's wish to rid Chilean soil of the man, the object is probably José de la Riva Agüero, minister plenipotentiary for North Peru under General Luis Orbegoso and later Orbegoso's successor as president of North Peru (August 1838 to January 1839). Riva Agüero was engaged in a pamphlet war that began with a letter of recommendation written for Admiral Charles Wooster. The author, who signs himself "Uno que no es chileno" (probably in response to an earlier anonymous author's signature "Un chileno"), deals in heavy sarcasm: "Es preciso pues que se convenza V. de que puede uno amar el orden y ser honrado, y estar sin embargo en libertad de formar una opinion poco favorable de las facultades intelectuales de V.; y de que esta libertad pasa á ser una necesidad imprescindible y una lei de la naturaleza, si al amor al órden y á la honradez se reune un poco de sentido comun.”

Folio (29 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Caption title. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. 4 pp. $400.00

FIRST EDITION. Riva Agüero rebuts, point by point, an attack of a few days earlier (José de la Riva Agüero. Aunque presumo ...) and an article recently published in El Mercurio de Valparaiso. Most of the work concerns a recommendation that he had written for Admiral Charles Wooster before Riva Agüero had been appointed as Peru's minister plenipotentiary to Chile. Wooster (a native of New Haven, Connecticut) had asked a number of acquaintances to write letters of recommendation that he could use when he returned home to the United States.

Riva Agüero had also been accused of being friends with José Maria Novoa, but asserts that the friendship had developed years ago; Novoa's current disgrace cannot be taken to reflect on everyone who was ever his friend.

For a diplomat, Riva Agüero is remarkably forthright about his dislike for Chile. In August 1838, he succeeded Orbegoso as president of North Peru, remaining in office until Chile and South Peru defeated the Peru-Bolivian Confederation at the Battle of Yungay on January 20, 1839.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this account of a business partnership gone bad. Rodriguez briefly recounts how he started his business in Coquimbo, where the revolution soon paralyzed trade. José Manuel Cea (once the partner of Diego Portales in the tobacco monopoly) persuaded Rodríguez to become his partner, in return for canceling certain I.O.U.s. This document sets out Rodríguez's assets, including cash, goods, I.O.U.s, real estate, and livestock, with extensive footnotes giving details. Rodríguez notes in an Adición that he had not published the document in September, for fear of causing Cea trouble, but that he is publishing in November because Cea has gone public "con relaciones tan falsas como injuriosas al honor de Rodríguez."

Folio (30.2 x 20 cm.), unbound. Caption title. Lower margin has large pieces missing; some glassine repairs to verso; none of this causing loss of text. In near-good condition. Broadside. $425.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? The governor of Buenos Aires quotes at length a report from Guardia de Lujan describing the atrocities committed by the guerrilla leader José Miguel Carrera in Salto. Carrera had encouraged the Indians to attack Salto, had carried off over 300 women and children from the church there, and had stolen all the holy vessels; they had also burned much of the town. Rodríguez lists Carrera's other misdeeds and vows to stop his depredations. Carrera had established a brief military dictatorship in Chile in 1812, then fled to Buenos Aires, the United States, and back to Argentina.

In 1820 the national government of the United Provinces collapsed, the Congress and Supreme Directorate vanished, and the provinces became autonomous. Buenos Aires had at least twenty-four governors in one year. Out of this chaos emerged a new Junta of representatives in September 1820, which named as governor Martín Rodríguez, the Creole general who had played an important role in the overthrow of Spanish rule ten years earlier. Despite constant attacks by guerrillas, the new Governor managed to restore a measure of stability and prosperity to the city and province of Buenos Aires.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author defends his friend, Colonel D. Francisco de Paula Lattapiat, against the accusations of Sargeant-Major Sutcliffe in a recently published Manifiesto. Sutcliffe named a witness to Lattapiat's meeting with Marcelo Ugalde, but when interrogated by a judge, the witness to the meeting (Manuel Bejerano, owner of a cigar store) admitted that he had only seen Sutcliffe meet Lattapiat, and had not even overheard their conversation.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Rosa y Herrera invites the Chilean public to condemn a judge who has abused his powers. In a document submitted to the court of appeals (reproduced here), Rosa y Herrera claims that he refused to sign a petition being circulated by Judge Manuel Valdivieso, and that the judge therefore trumped up charges against him, took what little money Rosa y Herrera had, and accused him of living in sin with his servant. Rosa y Herrera further states that the judge offered to release him in return for a bribe, and he offers the names of others who suffered the same treatment.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. After insulting a priest, Rosa y Herrera had been sentenced to community service by Judge Manuel Joaquín Valdivieso. He published a condemnation of Valdivieso's behavior, to which the judge replied on March 16. Six days later Rosa y Herrera published this scathing attack on the judge, accusing him of abusing his powers ("siendo la peor de las tiranías la judicial"). If I'm such an evil man, asks Rosa y Herrera, why did the judge punish me with a mere 15 days of community service in a hospital?

