Linschoten-Vereeniging LII. - Describes a period when the WIC was still non-existent, the Dutch captured forts on the Guinea coast even before that Company was erected.

Second and best edition. - 'This important work contains the earliest information in English about Darfur (Sudan). Browne, inspired by Bruce's travels, went to Egypt in 1792 hoping to explore the oases in the eastern Sahara and to journey to the source of the White Nile. He reached El Fashur in Darfur and was the first Englishman to explore the temple of Jupiter Ammon at the Oasis of Siwa.. Browne was the first European to describe Darfur, which he reached with a Sudanese caravan in 1793. He was imprisoned there by the Sultan of Darfur. In 1796 he reached Egypt again by caravan and eventually returned to England via Syria and Constantinople' (Blackmer 219). Browne gives detailed descriptions of the cities he visits, as well as the history of Cairo and Egypt under the Arabs. He was murdered by Kurdish bandits in 1813 at the age of forty-five. 'His description of Egypt is considered one of the best of the period' (Howgego p.153). - (Age-browned). Ibrahim-Hilmy I, p.91.

39 BRUCE, James. Travels to discover the source of the Nile, in the years 1768, 1769, 1770, 1771, 1772, and 1773. Edinburgh, printed by J. Ruthven for G.G.J. and J. Robinson, 1790. € 4250,00

5 volumes. 4to. Contemporary marbled calf with gilt fillets round sides, spines gilt with red morocco labels (1 label missing; rebacked with the original spines laid down, some wear to spines and extremities), inner dentelles. With engraved title-vignettes, 3 battle plans, 3 folding maps, 4 leaves of Ethiopian dialects and 55 engraved plates.

First edition. - James Bruce, Laird of Kinnaird (1730-1794), the first European to undertake an expedition aimed specifically at finding the Nile's source, failed in his attempt, but his exploration paved the way for many more travelers who came after him. In mid-1768 Bruce ascended the Nile from Alexandria and journeyed into the Ethiopian interior. In 1770 he believed to have found the source of the Nile near Gondar, the ancient capital of Abyssinia. Still he was mistaken, as he had not reached the source of the Nile, but only that of its considerable tributary. He descended the Blue Nile to its confluence with the White Nile at the site of present-day Khartoum. He was one of the earliest explorers to report this connection between the White and Blue Nile. The results of Bruce's travels was a very great enrichment of the knowledge of geography and ethnography especially of Ethiopia. His very readable account is still fascinating today. The plates based on Bruce's own and Bulu's drawings include botanical and zoological specimens, antiquities and artefacts. - 'One of the most splendid narratives in the literature of African exploration' (Hallet, Africa to 1875, p.110). - Some foxing and offsetting from plates, otherwise a fine copy of a milestone in the history of travel literature. Nissen ZBI, 617; Ibrahim-Hilmy I, p.91; Gay 44; Blackmer Collection 221.

41  BURCKHARDT, John Lewis. Travels in Nubia. Published by the Association for Promoting the Discovery of the Interior Parts of Africa. 2nd edition. London, John Murray, 1822. 4to. Nicely rebound in half calf with marbled boards, spine gilt with gilt lettered title-label to spine. With engraved frontispiece portrait and 3 engraved maps (2 folding). (6),XCVIII,498 pp. € 1650,00 Second edition, first published in 1819. - 'Nowadays we can regard the work of John Lewis Burckhardt as a landmark in the development of western knowledge of Islam and the Arab world' (Hamilton, Europe and the Arab world, 57). 'The travels described here took place in 1813 and 1814. Burckhardt left Aleppo in 1812 and made his way to Cairo; he then carried out two journeys: one along the upper Nile and the other through the Nubian desert. These travels were edited from Burckhardt's journals by Leake; he also wrote the biographical memoir which is prefaced to the travels. This was the first of Burckhardt's works to be published and was followed by Travels in Syria, 1822' (Blackmer). Johann Ludwig (known in England as John Lewis) Burckhardt (1784-1817), Swiss scholar and explorer in Syria, Egypt and Arabia, is a heroic figure among travellers in the Levant. In 1817 he began the exploration of Africa with the countries of the Niger, but he was attacked by dysentery and died in October of that year. - With 2 small libr. stamps, otherwise an excellent copy. Ibrahim Hilmy I, p.105; Blackmer Collection 238; Weber 106; Von Hünersdorff I, p.229; Hamilton, Europe and the Arab world, p.158 'his most dangerous journey is described in his Travels in Nubia'.

