Catalogue of a Spectacular Exhibition

   FIRST and ONLY EDITION. One of 500 copies. Catalogue of an extraordinarily spectacular exhibition held at the Grolier Club from 25 February through 25 April 2015. Designed by Jerry Kelly, typeset in a new version of the seminal Aldine roman typeface of 1495, interpreted by Jerry Kelly. Preface, two essays on Aldus by H. George Fletcher, followed by detailed descriptions of the 141 items on show, including collations and bibliographical references.

   Aldus Manutius (1455-1515) was the greatest printer of the Italian Renaissance. Active in Venice from 1494 through his death in 1515, Aldus was the first to print the canon of Greek classics, the first to print in italic type, and the first to publish books in a portable format, thereby making great literature available to a mass audience for the first time in history. In commemoration of the quincentennial of his death, the exhibition catalogue explores each of these “firsts,” and considers the enduring influence of Aldus Manutius on the way in which we capture, preserve and transmit knowledge to this day. More than 140 books published by the Aldine Press, mostly from private collections and not previously exhibited, were selected by G. Scott Clemons.

3. ENRIQUEZ GOMEZ, António [or Henriques Gomez, or Henriques Gomes, or Enriquez de Paz]. Academias morales de las musas … Madrid: Por Joseph Fernandez de Buendia, a costa de Alonso Lozano, Librero de su Magestad, 1660. 4°, late sixteenth- or early seventeenth-century mottled calf (worn, dry and cracking in places, joints weak), spine richly gilt (faded) with raised bands in five compartments, dark red lettering piece with short title gilt (faded) in second compartment from head, text block edges rouged. Large woodcut arms of the dedicatee, Don Gaspar Haro y Guzman, Conde de Morente, Marques de Heliche, on title page. “Plieg. 60.” on title page. Woodcut initials. Typographical tailpieces. Significant browning, but paper not brittle. Leaf Q3 with short tear in lower blank margin, touching a single letter of text on each page, not affecting legibility. In good condition. Ink inscription dated 1675 of the Jesuits of Lyon in upper blank margin of title page. Another inscription apparently of the same time of the Jesuit College in Lyon below author’s name on title page and flanking the Marques’ coronet. Old (somewhat later) circular stamp in lower inner portion of title page: “Ex + // Biblioth // + Pub + // Colleg. // Lugdon.” Two lines of old ink inscriptions (probably shelf marks), the second scored, at bottom of front pastedown endleaf. Remains of printed black on white ticket of Mundo do Livro, Lisbon bookseller, in upper outer corner of front pastedown. (6 ll.) 466 pp., (1 l.). Some text in two columns. Numerous pages wrongly numbered. $1,200.00

Third edition. Bibliographers have cited an edition of 1612, certainly a ghost, for which we have been able to find no actual copies. The true first edition appeared in Bordeaux: Pedro de la Court, 1642, and is extremely rare. An edition of Valencia, 1647, is equally rare. There are subsequent editions of Madrid 1668, Madrid 1690, Barcelona 1704, Mexico 1726, Madrid 1734, as well and twentieth- and twenty-first-century editions. None of the seventeenth- or eighteenth-century editions are easy to obtain.

There are a number of differences between this third edition and the first, which we have in hand. According to Salvá, the second of Valencia, 1647, has the same preliminaries and text as the first, differing only in that it does not contain the portrait of the author found in the first edition. The original 1642 edition contains a dedication in verse by the author to the D. Ana of Austria, eldest daughter of Philip III of Spain, Queen of France and Regent for her minor son, Louis XIV, while the present edition contains a dedication by Gregorio Rodriguez to Gaspar Haro y Guzman, in prose, from the second preliminary leaf recto to the third preliminary leaf recto. From the third preliminary leaf verso to the fourth preliminary leaf verso is an “Apologia” by the Portuguese Jewish writer Manuel Fernandez Villa Real (a.k.a. Manoel Fernandes Villanuel). This had appeared in the first two editions, as did a “Prologo” by the author, with significant critical literary comments, though in this third edition with an omission of a paragraph about Manuel Fernandez Villarreal which had been included in the original. The “Apologia” was omitted from several later editions. In the first edition there are listed 11 “Interlocutores de las Academias” while in this third edition 14 “Interlocutores que hablan en las Academias” are listed. There are other minor differences throughout in orthography. The comedy “Contra el Scholarly accounts of the author’s life differ widely, and much research remains to be done to sort out the conflicting assertions, although the following may be reasonably accurate. Enriquez Gomez (1600-1663), the son of Portuguese Jews, was probably born in Cuenca (some say Segovia, others Lisbon). Entering the military at the age of 20, he rose to the rank of captain before fleeing to France in 1636 amid growing suspicions concerning his religious beliefs. He lived in Bordeaux, Rouen, and Paris, where he secured an appointment as secretary to Louis XIII. While in France Enriquez Gomez also pursued a distinguished career as a novelist, poet, and playwright. There are rumors of earlier pliegos or sueltas. His first certain published book (preceded only by a pamphlet, Triunfo lusitano, which appeared in 1641) was Academias morales (Bordeaux, 1642), which contains various poetical works and four comedias. Surely due to its rarity, some bibliographers, never having seen a copy, repeat the erroneous and improbable date of 1612 instead of 1642 for the first edition. Two years later he published perhaps his best-known work, the picaresque novel El siglo pitagórico y vida de D. Gregorio Guadalu (Rouen, 1644). Enriquez Gomez’s dramatic output numbers over two dozen comedias—most composed in the Calderonian manner—and possibly includes several written under the pseudonym (?) Fernando de Zárate. The Inquisition was a frequent target of Enriquez Gomez’s pen, especially in the second part of his Política angélica (Rouen, 1647) where he called for various reforms, particularly relaxation of its emphasis on limpieza de sangre which had perhaps prompted his own flight a decade earlier. Despite having been burned in effigy at an auto da fé in Seville in 1660, Enriquez Gomez returned there shortly afterward. He was arrested by the Inquisition and died in Seville in 1663, perhaps while still imprisoned.