Reprint (with annotations?) of a work first published in Ecuador, and later in the Gazeta mercantil of Buenos Aires. It accuses Santa Cruz not only of taking over Peru (where Orbegoso was his lackey) but of wanting to add Chile, Argentina and Ecuador to his conquests. The author invokes the ghost of Simón Bolívar against such tyranny: "De la tumba de este héroe se levanta solemne, como de la eternidad, una voz que nos conjura á conservar ileso el patrimonio valioso que nos legó, y á esterminar sin compasion al que nos lo intenta robar." A long footnote mentions Santa Cruz's treacherous execution of President Felipe Santiago de Salaverry of Peru on February 7, 1836.

This document bears the printed date 1837, and must date before June of that year, since Diego Portales is referred to in the final footnote of this work, with the suggestion that Santa Cruz may very well be planning to assassinate Portales as he had tried to assassinate General Juan Manuel de Rosas of Argentina. Portales was executed by mutinous soldiers at Quillota on June 6.

Santiago Concha, who had for years handled the affairs of D<sup>a</sup> Rosalia de Astorga, was accused of misconduct by her heirs. They accused him in El Mercurio of refusing to submit full accounts and of fleeing Valparaiso. Santiago Concha here reprints the family's accusation with copious scathing annotations pointing out inconsistencies and falsehoods. He also reprints the civil and criminal charges he filed against the judge involved in the case, D. J. Fermin Rojas.

FIRST EDITION; describes the geography, economy, commerce and politics of Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentina, Bolivia, Peru, Chile and Mexico. Januário Correia de Almeida (1827-1901), Visconde, Barão and later Conde de São Januário, was governor of India from 1870-1871; he also served as governor of Cabo Verde and of Macau and Timor, as minister plenipotentiary in China, Japan and Siam, and later to the republics of South America. He was a deputy to various sessions of the Cortes, serving as Minister of War in the government of José Luciano de Castro in 1886. In 1887 he was elevated to Conselheiro de Estado. A corresponding member of the Academia Real de Ciências, he was also a founding member of the Sociedade de Geografia de Lisboa, and its first president.

Provenance: D. José de Saldanha Oliveira e Souza, who also used the name José Luiz de Saldanha (1839-1912), was a son of D. João de Saldanha Oliveira Juzarte Figueira e Sousa, 3.º conde de Rio Maior, and brother of António José Luís de Saldanha Oliveira Juzarte Figueira e Sousa, 4.º conde and 1.º marquês de Rio Maior. A chemist and mineralogist, parliamentary deputy, and high government official, he studied mathematics and philosophy at Coimbra University, wrote on subjects as varied as agriculture, finance, and engravings, and amassed an important library. He was a devoted proponent of progress in the national agricultural sector, which he considered one of the primary sources of public wealth. See Grande enciclopédia XIX, 402; Innocência XIII, 66-7; Aditamentos, pp. 254-5. The Casa da Anunciada library of the counts of Rio Maior was one of the best private libraries ever formed in Portugal. It was dispersed for the most part not long after the April 1974 Portuguese revolution.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Another installment in the epic legal battles of Ramón Aliaga. This one was prompted by a document in support of Aliaga recently published by 11 citizens of Rancagua. The author (who signs as "F.D.M.") states that Aliaga has been deservedly thrown into prison for prostitution and immorality, and accused of adultery. Among those mentioned who are against Aliaga are the notaries Pedro Herrera, José Jofré, Gabriel Muñoz, Jerónimo Araos, and citizens Francisco Casanueva and Joaquín Alé, as well as the governor of Rancagua, members of the cabildo, curates, military men, and neighbors.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Argues in favor of preserving mayorazgos based on property rights and the fact that retroactive laws are illegal. The anonymous author also points out that passing laws regarding such matters should be the work of a regular Congress, not a Constituent Congress. The present condition of the country causes him considerable alarm: "La república aguarda por momentos la Constitucion del Estado y cada instante que se pierde nos abisma en mayor descredito, anarquía y desorden."

