The Hague, 23rd May 2019

Dear reader,

We are proud to present our 42nd catalogue dedicated to Pamphlets and Documents. This catalogue includes pamphlets and documents published in The Netherlands until last century.

The catalogue begins with a short introduction and explanation of some striking items. At the end you can find the list of reference literature.

We included photos of all<sup>1</sup> the items. High resolution images are available on our website www.arinevandersteur.nl.

We would be happy to provide you with any further information needed. Just send an email info@arinevandersteur.nl with your questions. Please include the reference number of the item in question.

This catalogue is available online. We kindly invite you to visit our website for any updates. A printed version of this catalogue is available on request against printing and shipping costs.

You can follow us on Facebook, Twitter and we post blogs about interesting objects in our collection. You could also send us an email to subscribe to our digital newsletter, so you are always up to date about our new projects and adventures.

The prices in this catalogue already include the value-added tax.

Faithfully yours,

Arine van der Lely - van der Steur

Introduction

Pamphlets come in all sorts and kinds. Administrative, juridical, political, religious - the themes are endless. Some are extremely rare, some provide information which can hardly be found elsewhere.

To give but one example of both aspects combined: in an untitled pamphlet from 1660 (PAM 044) a wanted notice is published about an escaped criminal from the Gevangenpoort in the Hague. The authorities are willing to pay 2000 guilders for information on the fugitive. It is only possible to understand this enormous amount when one inquires into the background of the criminal. He was once one of the accomplices in an extensive fraud around 1640, wherein were included people from the highest ranks of the public administration. The document illustrates in retrospect the importance of this rather unknown and not yet investigated affair.

But the pamphlet is also fascinating in another way. In a few lines it reveals a dramatic story in which operates a dark heroine, a former maid of the jailer who, leaving her job, kept the keys and used them on this occasion to lock up the jailer and his family in their own house and to liberate the criminal. The reader is lured into continuing the plot by imagining the rogue and his partner fleeing through the darkness of the city.

Pamphlets are a great source of information and during the making of this catalogue we learned to treasure them even more. We decided to enter them in chronological order as much as possible. In the back you will find a way to find them by Knuttel number, if provided.

We wish you great joy reading this catalogue, like we had making it.

Pamphlet. Sententie van den Hove van Holland, Zeelandt ende Vrieslandt, jegens den ritmeester Buat, gepronunciert den elfden October anno 1666. [The Hague], 1666, 8 pp.

An edition of a very popular pamphlet concerning the sentence of death for treason by the Hof van Holland of Henri de Fleury de Coulan Buat. In 1666, during the First Stadtholderless Period and the Second Anglo-Dutch War, Buat, a captain of horse in the Dutch army with ties to the Orangist cause, participated in the peace negotiations with the British government. He involved Grand Pensionary Johan de Witt. However, unknowingly to the latter, Buat also conducted a secret correspondence, pressing with fellow-Orangists for the Prince of Orange William III to be elevated to the rank of stadtholder following the peace treaty. This fact came to light when Buat, rather clumsily, delivered the wrong letter to De Witt, who notified the States of Holland. Buat was arrested and ultimately beheaded. Dutch. Different than Knuttel 9423-2425a-d. H 195 x 155 mm. No cover. Fair condition. Loose title-page and quires. Reference no. 52859 (C1267) € 103,55

Pamphlet. Missive geschreven uyt 's Graven-Hage, den 4 Junij 1688, over ontdeckte conspiratie tegens Sijn Hoogheyd den heere Prince van Oranje. 1688, 4 pp.

A certain Groenvelt, living in Osnabruck, was approached by an unknown person in The Hague and asked to kill the Prince of Orange. He got from the stranger a small bottle, wherein was some poison which was supposed to be very effective as only one drop was enough for the killing. He would receive 100 pistols for that. However, Groenvelt repented and informed the Prince. He could not describe the unknown man, only he thought it was a Jesuit. It was therefore suspected that Groenvelt had invented the whole thing in order to receive a "pardon." Later, he was stabbed in the back by a disguised person with a stilet, after which it was thought that he might have told the truth. After the healing of his wound, the Prince rewarded him generously. The STCN describes two editions, including Knuttel 13042, but both pamphlets have 'Hoogheijdt' in the title, while the pamphlet offered here has 'Hoogheyd'. This is therefore a third, not yet described, edition. Knuttel 13042 (variant).

H.S.E. Pamphlet. Haec Libertatis Ergo, of Brandmerk van de Stadhouderlyke Regering, Aan de Vrye Nederlanden. [1704], 14 pp.

Anonymous satirical poem in which the author calls for an end to the reign of the stadtholders, in favour of true freedom. The period governed by the House of Orange was nothing more than tyranny, according to the author. The impressum states a fake printer. It details the pamphlet was printed in 'Vrystad' by 'Waarmont Staet-Vorst in't Wapen van de Oude Vryhey, naest het welvaren van het Vaderland'. In an article found via DBNL is included a letter from Gouda author Jan van Hoogstraaten to Pieter van der Veer in which the former reveals the admission of fellow townsman and printer Lukas Kloppenburg; not only did he print the pamphlet in question, he also sold the illicit work under the table. ## Undated Pamphlets and Documents XVIII century.

