22 COTTON, William Charles

My Bee Book

London, J.G.F. and J. Rivington, 1842. Octavo, [viii], xvii-lviii, 59-368 pages (but somewhat more than that) with numerous woodcut illustrations plus 6 plates. The pagination is erratic, to say the least: apart from the preliminaries, page numbers 72-98 appear twice (although the text on each page of these 27 openings is correct, the number on each facing page is repeated).

Original gilt-decorated cloth a little marked, lightly stained and a little bumped at the extremities; splits to the ends of the front joint stabilised with glue; inner hinge cracked between pages 108 and 109; a very good copy (internally fine). With the bookplate of Percival Clennell, Esq., of Harbottle Castle. Reverend William Charles Cotton MA (1813-1879) 'was an Anglican priest, a missionary and an apiarist. After education at Eton College and Christ Church, Oxford he was ordained and travelled to New Zealand as chaplain to George Augustus Selwyn, its first bishop. He introduced the skills of beekeeping to North Island' (Wikipedia). The printed dedication reads: 'To the living members of the defunct Oxford Apiarian Society, this record of experiments, many of them instituted by their sometime secretary whilst connected with them, is confidently inscribed by the author'. Not least, the last ten pages, with four illustrations, are devoted to 'Taking Bees to New Zealand'. [$300-400]