The mayorazgo, a form of primogeniture that prevented large estates from being dispersed, became part of Castilian law in 1505 and was carried over into Latin America. After Spain suppressed the mayorazgo in 1820 by the Ley Desvinculadora, debate raged between Chilean liberals and conservatives over its abolition. O'Higgins abolished the mayorazgo by a decree of June 1818 that was ignored. The Constitution of 1828 abolished it, too, but it was effectively reinstated by the Constitution of 1833, and not abolished completely until the 1850s, under President Montt.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The purpose of the Sociedad Chilena de Industria y Población, according to Artículo 2, is "comprar terrenos y hacerlos productivos, abrir canales de riego y navegacion, formar poblaciones industriosas." The statutes of the Sociedad are followed by the names of more than 200 subscribers, among them General D. Manuel Búlnes (president of Chile 1841-1851), Joaquin Prieto (president, 1831-1841), General Francisco de la Lastra (supreme director, 1814), and many clergymen, military men, and men and women of prominent families.

In the period of stability and peace following the War of the Confederation, President Bulnes encouraged educational, cultural, and industrial expansion. The University of Chile was founded in Santiago in 1842 and the settlement of Fuerte Bulnes was established in 1843, to enforce Chilean sovereignty over the Strait of Magellan.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This appears to be the author's first separately published work. His poetry had appeared in a student anthology in 1860. The letter to the Colombian poet Arcesio Escobar (Medellín, 1832-at sea between St. Thomas and New York of yellow fever aboard the Ocean Queen, 1867) occupies pp. [3]-10. It discusses theories of religious poetry, contains references to sixteenth-century Spanish literature (declaring that Fr. Luis de Leon was the author's favorite), includes references to and quotes from Andrés Bello, all in the context of the war between Chile and Spain, and the recent bombardment of Valparaíso by Spanish warships. Escobar's Fe, esperanza i caridad: poesias religiosas had been published in Quito, 1865; his Carta al Señor Enrique del Solar was published in Guayaquil, 1866.

The Jesuit-educated Solar (1844-1893), poet, novelist, and parliamentary deputy, was the son of the Chilean poetess Mercedes Marín de Solar. In addition to other works of poetry and prose, he edited Poesías de la señora Doña Mercedes Marín de Solar, published in 1874.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Thomas Sutcliffe, a British soldier serving in the Chilean army, defends himself against accusations that he is an adventurer and a mercenary. The documents he provides relate to his term as political and military governor of the Juan Fernández Islands, used by Chile as a penal colony. Two letters deal with his execution of prisoners Rafael Moreno and José Manuel Suaso after the massive earthquake in February 20, 1835. Another letter explains that when he became governor of Juan Fernández, Commandant Francisco de Paula Lattapiat sold him 8 barrels of flour that turned out to belong to the commissary rather than the commandant. Sutcliffe returned them. In March 1836 Sutcliffe tendered his resignation with the hope that he might receive a bonus for his long years of service: he was released, but brusquely denied money. In a final document Sutcliffe explains why he thinks he is owed money, including the fact that after the 1835 earthquake he used some of his own money to purchase materials to rebuild the barracks at Juan Fernández.

Sutcliffe (1790-1849), a Yorkshireman, served in the British navy and at Waterloo. In 1817 he fought beside the Colombians for independence, and in 1821 offered his services to Chile. There he remained for 16 years as a cavalry officer, rising by 1834 to the rank of political and military governor of the Juan Fernández Islands. These islands, 400 miles off the coast of Chile, were possibly the inspiration for Robinson Crusoe: Alexander Selkirk was marooned there from 1705-1709.

According to the Dictionary of National Biography, Sutcliffe returned to England in late 1839. He tried to make a living writing books on Chile and Peru, but died in abject poverty in 1849.

(1 l.) $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Valdivieso, a judge who had been maligned in print by José Agustín de la Rosa y Herrera, here explains that Rosa y Herrera came to his court after a priest accused him of insulting him and blaspheming. Valdivieso then discovered that the accused had run off with an innocent young woman and had been living with her in poverty in Santiago. He sent the young woman to a decent home, assigned 15 days of community service to Rosa y Herrera, and released him on his own recognizance to return to his family. The next Valdivieso heard of him was when Rosa y Herrera published a scurrilous attack on him.