Early and Significant Work

FIRST EDITION of this rare volume of fiction in verse, of one of the author’s earliest works, also one of his more significant ones. The verso of the third preliminary leaf contains a sonnet by “su mayor amigo,” Agustino Coronel Chacon. The book is dedicated to Margarite de Lorena, Duchess of Orleans. A second edition, much more common, was published in Madrid, 1735.

Scholarly accounts of the author’s life differ widely, and much research remains to be done to sort out the conflicting assertions, although the following may be reasonably accurate. Enriquez Gomez (1600-1663), the son of Portuguese Jews, was born in Segovia. Entering the military at the age of 20, he rose to the rank of captain before fleeing to France in 1636 amid growing suspicions concerning his religious beliefs. He lived in Bordeaux, Rouen and Paris, where he secured an appointment as secretary to Louis XIII. While in France Enriquez Gomez also pursued a distinguished career as a novelist, poet and playwright. His first published work, with the exception of a pamphlet which appeared the previous year, was Academias morales (Bordeaux, 1642), which contained various poetical works and four comedias. Two years later he published perhaps his best-known work, the picaresque novel El siglo pitagórico y vida de D. Gregorio Guadalupe (Rouen, 1644). Enriquez Gomez’s dramatic output numbers over two dozen comedias—most composed in the Calderonian manner—and possibly includes several written under the pseudonym (?) Fernando de Zárate. The Inquisition was a frequent target of Enriquez Gomez’s pen, especially in the second part of his Política angélica (Rouen, 1647) where he called for various reforms, particularly relaxation of its emphasis on limpieza de sangre which had perhaps prompted his own flight a decade earlier. Despite having been burned in effigy at an auto da fé in Seville in 1660, Enriquez Gomez returned there shortly afterward. He was arrested by the Inquisition and died in Seville in 1663, perhaps while still imprisoned.

de Cazengo na provincia de Angola.” It appears to be the earliest work devoted exclusively to the subject.

The author, a missionary priest, spent nearly five years in Angola, traveling extensively. He endorsed legislation to prevent tree felling, suggest government programs to replant areas where oil palms formerly grew, and establishment of formal plantations. Slavery was only abolished in Angola in 1875, but its demise was foreseen by the author, who believed that palm oil production, in addition to being of general benefit to the colony, would provide income and employment for the slaves after emancipation.

One of the Earliest Available Portuguese Auction Catalogues

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of the auction catalogue for the library of Sir Charles Louis Gubián, one of the earliest available Portuguese book auction catalogues. Martinho da Fonseca lists only seventeen earlier sales, four of which were held in Paris, and one each in London, Amsterdam and Rio de Janeiro. Thus he knew of only ten earlier book auction catalogues for sales held in Portugal. The Gubián sale is also one of the most important sales of books ever held in Portugal. It describes 1,282 items, and was compiled by Francisco [i.e., François? Francesco?] Casassa. Casassa (b. Turin, 1801), who also wrote the preface, was a longtime functionary of the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal.