First edition; posthumous publication of edited journals. - Gordon (1833-1885) was appointed, with the consent of the British government, governor-general of the Soudan, and was instructed, not only to effect the evacuation of the country, but to take steps to leave behind an organised independent government. He arrived at Karthoum on 18 February, 1884. The accounts of Gordon's death are confused and conflicting, but they all agree in stating that he was killed (26 January 1850) near the gate of the palace in Karthoum, and his head carried to the Mahdi's camp (DNB). An indispensable guide to Gordon's last days.
Ibrahim-Hilmy I, p. 268.

The main body of this work is a biographical dictionary, with over 1000 entries. Here will be found notes on all the known artists and engravers who contributed to South Africa's pictorial history. Paintings and drawings from earliest times upt to the year 1900 are discussed and considerable attention has been given to the neglected subject of prints of South Africa.
The name is of Dutch origin - equivalent to Goeree. The Dutch built two forts called Nassau on the Hill and Fort Orange. In 1663 the island was conquered by the English but the Dutch admiral De Ruyter retook it the next year. The Dutch stayed there till 1677 when they capitulated to the French. The French surrendered to the English again in 1758. To-day it is French again. - Fine.

First published in Bombay 1838, this is the third and best edition with more plates and two additional chapters. - Captain William Cornwallis Harris (1807-1848) of the Bombay Engineers was invalided to the Cape for two years. He arrived at the Cape on 31 May 1836, took ship to Algoa Bay and from there started on his hunting and exploring expedition through Moselekatze's country to about present-day Potgietersrust. He returned to India and died there on 9 October 1848. His journey to the north was a curious way to spend a convalescence. A 'famous African exploration and sporting work, due to the wonderful colored plates of African game and scenery. .. Harris' work is valuable as it presents a detailed picture of the South African game fields prior to the growing pressure of civilization' (Czech p.71). 'Although primarily a hunting expedition, Harris covered much ground not seen before by Europeans, and on his way to the Vaal discovered the source of the Marique River, one of the headwaters of the Limpopo' (Howgego II, p.275). - A very fine copy. First Dutch edition; first published in English in 1797. - 'The African Association was founded in 1788. Its activities mark the beginning of African exploration in a systematic way, as well as the furthering of British trade and political prestige on that continent. This association was later merged into the Royal Geographical Society. The first concern of the African Association was the River Niger - where was its source and what was the direction of its flow, etc. The first four expeditions were unfortunate for the leaders, Ledyard, Lucas, Horneman, and Houghton, all of whom either died while enroute or were murdered by the fanatical Moors. The fifth, that of Mungo Park, was rich in geographical results, though he too died on his second expedition' (Cox I, p.388). This book contains the travel-accounts in Africa of Daniel Hougton (1790-91) and of Mungo Park (1795-97, his first expedition); with geographical explanation by J. Rennell. - Good copy; very rare. Gay 2788 (English ed.).