Valdivieso (d. 1839), a lawyer, was named a judge in criminal court in 1828. Two years later he was named to the Corte Suprema. In 1826-1827 he had served as deputy in the Congreso Naional Constituyente, and from 1831-1833 he was deputy in the Asamblea Provincial de Santiago.

FIRST EDITION in this form? In 1835, Chile, Bolivia, and Ecuador granted William Wheelwright a ten-year privilege to run steamboat service from Valparaiso to Panama. With funding from London, the Pacific Steam Navigation Company sent its first two steamers into operation in 1840. Unfortunately the PSNC began to show a profit only in 1848, the year the California Gold Rush began. Before its monopoly could be renewed, half a dozen Chilean companies were formed to take advantage of the enormous demand for transportation. This collection of letters on the steamship monopoly offers extensive quotations from contemporary periodicals, that include many comments on Wheelwright, the United States, and ships trading in the Americas. (California seems to be mentioned only on p. 27.) The latest document dates to December 3, 1850.

Wheelwright (Newburyport, Mass., 1798-London, 1873) was a successful entrepreneur in steamships, railroads, and telegraphs. He is remembered for initiating major public works projects in South America: a modern fire company, gas lighting, and improvements in lighthouses and buoys, among others.

As Bad as the United States Under Van Buren!

167. [VICUÑA, Pedro Félix, ed.]. Paz perpetua a los chilenos. N° 5 only [of 6 unnumbered issues]. Valparaiso: Imprenta Liberal, dated 4 June 1840. 8°, original printed wrappers. Some soiling, but overall in very good condition. A few contemporary ink corrections, per the errata on final leaf. (1 l.), 10 pp., errata inside lower wrapper. $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of a single issue of this rare periodical. The author, clearly of the liberal persuasion, declares that the past 10 years (i.e., the years following the Chilean Civil War of 1829) have seen regrettable loss of liberty among Chileans, with dissent proclaimed illegal. On p. 8, he compares the situation to that in the United States under President Van Buren (1837-1841).

The imprints of the other issues of Paz perpetua vary, from Santiago de Chile: Imprenta de la Independencia, 1836, to Santiago de Chile [sic]: Imprenta de Colocolo, 1840.

Pedro Félix Vicuña Aguirre (Santiago, 1805-Santiago, 1874), writer, journalist, and politician, was the son of Francisco Ramón Vicuña, president of Chile in 1829. In 1827, at age 20, he became one of the founders of El Mercurio de Valparaíso, today the world's oldest Spanish-language newspaper. Back in Santiago in the 1830s, his contributions to Paz perpetua and similar papers earned him a reputation as a liberal and a revolutionary. His election as deputy of La Serena was annulled by the conservative-dominated Chamber of Deputies. The year this issue of Paz perpetua appeared, Vicuña supported the failed presidential campaign of Francisco Antonio Pinto against General Manuel Bulnes, the victor of the Battle of Yungay. Vicuña spent years in exile in Peru and aided the revolutionaries in 1851. In the 1860s and 1870s, under liberal governments, he served in the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate. His most famous work is El porvenir del hombre, 1852.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this self-regulation by the bakers of Santiago. By a law of June 18, 1826, the government had regulated the price and weight of bread. When that regulation was rescinded, some bakers began selling ridiculously small loaves. A group of bakers who found this unacceptable decided to impose their own regulations, naming an inspector to assure that the loaves met minimum requirements and setting fines for bakers who did not comply.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this wonderfully rousing piece of rhetoric from soldiers in Santiago to their counterparts in Valparaiso. The writer claims that a foreign government is protecting a "faccioso que la patria condenò a perpetua ignominia," and evokes memories of the war against Spain and the heroes of the Roman Republic to urge soldiers in Valparaiso to suppress the "fantásticas aspiraciones de un político aventurero." The object of this vituperation is General Ramón Freire, Chile's former supreme director (1823-1826) and president (1827), who had persuaded the Peru-Bolivian Confederation to subsidize his attempt to capture Chiloé, as a step toward overthrowing the conservative government of José Joaquín Prieto and Diego Portales.