[Lotharius, Christianus Egidius (?)] Pamphlet. Voorzegging. Dit merkwaardig geschrift, is door den drost Aluwe, geweezene generaal in Italien, van daar tot Oost-Friesland (zynde zyn Vaderland), overgebracht. [18th century], plano.

Undated rare pseudo-prophecy, which is a translated version of the original Latin document, said to have been found in the tomb of bishop Christianus Egidius on the 3rd of August, 1667. He was buried in 1204 in a tomb located in a chapel near Paris, named the Chapel of the Holy Ghost. This pamphlet is presumably related to the French wars of Louis XIV, who led several armed conflicts during his reign between 1661 and 1715. The text contains references to the nations participating in the conflicts (France is the 'Sun', the Netherlands are the 'Land of the Lion', etc.) and predicts France's upcoming defeat. Presumably from the eighteenth century. Dutch. Petit 3603

H 400 x w 320 mm. Good condition. Some creases.
Reference no. 55629 (C3057) € 136,25

[...] Weest eendrachtigh Batavieren en voeght u te zamen, Bidt Godt, Volgt goe ordre, en rept u handen, Amen. [s.n.], [s.l.], [s.d.], plano.

Anonymous pamphlet with rather confused suggestions and considerations about the Dutch policy and marine strategies and tactics in the First Anglo-Dutch War. Dutch.

H 350 x w 265 mm. Good condition. Notable horizontal crease. Minor fraying and creasing on left and right edges, and minor discoloration on left and right margins.

Pamphlet has been mounted in a cardboard frame, measuring h 470 x w 385 mm, to which it is attached with two pieces of transparent tape. Frame is reinforced on the inside with tape.

Reference no. 65630 (PAM 104) € 163,50

Pamphlet. Schrickelijcke ende Grouwsame Declaratie Van den Turkschen Keyser, gedaen en den Roomschen Keyser. [s.n.], [s.l.], [s.d.], plano.

Rather pompous pseudo-declaration of the Turkish sultan, calling himself 'Mahomet', directed to the emperor of the Holy Roman Empire Leopold I, threatening the emperor, his empire and all christianity with an atrocious war and horrific destruction. Possibly originally fabricated as a piece of propaganda during the Great Turkish War (1683-1699). Dutch. Johannes Stichter.

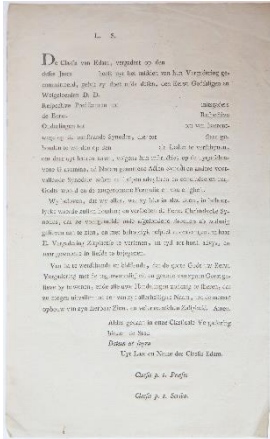

H 275 x w 170 mm. Fair condition. Trimmed and mounted on cardboard frame, measuring h 425 x w 300 mm. Torn left edge. Discolored vertical crease. Minor lacunae, creases and tears, which were reinforced with transparent tape. Handwritten in pen and blue ink on the bottom right margin: 'Ao 1664.' Reference no. 64958 (PAM 096) € 136,25

Pamphlet. Westphaelsen Bril, Gepast op de Neus van 't Munsters-Tytel-Monster, Door 't Welck hy singt sijne 40 Legendes, op 't verlaten van de Stad Groningen. [s.n.], [s.l.], [s.d.], plano.

Rhyming satire on Christoph Bernhard van Galen, bishop of Münster, calling him all kinds of insulting names, after the failure of his siege of the town of Groningen. Dutch. Knuttel 1017a.

H 300 x w 195 mm. Reasonable condition. Slightly creased and torn edges. Cluster of brown spots in left margin. Reference no. 64952 (PAM 093) € 81,75

Pamphlet: untitled. L.S. De Classis van Edam, vergaderd op den [blank] deses Jaers [...]. [s.n.], [s.l.], [s.d.], plano.

Blank form from the Edam classis (bestuur gereformeerde kerk/board of Reformed Church) of the Dutch Reformed Church, authorizing its representatives to a provincial synod to act on behalf of the classis. Presumably printed 18th or 19th century. Dutch.

H 305 x w 185 mm, plano. Good condition. Single torn in left lower margin. One minor stain, same spot. Slight creasing along the edges. Classis, Edam.

Reference no. 63671 (PAM 053) € 65,40

Pamphlet: untitled. Relation des zwischen der Kaiserl. Spanischen und Holländischen, und der Frantzösischen Armee [...]. [s.n.], [s.l.], [s.d.], plano.

German translation of a Dutch account of the battle of Senefve on the 11th of August 1674 between the French and an alliance under William III, by an officer who had participated in this battle. The report includes lists of fallen and wounded officers on both sides.

This text is part of two sheets belonging together, forming a news pamphlet. The missing sheet depicts an anonymous engraving of the battle (Stolk 2600). German. For the original Dutch version, cf. Stolk 2599 and Muller 2554.

H 435 x 350 mm. Good condition. Some creases and tears along margins. 'No. 13' handwritten in pencil on verso. Paper has become thin/sparse and see-through at certain places.

Reference no. 64941 (PAM 086) € 163,50