Paul Erdmann Isert (1756-1789), Danish doctor in Christiansborg on the Gold Coast, was the first European explorer of Ashanti. He gives an account of the Danish settlements and considerable details of the customs of the natives. In 1786, on his way back, he describes the voyage from Africa to the Danish West Indies with a cargo of 452 blacks who rose against the whites on the second day at sea, with a resulting loss of 34 of their number and 2 of the crew wounded after a heated battle. He visited St. Croix, St. Thomas, St. John, Guadeloupe and Martinique. 'Because of the sensational nature of its contents, it has been heavily drawn on by writers on the slave traffic for nearly a century and a half' (Ragatz p. 226-27). € 2950,00

First Dutch edition. - 'Le Vaillant was born at Paramaribo in Dutch Guiana in 1753, and after being educated in Holland, France, and Germany, proceeded to Paris where he studied the natural history collections, and, full of enthusiasm and ambition, decided to travel into the interior of Africa in order to further his opportunities of gaining information by observing the specimens in their native countries. Making the acquaintance of Mr. Temminck, the Treasurer of the Dutch East India Company, he was enabled to proceed to the Cape in one of the Company's ships called the Held-Woltemaade ...

The narrative is characterised by the intelligent and interesting manner in which it is written.' (Mendelssohn pp.889-890). He was one of the first to study the birds in South Africa. 'This work was attacked when published, and some of the incidents related were declared to be either exaggerated or altogether invented. It is, however, interesting as an account of South Africa at a time when comparatively little was known regarding its natural history and the Dutch settlers' (Cox I, p.389). - A very fine set.

First Dutch edition. - 'Leo's work 'remained for centuries a major source on the Islamic world, and is still cited by historians and geographers of Africa. Although it is not free from errors .. certainly excusable if one takes into account the conditions in which it was put together.. it provides first-hand items of information on the situation at the ethnography and the institutions of their various inhabitants, and in particular, on political, economic and social life in North Africa' (Encyclopaedia of Islam). The author, a well educated Arab geographer, whose real name was Hasan Ben Mohamed Alvaza Alfasi (1483-1552), had travelled all over the moslem African countries, when in 1517 he was taken prisoner bij Christian pirates, and brought to Rome. When he was converted to the Christian faith he took the names of his protector: Johannes Leo. Scarce Dutch edition, enlarged with the history of Barbary since 1600, extracts from Nic. de Nicolay's work on Turkey and an important description of the Gold Coast.- (Neat repair to blank margin title-page; some waterstains to lower corners).

First American edition. - The objects of the expedition were the suppression of slavery and the exploration of the South Central Lake system of South Africa. This was Livingstone's final attempt to find the source of the Nile, and describes the famous meeting with Stanley in 1871, to whom he entrusted his journal. Livingstone had run out of notebooks and ink, so he had old newspapers sewn together and wrote across the type using tree-sap as ink. Livingstone's daughter, Agnes helped the editor to decipher his hand-writing.

First published in 1857. - In 1852 Livingstone asked his family to join him in Africa. With the help of the Makololos, a South African tribe, Livingstone planned to explore the whole of southern Africa as far as Angola. The missionary had become an important explorer. As the first European, he traveled on the Zambezi to Kazembe in a pirogue, a fast water vessel made from a tree trunk. In order to escape from the slave traders of Portuguese Africa, Livingstone traveled via Cassange and Bihé to Luanda, a Portuguese port and the capital of Angola, where he arrived completely exhausted on 31 May, 1854. As soon as he had recovered from his fever, he undertook a trek to Lake Dilolo, discovered the source of the Kasai, a left tributary of the Congo, and arrived in Linyanti, the capital of the Makololos. In the course of the major Zambezi expedition that followed he discovered the Victoria Falls, the falls of the middle Zambezi, in 1855 (Waldmann, Encyclopedia of world explorers, p.226).