Following the failure of Freire's expedition (he was imprisoned in Valparaiso, court-martialled and exiled), Portales sent an expedition that captured three ships of the Confederation's fleet at Callao on August 21, 1836. Treaty negotiations having failed, Chile declared war on the Peru-Bolivian Confederation on December 28, 1836.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of another rousing piece of rhetoric from soldiers in Santiago to their counterparts in Valparaiso, this time announcing that "un acontecimiento importante y funesto para los invasores, ha desconcertado sus planes y desvanecido sus esperanzas." In other words, Ramón Freire's attempt to capture Chiloé had failed.

Freire, Chile's former supreme director (1823-1826) and president (1827), had persuaded the Peru-Bolivian Confederation to subsidize his attempt to capture Chiloé and eventually overthrow the conservative government of José Joaquín Prieto and Diego Portales. Following the failure of Freire's expedition (he was imprisoned in Valparaíso, court-martialed and exiled), Portales sent an expedition that captured 3 ships of the Confederation's fleet at Callao on August 21, 1836. Treaty negotiations having failed, Chile declared war on the Peru-Bolivian Confederation on December 28, 1836.

In fine condition. Broadside. $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This rousing send-off to Chilean troops embarking to fight in the War of the Peru-Bolivian Confederation was probably published either in 1836, when General Blanco Encalada was leading the expedition, or in 1838, when General Manuel Bulnes led a second (successful) expedition. The poet mentions the sixteenth-century Mapuche leaders Colocolo, Lautaro, and Rengo as immortal models of courage, and the vil opresor General Santa Cruz (president of the Confederation).

In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Broadside. $400.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Reports on the progress of the Chilean naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, which landed at Islay (in southern Peru) in October. This account mentions minor skirmishes and the capture of Arequipa. It also states that Marshal Santa Cruz was disliked by Peruvians and Bolivians ("Aseguran que en la Paz ha sido insultado públicamente su retrato") and that the Argentines are invading the south.

Although this writer states that "Los pueblos reciben en palmas a sus libertadores," General Blanco Encalada's troops did not receive the support from locals that they had hoped for. The Chilean soldiers were soon surrounded by Santa Cruz's army, and Blanco Encalada was forced to sign the Treaty of Paucarpata (November 17, 1837)—which the Chilean government promptly repudiated.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author (who signs as "Un Chileno") exhorts the local militia in Santiago to help put down the mutiny of the soldiers in Quillota, who had rebelled under the leadership of Colonel José Vidaurre. The mutineers had imprisoned Diego Portales, who was there arranging for an expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation. Portales is referred to here as "il ilustre majistrado que ha mantenido la tranquilidad pública en medio del embate de las pasiones." Portales's execution a day later at the hands of the mutineers made him a martyr and caused public opinion to veer in favor of the war.

In good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. Broadside. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. While the mutiny of soldiers at Quillota is in progress, the writer (who signs as "Un chileno") fears for the future of Chile, facing enemies abroad and traitors within: "por una parte se vé empeñada en una guerra exterior; por otra rodeada de los agentes del enemigo y de hijos desnaturalizadas que por satisfacer sus resentimientos no vacilarean en sacrificarla vil é ignominiosamente." If this situation is not stopped, he warns, Chile will suffer the same horrible fate as its arch-enemy Peru.

In early June, the mutinous soldiers at Quillota had imprisoned Diego Portales as he was organizing an expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, on whom Chile had declared war in December 1836.

Folio (28 x 18 cm.), unbound. Woodcut ornament below caption title. Small nick at one edge. In very good to fine condition. Broadside. $300.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This report of June 4 by General Blanco Encalada states that a column of 400 infantry and 30 cavalymen had approached Valparaiso. Blanco Encalada took charge of the Valdivia battalion and the local militia and drove the mutineers into retreat. Losses among the mutineers amounted to some 100 men.

The soldiers in Quillota had rebelled under the leadership of Colonel José Vidaurre. The mutineers had imprisoned Diego Portales, who was there arranging for an expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation. When word of the defeat at Valparaiso reached the mutineers, they shot Portales. He instantly became a martyr, and public opinion—which had been against the war with the Peru-Bolivian Confederation—abruptly veered in favor of the war.

