Proposes a Government-Backed Monopoly for Wine from Estremadura

11. [BEIRÃO, Caetano Maria Ferreira da Silva]. Relatorio e projecto de lei para a Organização de uma Companhia Protectora do Commercio e Agricultura das Vinhas da Provincia da Estremadura Lisbon: Typ. da Gazeta dos Tribunaes, 1843. 8°, stitched. Small wood-engraved floral ornament on title page. Uncut. A few small light brown spots. In very good condition overall. 28 pp. $450.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION, signed in print at the end by Caetano Maria Ferreira da Silva Beirão, deputy from Beira, who (according to p. 1) presented the proposal to the Camara dos Deputados. It proposes the creation of an Associação Promotora do Commercio e Agricultura dos Vinhos da Provincia da Estremadura. The author's explanation of the need for such a company fills pp. 3-17. The proposed law (pp. 18-27) begins with the stipulation that the Companhia will buy all the wine and aguardente produced in Estremadura and will control its export.

Government intervention in the wine trade in Portugal had a history dating back to the monopolistic practices of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro (a.k.a. the Real Companhia Velha) established in 1756, under the Marquês de Pombal. By the time this work was published, attempts were being made to reduce the influence of the Real Companhia Velha; it was dismantled in 1853.

12. BONANÇA, João. Contra a carta do Sr. Duque de Saldanha sobre o casamento civil. Lisbon: Typographia Universal, 1865. 8°, original yellow printed wrappers (light soiling, many pencil notations). Light browning. Internally very good condition, overall good to very good. 24 pp.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This was part of the raging debate over civil marriage in Portugal that erupted when the first Código Civil was being written from 1850 to 1865. Innocência lists thirty-two works on civil marriage published in 1865 and 1866 (IX, 182-185).

This was a response to the first publication in the series, the Duque de Saldanha's Carta sobre o casamento civil, 1865. Innocência states that Bonança was among the first to defend civil marriage.

João Bonança (Lagos, 1836-1924) became a clergyman due to family circumstances, without having a true vocation. In 1862 he moved to Lisbon, where he contributed to many periodicals. His Da reorganização social, Coimbra, 1875, had a socialist bent.

* Innocência IX, 182, no. 5; X, 195; Aditamentos p. 226. NUC: MH. OCLC: 78942799 (Harvard College Library, British Library); 959090850 (Biblioteca de Arte Calouste Gulbenkian). Porbase locates three copies at Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal and one at Fundação Calouste Gulbenkian.

13. BOTTADO, Duarte Gorjão da Cunha Coimbra. O século 19 explicado á vista da Biblia. Lisbon: Na Typografia Maygrense, 1824. 4°, early marbled wrappers (soiled, fading, short tears). Typographical mustache on title page and p. 3. Some soiling and dampstains on title page; rest of work has mild dampstains, and opening quires are dog-eared. In good condition. Overslip pasted onto p. [2]: see below. 98, 8 pp. [blank page following p. 57 skipped in pagination], signed A-G⁴, H¹, 1-4⁴, 5⁵, *4.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author interprets the progress of the nineteenth century in light of the Bible. Among the points he aims to prove is that the power of kings comes from God, and that sovereignty lies with the king, not the people. In Parte Primeira, he cites passages from the Bible, followed by a nota explaining their relevance to his own time. Parte Segunda (pp. 35-57) deals mostly with D. João VI. Parte Terceira (pp. 58-98) covers four topics: constituição, castigo e premio, coacção, and verdade. The final 8 pages are a copy of an address to D. João VI made on July 10, 1823.

The title page verso has a statement that when he wrote it, the author was not certain that he would have this work published, and that it has been sent to the press almost as it was originally written. He begs the reader's indulgence for non sequiturs, repetition, and "outro qualquer defeito." Immediately below this statement, in a portion of the page that had been blank, is a contemporary printed overslip stating that there was no time to make corrections, and there are also so many typographical errors that one can't even list them.

Innocência knew nothing more of Duarte Gorjão da Cunha Coimbra Bottado than what the author himself stated on pp. 75-76 of this work: that he had been a soldier, had published an article supporting D. Carlota Joaquina in 1822, and had written articles for the Gazeta Universal and the Trombeta Lusitana.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. It was part of the raging debate over civil marriage in Portugal that erupted when the first Código Civil was being written from 1850 to 1865. Innocência lists 32 works on civil marriage published in 1865 and 1866 (IX, 182-185).