Apparantly the First Complete Edition of the Iliad in Portuguese

8. HOMER. Iliada de Homero em verso portuguez por Manoel Odorico Mendes da Cidade de S. Luiç do Maranhão. Edictor e revisor, Henrique Alves de Carvalho, tambem natural do Maranhão. Rio de Janeiro: Typographia Guttemberg, 1874. 8°, contemporary quarter morocco over marbled boards (corners worn), smooth spine richly gilt (minor wear at head) with short translator and title in gilt letter, tan endleaves. In good to very good condition. Old blue oval stamp on title page of Collegio do Espírito St., Braga. xl [i.e., xlv], [9]-312 pp., (1 l.). Preliminary pp. [ix]-xvi bound out of order, after p. xl. Following p. viii are two leaves with pp. numbered viii a, viii b, vii i, and viii d. Except for the order of the preliminaries, the collation of the present volume is exactly the same as that in Harvard College Library. $900.00

First and apparently Only Edition in Portuguese of the present translation. We could find no earlier complete translation of the Iliad into Portuguese. Book I only, translated by António Maria do Couto, with xv, 50, 8 pp., appeared in Lisbon, 1810. The same text appeared again in Lisbon, 1811, the translation attributed to José Maria da Costa e Silva, with a preface by José Agostinho de Macedo; it appeared again in Lisbon, 1830, attributed to both Couto and Silva. A translation from Book 6 of the Iliad, attributed to Couto, and two other fragments are cryptically cited by Gonçalves Rodrigues for 1838 (A tradução em Portugal 4948-4950). Other cryptic entries refer to a fragment supposedly printed in 1839, and one of 1844 (Gonçalves Rodrigues 5204 and 6138). A Portuguese translation of Homer’s sixth canto, together with the first two cantos of Dante’s Inferno, by António José Vale, of 43 pp., was published in Lisbon, 1854.

Pages [ix]-xl contain a biography of Manoel Odorico Mendes by João Francisco Lisboa, which had originally appeared in the Revista contemporânea, IV, vii, 329-53, in October 1862. Lisboa was a native of Iguará, Maranhão (1812-Lisbon, 1863).

Mendes (1799-1864), a native of São Luís do Maranhão, served as deputy in the legislature for Maranhão and Minas Geraes before retiring from politics and moving to Europe. He published some original poetry and a number of translations, including, in addition to the Iliad, the Odyssey, works of Voltaire and Virgil.

Henrique Alves de Carvalho, a native of Maranhão, edited this posthumous work, and wrote the preface. He was also a deputy for his province to the national legislature, and edited several newspapers, including O futuro (Rio de Janeiro, 1869), and O Figaro (Rio de Janeiro, 1881).

Innocência XVI, 278-80 (correct date; acknowledging “duplicações e acréscimos em a numeração das páginas” but still getting the collation wrong); on Mendes see also VI, 72-5. For Henrique Alves de Carvalho see Sacramento Blake III, 210. For João Francisco Lisboa, see Sacramento Blake III, 433-5; also Innocência III, 378; X, 260-1; XI, 289. Epic Poem on Vasco da Gama

10. MACEDO, José Agostinho de. Gama, poema narrativo. Lisbon: Na Impressão Regia, 1811. 8°, contemporary tree sheep (some minor binding wear), smooth spine with gilt fillets and crimson morocco lettering piece with short author-title in gilt, marbled endleaves. Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title page. Minor soiling to title page. Some ink doodles on pp. 48, 190. Short annotation scored on p. 51. Overall in good to very good condition. Old oval white paper label with gold border and “196” in ink manuscript tipped on near head of spine. xv, (1), 266 pp., (1 blank l.). $400.00

FIRST EDITION, very different from subsequent ones, of this epic poem of ten cantos in oitava rima about Vasco da Gama’s discovery of the sea route to India. Similar in theme to Camões Lusiadas, this was Macedo’s attempt to supersede Camões as Portugal’s greatest poet. He believed his present epic (reworked and published as O Oriente, 1814, with twelve cantos, and significantly revised again when it appeared in 1827), could have taught Camões how Os Lusiadas should have been written. When the public reception for O Oriente was less than enthusiastic, he published Censura dos Lusiadas, a detailed and virulent critique of Camões.

José Agostinho de Macedo (1761-1831) was a prolific writer of prose and verse, best known for his aggressive pamphleteering on behalf of the absolutists: “Ponderous and angry like a lesser Samuel Johnson, he bullies and crushes his opponents in the raciest vernacular … his idiomatic and vigorous prose will always be read with pleasure.”
Along with Bocage (who became a bitter enemy), Macedo founded the Nova Arcádia. He was also a member of the Arcádia de Roma, using the name Elmiro Tagideu. His high literary reputation among contemporaries proved ephemeral.

As a young man, Macedo caused so much trouble within the Augustinian Order that he was unfrocked in 1792, but an influential friend helped him retain his ecclesiastical status by obtaining a brief of secularization. Soon becoming a leading pulpit orator, he was named royal preacher in 1802.

