One of the earliest photographers in American history, Mathew B. Brady brought home the reality of the Civil War to the American public with his innovative use of a mobile studio and darkroom to capture thousands of war scenes throughout the Civil War. Brady was also recognized as one of the premier photographic portraitists of the 19th century, taking photographs of numerous celebrities including Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams, Abraham Lincoln, and Robert E. Lee among others.

MONROE, JAMES AND JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.
Consular Commission Signed.

1824. Consular commission signed by James Monroe as President of the United States and John Quincy Adams as Secretary of State. Folio, one page folded. Dated April 1824, the commission letter formally recognizes Mr. Alexander Pillavoine as Consul of His Majesty the King of France and Navarre for the Port of Baltimore. Signed by James Monroe and John Quincy Adams at the conclusion of the letter. In near fine condition with some light toning. Double matted and framed. $5,000

Prior to serving as the fifth President of the United States, James Monroe gained national prominence for his critical role in the negotiation of the 1803 Louisiana Purchase and service as Secretary of State and Secretary of War under President James Madison throughout the War of 1812. Monroe won over eighty percent of the electoral vote in the presidential election of 1816 and used his position to ease existing partisan tensions and endorse American nationalism. With the ratification of the Treaty of 1818 under the diplomacy of Monroe's Secretary of State John Quincy Adams, the United States acquired harbor and fishing rights in the Pacific Northwest, and in 1891 acquired the state of Florida under the Adams-Onis Treaty. Item #89150

American statesman and soldier Andrew Jackson was inaugurated as the seventh President of the United States of America in 1829 after defeating President John Quincy Adams in a landslide electoral victory. "The Age of Jackson" was marked by a shift and expansion of democracy with a goal of passing a portion of the political power of the established elites to the ordinary voter, or "common man" whom Jackson strongly believed had the ability to "arrive at right conclusions." EXCEPTIONALLY RARE AUTOGRAPH ALBUM SIGNED BY PRESIDENT ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND HIS CABINET INCLUDING SALMON P. CHASE AND WILLIAM H. SEWARD

LINCOLN, ABRAHAM.

Autograph Album Signed by Abraham Lincoln.

1863. Exceptionally rare finely bound autograph album signed by the 16th President of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, as well as his cabinet and 225 senators, representatives, and delegates of the 37th Congress, 1861-1863. Octavo, bound in full morocco, gilt titles and tooling to the spine, raised bands, gilt ruled, all edges gilt, marbled endpapers, with the name "Lizzie F. Harlow" gilt on the front panel. Singed by Abraham Lincoln on the first page of the album, "Yours truly, Abraham Lincoln." Additionally signed by William H. Seward, Edwin M. Stanton, Gideon Welles, M. Blair, Edward Bates, J. P. Usher and S. P. Chase. Collected between the years of 1862 and 1863 by James McCain, a young patent officer at the United States Patent Office. McCain presented the custom-bound album to his sweetheart, Lizzie F. Harlow, who, despite not marrying the young clerk, passed it down to her heirs. In near fine condition. An exceptional rarity with noted provenance. $25,000

Abraham Lincoln served as the 16th President of the United States from March 1861 until his assassination in April 1865. He led the United States through its Civil War, and in doing so preserved the Union of the United States of America, abolished slavery, and strengthened the federal government. Lincoln began constructing his cabinet on election night and sought to create a cabinet that would unite the Republican party. His eventual cabinet would include his primary rivals for the Republican nomination and, although his appointees held differing views on economic issues, all were opposed to the expansion of slavery into the territories of the United States. The most senior cabinet post of Secretary of State was appointed to William Seward who had recently failed to win the 1860 Republican presidential nomination and Lincoln’s choice for Secretary of the Treasury was Ohio Senator Salmon P. Chase, Seward’s primary political rival and the leader of a radical faction of the Republican party that sought the immediate abolition of slavery.

SCARCE FIRST EDITION OF JOHN BROWN'S LIFE AND LETTERS

BROWN, JOHN; EDITED BY RICHARD D. WEBB.
The Life and Letters of Captain John Brown.