First Dutch edition. - The treatise by the scholar, Job (Hiob) Ludolf (1624-1704), was first published in Latin (Historia Aethiopica) in 1681, and is regarded as the first authoritative account of Abyssinia. He has been called the 'founder of Ethiopian studies in Europe'. Although he never visited the country, Ludolf formed a close working relationship with an Ethiopian monk resident in Rome, himself clearly a highly intelligent man. From this fruitful partnership emerged grammars and dictionaries of the classical Ethiopian language as well as a lengthy history of the country. The large folding map by Tellez, is a landmark of cartography, as it is the first to show the source of the Blue Nile at Lake Tana. The fine plates depict illustrations of Ethiopian fauna, a banana plant, decapitation of missionaries, etc. - (Owner's name on title-page; partly dampstaining, slight browning, stronger to one quire). - Rare Dutch edition. First edition. - Captain Robert Percival (1765-1826) was the first to enter Cape Town in 1796 and he remained there till 1797. His narrative affords considerable information respecting the state of the colony at the close of the eighteenth century, it was warmly received at the time. His criticisms of the Dutch settlers, their laziness, inhospitality, and low civilisation, are severe. There is some account of the capture of the Cape and the Dutch fleet in 1795 and the country. Attention is drawn to the value of the Cape as a British possession, and the weakness of the Dutch government which took over the colony from the British in 1803. *Mendelssohn II, p.152; S.A.B. In 1846 a Dutch edition was published of the first part this book on the dominion of Mohammed Alia dealing with Egypt. 'Pückler Muskau is one of the most interesting travellers of his period; he journeyed extensively in Europe and Africa. He was a keen observer and a witty and sensitive writer, ready to note all sorts of facts and impressions of men and manners, although his great interest was landscape and landscape gardening' (Blackmer 1362). 'A boastful, exuberant, miles glorious-like tale by this 'Prince'. A great friend and defender of Mohammed Ali' (Kalfatovic, Nile notes, 0343).

I make, of course, no pretentions to the title of explorer. If I have any merit, it is that of having been the first young man about town to make a bonâ fide tour in Western Africa; to travel in that agreeable and salubrious country with no special object, and at his own expense; to flaner in the virgin forest; to flirt with pretty savages, and to smoke his cigar among cannibals' (Preface). In 1873 Read (1838-75) became The Time correspondent during the Ashanti War.

The Van Riebeeck Society, a sister of the Hakluyt and Van Linschoten Societies, published numerous early descriptions of the Cape Colony.

4to. Later half calf, spine lettered in gold. With folding map (mounted on linen). XVI,618 pp. € 825,00

First English edition. - The Commerce struck near Cape Bojador on August 28, 1815. The whole crew reached shore but the Arabs forced them back to the wreck. They repaired the boat and after their second landing near Cape Barba, they were captured and enslaved by Arabs. After many adventures Riley was ransomed by the British consul in Mogadore. This was one of the most popular books of the 19th century in the United States, probably because of interest in the Arab countries developed in the wars with the Barbary States, and because of its interesting reverse view of slavery - Moors were considered Blacks, and in this narrative they were the owners of white Americans. - Good copy.

First French edition. - Sparrman (1748-1820), a Swedish naturalist, went to South Africa with the Swedish East India Company. He made several excursions into the country in search of natural history specimens. It is described by Mr. Theal as the 'most trustworthy account of the Cape Colony and the various races of people then residing in it' that had been published in the eighteenth century. In 1772, J.R. Forster, engaged him to accompany Captain Cook on his second voyage as assistant naturalist. His account includes mention of a hairbreath escape from collision of Cook's two ships, the Adventure and the Resolution, not recorded elsewhere. Sparrman left the Resolution when it returned to Cape Town in March 1775. He resumed his naturalist studies in South Africa and also undertook ethnological research among the region's native Hottentot people. In 1778, Sparrman was back in Sweden, where he had been appointed president of the natural history collection of Stockholm's Academy of Sciences. Sparrman's account of Cook's voyage of 1772-75 helped popularize the newly devised Linnaean system of classification and nomenclature by applying it to the new varieties of plants and animals he had collected. It also includes some of the earliest ethnological studies of the native peoples of South Africa. - Except browning of the index leaves in volume II, an excellent copy.