Macedo is notorious for his arrogance in literary matters: in addition to his opinions about Camões, he condemned as worthless Homer’s poems, which he had never read in the original. In Os Burros, a satirical poem published 1812-1814, Macedo skewered a host of men and women, living and dead. Barbosa du Bocage’s satirical poem Pena de Talão was provoked by Macedo: “Expõe no tribunal da eternidade / Monumentos de audacia, e não de engenho ....”

Innocêncio IV, 185-6. Pinto de Mattos, pp. 362-5: “As primeiras edições dos poemas mencionados são raras, principalmente os exemplares da … Gama ….” Palha 890. On Macedo, see also António Ferreira de Brito, in Machado, ed., Dicionário de literatura portuguesa, pp. 288-9; Maria Luísa Malato Borralho, in Bíblios, III, 315-20; Dicionário cronológico de autores portugueses, I, 575; Saraiva & Lopes, História da literatura portuguesa (16th ed.), pp. 661-5; and Antonio Mega Ferreira, Macedo: uma biografia da infâmia. Art, Culture and Religion in a Travel Account
Whose Author Was Later Burnt in Effigy by the Inquisition

11. OLIVEIRA, Francisco Xavier de, Cavaleiro de Oliveira. Memorias das viagens …. Dedicadas ao …. Dom Joseph de Portugal, Conde de Vimiozo &c. &c. Tomo I [all published]. Amsterdam: n.pr., 1741. 8°, contemporary mottled sheep (some slight wear at extremities), spine richly gilt with raised bands in six compartments, crimson morocco lettering piece in second compartment from head with gilt lettered short title, black morocco lettering piece in third compartment with “T. I.” in gilt, gilt tooling to edges of covers, text block edges rouged. Title-page printed in red and black. Woodcut initials and tailpiece. Typographical headpieces. Occasional minor soiling and light stains. Overall in very good condition. (7 ll.), 397, (1) pp., (9 ll.). $3,600.00

FIRST EDITION; the proposed second and third volumes were never published. The author comments in the Prologue that few travel accounts describing Europe had been published in Portuguese; accounts of travels to India or the Holy Land usually dealt only briefly with Europe. “Se com tudo mo [sic] negas, vingate em não comprar os meus...”
Oliveira (1702-1783), a native of Lisbon, was a knight of the Ordem de Cristo and served with some distinction as secretary to the Conde de Tarouca, then Minister Plenipotentiary at Vienna. For reasons that have never been clear, Oliveira left this position in 1740 and went to Holland, where he began writing in order to support himself. In 1744, having moved to England, he converted to the Anglican faith, renounced his membership in the Ordem de Cristo, and supported himself with the publication Amusement périodique. Following the great Lisbon earthquake of 1755, Oliveira addressed a pamphlet to D. José I (Discours pathétique au sujet des calamités présentes arrivées en Portugal…, London, 1756) blaming the catastrophe on the superstition and idolatry prevalent in Portugal and urging his compatriots to convert to Protestantism. Oliveira was then tried by the Inquisition and burnt in effigy. He eventually died in Hackney. Oliveira also wrote the Cartas familiares (Amsterdam 1741) and (according to Almeida Garrett) left a translation of Gil Vicente’s D. Duardos e Flerida that became the standard translation.

The printer, lacking a tilde, has substituted a comma throughout: e.g., nao’ for não.

* Gonçalves Rodrigues, O Protestante lusitano: estudo biografico e critico sobre o Cavaleiro de Oliveira 2: calling for only 5 preliminary leaves and locating a copy at the Biblioteca Nacional, Lisbon. Azevedo-Samodães 3597: not transcribing the line “Cavaleyro Prophesso da Ordem de N. S. Jesus Christo” immediately following the author’s name, and with “dedicada ao” rather than “dedicadas ao” before the dedicatee. Palha 2323: noting a blank leaf following the preliminaries (presumably meant to be cancelled). NUC: DLC, MH. OCLC: 46379999 (Houghton Library-Harvard University [the Palha copy], Newberry Library). Porbase locates four copies: three in the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal (one with the title page missing and supplied in manuscript), and one in the Biblioteca Municipal de Elvas. Not located in Copac. KVK (44 databases searched) locates only the copies cited by Porbase.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Contributions from 132 members exhibited December 9, 2015 through February 6, 2016, encompassing the fields of Americana, History, Theology, Science and Medicine, Voyages and Maps, Association Copies, Literature, Illustrated and Artist’s Books, Fine Printing and the Book Arts, Bindings, Bibliography and Book History, Photographs, Prints, Drawings, and Other Works on Paper. The items—all illustrated—were chosen not so much for their splendor, though many are indeed splendid, as for the stories their owners tell about them: how they were acquired, who or what influenced the acquisition, how they fit into an overall collecting scheme. Curated with an introduction by Eric J. Holzenberg and Arthur L. Schwarz. Designed by Jerry Kelly.