London: Smith, Elder, and Co., 1861. First edition of one of the earliest biographies of profoundly influential American abolitionist, John Brown; published in the first year of the American Civil War. Octavo, original cloth. With the original mounted albumen photograph frontispiece portrait of Brown. From the collection of Hookham's circulating library, one of the two largest libraries in 19th century London, bearing the original library label. In very good condition. An exceptional rarity with noted provenance. $2,800

American abolitionist John Brown escalated the tensions that led to the American Civil War "to a degree that no other American did… he had an impact on the course of national events matched by few in American history" (Reynolds, ix-x). The 1859, Brown led the historic raid on the federal armory at Harpers Ferry, West Virginia with the intention of arming slaves with weapons from the arsenal. The attack ultimately failed; Brown was imprisoned and found guilty of treason and executed after a two week trial, however, his impact on the course of American history was significant. Item #86864

RARE FIRST EDITION IN ENGLISH OF AUGUSTINE’S CITIE OF GOD

SAINT AUGUSTINE.
Of the Citie of God: With the Learned Comments of Jo. Lod. Vives.

London: George Eld, 1610. First edition in English of Augustine's monumental work. Translated by John Healey. Folio, bound in full contemporary brown calf. Large woodcut printer's device on title (McKerrow, 375). Decorative woodcut head-pieces and decorative and woodcut initials, including three twelve-line initials. In near fine condition. $13,000

One of the great cornerstones in the history of Christian thought, The City of God is vital to an understanding of modern Western society and how it came into being. Begun in A.D. 413, the book's initial purpose was to refute the charge that Christianity was to blame for the fall of Rome (which had occurred just three years earlier). Indeed, Augustine produced a wealth of evidence to prove that paganism bore within itself the seeds of its own destruction. However, over the next thirteen years that it took to complete the work, the brilliant ecclesiastic proceeded to his larger theme: a cosmic interpretation of history in terms of the struggle between good and evil. By means of his contrast of the earthly and heavenly cities--the one pagan, self-centered, and contemptuous of God and the other devout, God-centered, and in search of grace--Augustine explored and interpreted human history in relation to eternity.

"Redesigning the shape of history, Augustine would dominate Western thought for the next millennium"
"VIRTUE WHICH IS NOT SUPPORTED WITH GRAVITY GAINS NO REPUTE AMONG MEN"

CONFUCIUS.
The Morals of Confucius, A Chinese Philosopher.

London: F. Fraser, 1691. Scarce first edition in English of The Morals of Confucius, regarded as the first work which introduced English readers to Confucianism. Small octavo, bound in original cloth, gilt titles and tooling to the spine. Consisting of three parts: Of the Antiquity and Philosophy of the Chineses; A Collection out of Confucius's Works in Three Books; and Eighty Maxims. Introductory publishers advertisement. In very good condition, name crossed out on the title page, small stamp. An exceptional example. Scarce and desirable, especially in the original cloth. $5,500

Chinese philosopher Confucius's principles had a commonality with earlier Chinese tradition with an emphasis on personal and governmental morality, ancestral veneration, respect for one's elders, and strong family loyalty. His teachings left a legacy of disciples and gained widespread prominence under the Han and Tang Dynasties, became the official imperial philosophy of China after his death in 479 B.C.E., and remained the dominant philosophy in China until the early 20th century. Likely compiled and composed by his disciples after Confucius's death, the Analects, or Maxims, grew to be one of the central texts of Confucianism by the end of the Han Dynasty.

Item #89024

RARE FIRST EDITION OF DAVID HUME'S PHILOSOPHICAL ESSAYS CONCERNING HUMAN UNDERSTANDING BY THE AUTHOR OF THE ESSAYS MORAL AND POLITICAL

HUME, DAVID.
Philosophical Essays Concerning Human Understanding By the Author of the Essays Moral and Political.

London: Printed For A. Milar, 1748. First edition of this landmark of Enlightenment thought. 12mo, bound in full contemporary calf, gilt titles and tooling to the spine, red spine label, raised bands, gilt ruled. In very good condition with rubbing and wear to the extremities, contemporary writing to the title page, bookplate. A very nice example of this important treatise. $9,500

Hume's Philosophical Essays Concerning Human Understanding has proven highly influential, both in the years that would immediately follow its publication in 1748 and today. Immanuel Kant points to it as the book which woke him from his self-described "dogmatic slumber". The Enquiry is widely regarded as a classic in modern philosophical literature.

