First Edition, Second Impression; pp. xiv, 370(last blank); numerous illustrations, notes, bibliography, index; original papered boards; a fine copy in dustwrapper. New York; Bantam Books; (2008). A chronicle of an experiment designed to transform the way humans think about animals and humans, this book profiles a young chimpanzee, brought up with a large human family and taught to use sign language proficiently, until the funding for the study ended and he spent the next two decades exiled from his "family" and shuttled in and out of various facilities, including a medical lab. Could a chimpanzee raised from infancy by a human family bridge the gap between species—and change the way we think about the boundaries between animal and human? Here is the strange and moving account of an experiment intended to answer these questions, and of the chimp who was chosen to see it through. Columbia University psychologist Herbert S. Terrace's goal was to teach a chimpanzee American Sign Language in order to refute Noam Chomsky's assertion that language is an exclusively human trait. Nim Chimpsky, the baby chimp, was "adopted" by a graduate student. At first his progress exceeded all expectations—his charm and mischievous sense of humour endeared him to everyone. But no one had thought through the long-term consequences of raising a chimp in the human world. Nim's story will move and entertain at the same time that it challenges us to ask what it means to be human. #59816 AS$45.00 with their natural surroundings and the long English tradition of working hard. People with love and pride in their relationships and in their community.

Could such a people allow a neighboring house to collapse onto its foundations, without clearing it away and getting rid of the debris? Yes. They have no choice. There simply aren't enough of them any more to keep ahead of the deterioration. They are the hardest working people I've ever lived among, but they are few and their number continues to decrease.

The collapsed houses pain the islanders. I sense it as I walk with radio operator Tom Christian and one of his young daughters down the dusty road through Adamstown. Tom glances at one, starts to say something, says nothing. Slumping houses are a painful fact to be borne with dignity and acceptance, as when you must watch someone very old whom you love die day by day.

THERE IS A BUZZING SOUND in the sky, somewhere up above the tops of the haunyn trees and the rose apple thickets. It turns out to be a pair of kites—man-made kites, not birds. Let me explain about the buzzing.

The people of Pitcairn work almost continuously, from the start of day until nearly time to go to bed, gardening, cooking,

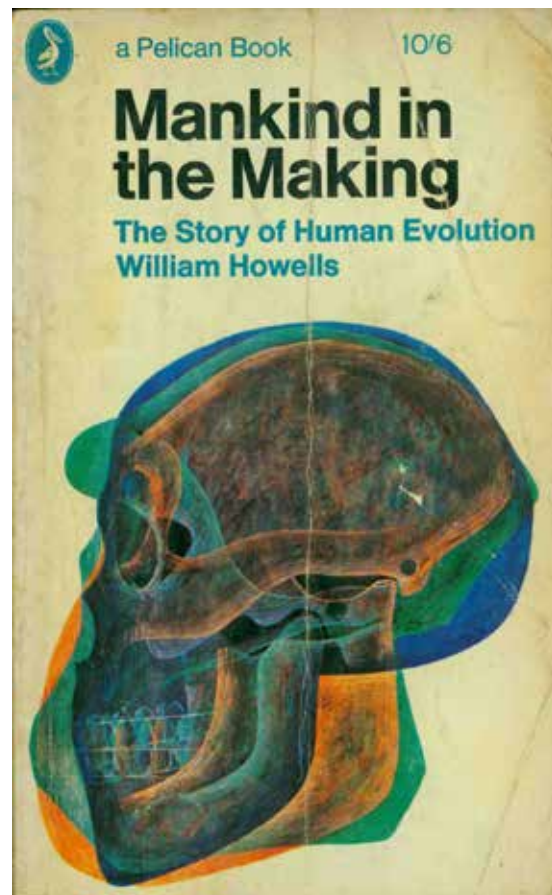

Only way to arrive on this island of rocky cliffs, a lout is winched into a beach at Bounty Bay. These 20-foot-long dories workhorses must brave crashing surf to ferry people and cargo between Pitcairn and visiting ships. Smaller whale house skiffs and log canoes used for fishing.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS:

This is our one hundred and eighty-fifth short list. We hope you find something of interest.

We intend to produce many more lists in future on a variety of subjects and we would prefer where possible to send these by email as PDF file attachments or links to files on our Website. This has the obvious advantage of reducing costs and enhancing the speed of delivery and the email/PDF versions will also be enhanced with colour illustrations. A fully illustrated version of this list in pdf format is also available on our website or will be emailed on request. Likewise we encourage you to send orders by email, fax or telephone.

If you would like to receive future lists please indicate your interests by email (preferred) or by using the form below by fax or post. If you would like to receive ALL lists (email only) please let us know also. If for any reason you do not wish to receive any more of these lists, also please let us know and we will cease and desist.

We have experimented with a number of forms for emailing orders to us but many security systems now prevent such links from working correctly so we suggest simply emailing us at: books@GastonRenard.com and copying and pasting the entries of the items you want from the list above. If you encounter any difficulties, please let us know! For orders by fax or by post please use the Order Form at end.