Traduit de l'anglais par Varfuge.* Brussels: En Vente Chez l'Editeur, 1839. 4°, early plain brown wrappers (rubbed, slightly defective at one corner). Some foxing and soiling on one opening (pp. 14-15). In good condition. In early ink manuscript on front wrapper: "Brougham // La // Crise en France // 1839." Early ink notation (illegible) inside back wrapper. 58 pp., (1 blank l.).

First and Only Edition in French. Includes discussions of the Republicans, Monarchists and Bonapartists. Henry Peter Brougham, 1st Baron Brougham and Vaux (1778-1868), a British statesman, was Lord Chancellor of Great Britain from 1830 to 1834. He is best known today for his promotion of political and legal reforms. The original "brougham," a four-wheeled, horsedrawn carriage, was designed by him, and his statue stands on the waterfront at Cannes, a seaside resort that he made popular.

16. CARVALHO, José Liberato Freire de. A Carta e os seus vinte e dois annos de idade. Lisbon: Typografia da Revolução de Setembro, 1848. Large 8°, stitched. Typographical mustache on title page. Uncut. In fine condition. (2 ll.), 41 pp., (1 blank l.). $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this history of the 1826 Carta Constitucional. It was printed at the "Revolução de Setembro" press, named after the left-wing liberal Setembrista revolt of 9 September 1836, which aimed to replace the 1826 Carta with a more liberal constitution.

José Liberato Freire de Carvalho (1772-1855), born in the Quinta de Montesão just outside of Coimbra, was a radical liberal and active Mason who modeled himself after Camille Desmoulins, influenced by the theories of Rousseau and Condorcet. He was responsible for the Coimbra 1794 edition of the Arte de pensar do abbade de Condillac. Forced into exile in England in 1813, he was one of the founders in London of the Investigador Português. In 1820 he advocated a union of Portugal with Spain on the grounds that Portugal had become a colony of Brazil. A deputy to the constitutional Cortês from Viseu, he went into exile again after the Vilafrancada.

Title page soiled in upper margin; final leave has short tears at top edge. In good condition. 16 pp. $75.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author explains that he was commissioned to write this sermon of thanksgiving for the birth of a son to Dr. João Leal da Gama Araujo Vasconcellos, but since the father died several months before his son was born, the sermon was not delivered.

Antonio Lopo Corrêa de Castro (1804-1864), an illegitimate child born in Chaves, was raised in an orphanage in Braga and joined the Hieronymite convent of S. Marcos near Coimbra. When the religious orders were suppressed in 1834, he studied law at Coimbra. He was later chantre da Capella at the University and canon at the cathedral. He published a number of orations and sermons similar to this one.

Large 8°, original green printed wrappers (minor wear). Wood-engraving of a wreath on title page and front cover. Minor marginal soiling and creases. In very good condition. 10 pp. $50.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this brief work congratulating the Marquês de Saldanha and the Conde de Farrobo on their marriages; it includes a description of the eminent personages who attended the ceremony. Corrêa was a typesetter who turned to writing to increase his income. At the end of this work he apologizes for the lack of editing, "porque aproveitei apenas os pensamentos inspirados, sem que o pouco tempo me permittisse combinal-os."

Inocência da Silva disliked the author enough to spare himself the effort of compiling a list of his publications. He also stated that Corrêa wrote history, economics, and fiction, and that he wrote, typeset, corrected, printed, and distributed his own works, and that he had been working for years to prove that it is possible "discursar em lingua que se ignora sobre materias de que nada se sabe."

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this dialogue in verse between Fama, Atropos and Protheo, lamenting the death of D. Pedro; followed by two sonnets. D. Pedro is probably unique in having abdicated two thrones on two different continents. He was the first ruler of Brazil after it declared its independence of Portugal, ruling as Emperor Pedro I from October 12, 1822 until April 7, 1831, when he resigned in favor of his son, D. Pedro II. He also reigned as King Pedro IV of Portugal from March 10, 1826, until May 2 of the same year, when he abdicated in favor of his daughter, D. Maria II. He died of tuberculosis in 1834, a few months after the liberals had triumphed in Portugal.

Ricardo José Fortuna (Lisbon, 1774-1860) was for more than 50 years a prompter at the Portuguese national theaters, including the prestigious Teatro Nacional D. Maria II. He composed a number of farces and entremeses that were printed as literatura de cordel. (Innocência notes that he was not over-scrupulous about publishing the works of others under his own name.) The Dicionário cronológico calls him the last representative of eighteenth-century teatro de cordel, “cujo espírito chocarreiro e burlesco prolongou nas várias farsas e entremeses que escreveu.”

