10. Lubin, Eylhar Czech Republic - Prague – Defenestration: Wahre Contrafacturwie die Kays. Räthe zum Fenster hinaus geworffen worden seindt. Cloppenburg Amsterdam c1620-30 copper engraved print; overall size 33 x 40 cm; plate size 27 x 31 cm.

Engraved by van der Keere, for Eylhar Lubinus’ ‘Regni Bohemiae nova descriptio’.

Beautifully and rare view of the Praguer defenestration which was pivotal in the start of the 30 Years War. The view is taken from Klárov across to the Hradschin, with a deer park in the foreground. There is a short German legend from A to C on the right lower side, with ‘B’ stating that this is the window of the parliament council from which members were being thrown out of. Two coat-of-arms in the top corners.

Eylhar Lubinus [Lubin, Lübben, Lueben] (1565-1621) was a professor of poetry and Lutheran theology at the University of Rostock, Germany as well as a mathematician and a cartographer.

The 30 Years War was a series of conflicts in Central Europe between 1618 to 1648, initially between various Protestant and Catholic countries of the Holy Roman Empire but eventually involving most of the great ruling powers.

39. Raemaekers, Louis Europe - Satirical Propaganda WWI map: Het Gekkenhuis (Oud Liedje, Nieuwe Wijs) [The Lunatic asylum: Old song, new tune] colour printed map; overall size 44 x 57 cm; plate size 40 x 52 cm.

A very interesting and less common satirical map of WWI by famous Dutch cartoonist Louis Raemaekers who, at the beginning of the war, had first hand experience of the cruelty of war which compelled him to create anti-German cartoons. These depicted such poignnat criticism of Germany that the German government demanded of the Dutch to put Raemaekers on trial for compromising Dutch neutrality. Raemaeker was forced to leave the Netherlands and settled in London where he continued his work and produced hundreds of political cartoons.

Europe at war: whilst all across Europe a war is raging amongst the various countries, the Netherlands, depicted by a man in a bowler hat, is sitting smoking a pipe but holding a gun in his hand, observing the chaos around him. All the countries are depicted as men except for the Sweden and Norway who are watching with interest, and Sicily and Sardinia who are turned towards each other and are showing no interest at all in the fighting around them.