Folio (28 x 18.5 cm.), disbound. Above the caption title is a charming woodcut headpiece (5 x 15 cm.) of cavalymen in battle. In good to very good condition. Early manuscript foliation in ink. (1 l.) $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The veterans of Chile wish speed and victory to the Chilean soldiers setting off on the expedition to free Peru from the vil conquistador Andrés Santa Cruz of the Peru-Bolivian Confederation. The Peruvians are described as standing plaintively on their shores with raised arms, waiting only for the appearance of Chilean ships to rebel. This is one of the few Chilean ephemeral pamphlets that expresses any sympathy for Peru, although it is perhaps less sympathy than Schadenfreude: "Llegó el momento de volar á ser por segunda vez los libertadores del desgraciado Perú." The leaf includes at the top a charming woodcut of cavalymen charging into battle.

The naval expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation was headed by General Blanco Encalada, who had defeated the Quillota mutineers in June. In Peru his force of 2,800 was not, in fact, greeted with relief by Peruvians. Instead it was surrounded by Marshal Santa Cruz's troops, and Blanco Encalada was forced to sign the Treaty of Paucarpata (November 17, 1837), which the Chilean government promptly repudiated.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The local militia of Valparaíso encourages the participants of the expedition against the Peru-Bolivian Confederation, which set sail in September 1837. This flyer was clearly written after the Quillota mutiny of June, which resulted in the execution of Diego Portales: "Decidles también que entre vosotros están los que en época más reciente y de funebre memoria, ahogaron al nacer el monstruo impio de la rebelión, incitado por ese mismo tirano que vais a destronar." In a 180-degree shift of public opinion, Marshal Santa Cruz was blamed for the Quillota mutiny and the death of Portales, and Chileans were suddenly eager to invade Peru.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this poem in four octaves celebrating the Battle of Yungai, the decisive victory of General Manuel Bulnes and the Chileans over General Santa Cruz and the Peru-Bolivian Confederation on January 20, 1839. The style suggests that this poem was printed considerably later than the battle.

Also mentioned in the text is Lautaro, a military leader of the Mapuche Indians who defeated Governor Pedro de Valdivia and the Spaniards in 1556. Lautaro was a protagonist in Ercilla y Zúñiga's La Araucana, 1569.

In good to very good condition. 15 pp.
$1,100.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A series of questions and answers on how to improve the Chilean economy. The author argues in favor of protectionism in order to promote the growth of national industry. He mentions the United States several times (with almost a page on Pittsburgh), gold- and silver-mining, and a recent proposal to establish a bank in Chile. The final page promises a continuation, but only part I was published.

Palau and OCLC attribute the work to Miguel José de Zañartu Santa María (1771-1851), a close friend and collaborator of Bernardo O'Higgins (under whom he served as minister of the interior and of foreign affairs) and one of the authors of the Chilean proclamation of independence. Under Ramón Freire's rule, Zañartu was minister in Peru and an elected deputy, but his opposition to the regime resulted in his exile. In 1830 he returned, serving again as minister in Peru.

In good to very good condition. Author's signed three-line presentation inscription in ink on p. 3 to a friend, Pedro A. Funes. 86 pp. $250.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this discussion of an early arms-control pact. The Pactos de Mayo were signed in May 1902 in an attempt to resolve the disputes between Chile and Argentina over the border of Patagonia. The dispute had been going on since the early 1880s and led to an arms race by the 1890s.

This volume includes the text of two of the 1902 agreements: the Tratado Jeneral de Arbitraje, intended to provide a framework for resolving disputes, and the Convencion sobre Armamentos Navales, according to which Chile was assigned the Pacific as a sphere of influence, and Argentina the Atlantic. The two countries also agreed to significantly decrease their navies—making this one of the world's first arms-control pacts.

The agreements were not joyously accepted by all. Included in the volume are notes exchanged between the ministers of Chile and Argentina, parliamentary minutes of discussions on these agreements (June to August 1902), and a "Manifiesto al Pais" of August 1902 expressing dissent (pp. 31-47). The final and longest essay (pp. 49-82), "La Paz Chileno-Arjentina," dated August 1902, is by Julio Zegers Samaniego (Santiago, 1830-1918). Zegers Samaniego was director of the Imprensa Nacional in 1856 and later vice-rector of the Instituto Nacional. In 1876 he was elected deputy, and was Chile's minister of Finance from August 1878 to April 1879, at the beginning of the War of the Pacific. He was one of the leaders of the movement that resulted in the Chilean Civil War of 1891. After 1894 he withdrew from politics and devoted himself to writing on politics, economics, and biography.