24. FRAZÃO, João Augusto Amaral. Vida do poeta Nicolão Tolentino de Almeida. Lisbon: Typ. de V.J. de Castro & Irmão, 1843. 12°, original pink printed wrappers, stitched. Printed wrappers within typographical borders. Uncut. In fine condition. (2 ll.), ii, 34 pp. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this biography of Nicolao Tolentino de Almeida (1741-1811), with some excerpts from his works. The author apologizes for its brevity, but states that he declines to fill pages with extraneous details (pp. i-ii). Searches in Porbase and OCLC have turned up no other monographs on this poet until Claude Maffre's L'oeuvre satirique de Nicolau Tolentino, published by the Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation in 1994.

Bell devotes half a page to Tolentino: “genial satirist ... He writes naturally; his style is thoroughly Portuguese, often prosaic. His satire ... lacks independence and thought, but sheds a gentle light on the manners of the time—on the travelled coxcomb who returns to Portugal affecting almost to have forgotten Portuguese, or the rich nun who knows by heart whole volumes of the Fenix Renascida—and one or two of his entertaining sonnets are likely to endure” (Portuguese Literature, p. 276).

João Augusto Amaral Frazão (b. 1824?), a native of Ponta Delgada in the Azores, was a member of the Conselho de Saude Publica and later served in the ministry of Foreign Affairs. His other works include Relatorio da epidemia de cholera-morbus em Portugal nos annos de 1855 e 1856.

25. GESSNER, Salomon. O primeiro navegante. Poema de Mr. Gesner por D.M.A.F.L.S.L.M. Nova edição [sic]. Lisbon: Na Typ. de João Nunes Steves, 1848. 8°, early plain pink wrappers (some fading, minor stains). Typographical mustache on title page. Woodcut theatrical mask within a wreath on p. 48. Uncut and mostly unopened. Light browning. In very good condition. (1 l.), 48 pp. $75.00

Translation of Gessner's short story in two cantos, Der erste Schiffer, 1762. Gonçalves Rodrigues lists three earlier versions; it is not clear which are different translations. O primeiro navegante. Poema ... trad. por D.M.A.J.L.S.L.M. (i.e., with "j" instead of "f"), Lisbon, 1814, was published with O crime mais horroroso ou o Amigo traidor (Gonçalves Rodrigues 3106); Porbase lists that edition, with the initials "D.M.A.F.L.S.L.M.", so presumably it is the same translation as ours. O primeiro navegante, Lisbon: T. Rollandiana, 1819, was published without identification of the translator (Gonçalves Rodrigues 3549). A translation by A. Amelia V. Gomes from Italian was published in Porto, 1835 (Gonçalves Rodrigues 4410).

Salmon Gessner (Zurich, 1730-1788) produced conventional classical landscapes and sweetly conventional poems that were widely popular during his lifetime. His works were translated to English, Dutch, Spanish, Swedish, Czech, and Serbo-Croatian as well as Portuguese. Gonçalves Rodrigues lists translations of Gessner to Portuguese as early as 1761 and as late as 1827.

Very minor stains and soiling. In very good condition. Page 8 has a rubber-stamped image of flowers in a vase, beside the printed notice, "Todo o folhetim que não levar este carimbo, será reputado falço." Front wrapper has old red-bordered paper tag with serrated edges and shelfmark in ink manuscript ("3758 // C"). 8 pp. $75.00

Poem condemning the infidelity of men, said to have been written by a woman; it begins, "Vem oh Muza, vem em meu socorro, / Contra os homens meus versos inspira / Contra todos; a ver se eu discorro / Dame vida, tempera-me a lira." Above the colophon is a statement that when this pamphlet has been sold, others will be produced ("Depois de vendida esta primeira parte continuar-se-ha").

At least as early as 1759, an 8-page pamphlet was published entitled Malícia dos homens contra a bondade das mulheres; other editions appeared in 1805 and 1860. It is not clear whether the present work is the same, with an abbreviated title, or a completely different work.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION, with a brief biography of D. Patricio that includes comments on his political activities. Patricio da Silva (1756-1840) was named the seventh patriarch of Lisbon in 1826, a turbulent period in Portuguese politics. During the Abrilada (1824-1825), D. João VI named him minister and secretary of Negócios Eclesiásticos and Justiça. He was highly respected as a clergyman, and lived undisturbed during the battles between D. Miguel and D. Pedro. In 1834, during his tenure as patriarch, the Colégio Patriarcal de Lisboa, the Seminário de Santarém, and the religious orders were all disbanded. D. Patricio lived out the rest of his life in the Mosteiro de São Vicente de Fora.

Title page with 6-cm. tear and 2 small defects, all in blank portion of page. In good condition overall, if just barely. 96 pp. [final page misnumbered "87"]. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this account of the debate in the Camara dos Deputados on August 25, 1834, concerning whether D. Pedro de Alcantara should be named regent for his fifteen-year-old daughter D. Maria II (1819-1853, reigned 1826-1828 and 1834-1853). It includes transcriptions of many speeches of substantial length. At the end are lists of those who voted for and against D. Pedro.

D. Pedro de Alcantara was eldest son and heir to D. João VI, but after D. Pedro led the Brazilian independence movement, D. João named D. Pedro's daughter D. Maria his heir. After D. João died in 1826, D. Pedro arranged for D. Maria to marry her uncle D. Miguel, who agreed to accept the liberal Constitution and to act as regent until D. Maria came of age. In June 1828, however, D. Miguel deposed D. Maria and a civil war began. The adherents of D. Maria II, led by D. Pedro, defeated D. Miguel and signed a peace treaty in May 1834. By that time D. Pedro was already suffering from tuberculosis. He died in September, a month after the debate recorded here.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this funeral oration for D. Pedro de Alcantara, focusing mostly on his political actions. D. were passed in May still leave some issues unresolved: for example, mothers cannot be guardians of their children without a licença regia. Silveira proposes an amended decree (pp. 5-27), focusing on the Concelho de Famílias and rules for guardianship. Among those who cannot be guardians are minors (unless married or college graduates), women (except mothers, grandmothers and great-grandmothers), those condemned to prison or exile, clergy, and enemies.

Small wood-engraving on title page of an hourglass, a scythe, two skulls and some bones. Unbound. Some soiling on first and final leaves; internally clean. In good condition. 24 pp. $150.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. He also translated Sallust, Virgil, Metastasio, and others. Destined for the monastic life, Barreto Feio left Alcobaça before he took his vows to join the army. Bravery during the Peninsular War led to rapid promotion. His liberal views led him to fight for a liberal revolution in Portugal, and by the early 1820s he was a deputy in the Cortes. He fled to France when the Constitution was overthrown, returning after the Carta constitucional was proclaimed in 1826. For some time when the absolutists were in power he lived in exile in Brazil (see pp. 13-4). A street in his home town, near Porto, is named after him. This biography is cited by the Grande enciclopédia as one of the primary sources for Barreto Feio's life.

Sines (1809-1877), a native of the village of the same name, near Setúbal, fought with considerable heroism and sacrifice on the liberal side for D. Pedro and D. Maria da Gloria against D. Miguel. In 1840 he abandoned a military career to become director of a primary school in Lisbon. He became a fervent apostle of the medical doctrines of François-Vincent Raspail (1794-1878), expending considerable energy propagating and practicing them in Portugal.

Disagrees (Again!) with Herculano Over the Miracle of Ourique

53. TAVARES, Antonio Lucio Maggesi. Nova insistencia pela conservação e utilidade da tradição d'Ourique em resposta ao Eu e o Clero do Sr. Alexandre Herculano na parte que tem relação com este objecto por Lisbon: Imprensa de Francisco Xavier de Souza, 1850. Large 8°, early plain green wrappers (faded). Some soiling on title page. In good to very good condition. Old blue-bordered paper tag on title page with shelfmark ("1358"). 37 pp., (1 l. errata). $125.00

FIRST EDITION; a second appeared in the same year, with only 32 pages. In this pamphlet, part of the Eu e o Clero pamphlet war, the author politely disagrees with Herculano. Herculano responded with Solemnia verba, Cartas ao sr. A.L. Maggesi Tavares, 1850, and shortly thereafter Tavares replied to Herculano with Carta em resposta a outra do sr. A. herculano, que tem por titulo "Solemnia verba," 1850.

In volume I of his Historia de Portugal, 1846, Alexandre Herculano called the Battle of Ourique a "pious fraud." Legend had it that D. Afonso saw an apparition of Christ at Ourique in 1139, and that year is traditionally used as the foundation date for the Portuguese monarchy. The clergy and the press attacked Herculano for lacking patriotism and piety. In Eu e o clero, 1850 (addressed to the cardinal-patriarch of Lisbon), Herculano denounced the fanaticism and ignorance of the Portuguese clergy. The controversy this set off continued for some years. Herculano's statements on the Battle of Ourique are today accepted as correct.

The author (1806-1877), a native of in Extremoz (in the Alemtejo), was son of General Antonio Tavares Maggesi and himself a captain in the cavalry.