Item #92019
LEESER, ISAAC. The Law of God.

Philadelphia: C. Sherman, 5605, 1845-46. First edition of the "first English translation of the Pentateuch in America," the 1845 Hebrew-English Bible by one of the most prominent and influential figures in American Jewish history. Octavo, 5 volumes. Translated by Isaac Leeser. Bound in full contemporary calf, gilt titles and tooling to the spine. In near fine condition. A nice example. $22,500

Previous editions of the Pentateuch published by Jews in England had simply utilized the King James translation. The translator of this version, Isaac Leeser (1806-1868), worked without assistance. In his preface, he apologizes for any errors: "How can it be expected that I should escape, when I have no Jewish compositors, and have necessarily to be often away when the work goes to press?" Despite these obstacles, Leeser doubted that "the precious word of God ever appeared among us in a more beautiful form than the volumes in which I am now engaged." Leeser avoided reliance on earlier English translations, though he made some use of German translations, and noted that "the arrangement is strictly Jewish. My intention was to furnish a book for the service of the Synagogue, both German and Portuguese." Leeser's "contributions to every area of Jewish culture and religion made him a major builder of American Judaism." The publication of his Pentateuch was the first time that any portion of the Bible was published in America under Jewish auspices. "The translation of the Bible was Leeser's great literary achievement and represented many years of patient labor and devotion to a task which he considered sacred... He made good use of the various German translations by Jews of the collective commentary known as the Biur and of other Jewish exegetic works. As a result his translation though based in style upon the King James version can be considered an independent work for the changes he produced are numerous and great... until the new Jewish Publication Society version was issued in 1917, it was the only source from which many Jews not conversant with Hebrew derived their knowledge of the Bible in accordance with Jewish tradition" (Waxman, 1090). THE FIRST JEWISH TRANSLATION OF THE PENTATEUCH INTO ENGLISH
RARE FIRST EDITION OF JONATHAN EDWARDS’ TWO DISSERTATIONS

EDWARDS, JONATHAN AND THOMAS FOXCROFT. Two Dissertations, I. Concerning the End For Which God Created the World, II. The Nature of True Virtue.

Boston: S. Kneeland, 1765. First edition of this important work by Edwards. Small octavo, full calf, rebacked. In good condition with some dampstaining to the first few pages. Rare. $3,800

Edwards argues against the people of his day who claimed that human happiness was the end for which God created the world. Edwards instead puts forth the idea that the reason for God's creation of the world was not human happiness, but the magnification of his own glory and name. Edwards then continues to argue that since true happiness comes from God alone, human happiness is an extension of God's glory, and that there are "ultimate" ends and "chief" ends, but they all end at the same conclusion. Edwards, like in Virtue, discusses how there is no true happiness without being happy in God (John Piper).

RARE FIRST EDITION OF JOHN STUART MILL’S ON LIBERTY

MILL, JOHN STUART. On Liberty.

London: John W. Parker and Son, 1859. First edition of this classic work, which remains the basis of much liberal political thought. Octavo, original cloth. In very good condition, rebacked, ownership signature to the front free endpaper. Housed in a custom clamshell box. A nicer than usual example. $6,500

On Liberty is both a lucid argument and a rallying cry defending the civil liberty of the individual against the pressures of the state and mass society” (DLB). "It is regarded as one of the finest expressions of 19th-century liberalism” (Baugh, 1323). "Many of Mill's ideas are now the commonplaces of democracy. His arguments for freedom of every kind of thought and speech have never been improved on. He was the first to recognize the tendency of a democratically elected majority to tyrannize over a minority” (PMM).

"The only freedom which deserves the name, is that of pursuing our own good in our own way, so long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs, or impede their efforts to obtain it"

Item #82401
FIRST EDITION OF ABRAHAM JOSHUA HESCHEL'S MAN IS NOT ALONE: A PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION; IN THE RARE ORIGINAL DUST JACKET

Man Is Not Alone is a profound, beautifully written examination of the ingredients of piety: how man senses God's presence, explores it, accepts it, and builds life upon it. Abraham Joshua Heschel's philosophy of religion is not a philosophy of doctrine or the interpretation of a dogma. It was Man Is Not Alone which led Reinhold Niebuhr accurately to predict that Heschel would "become a commanding and authoritative voice not only in the Jewish community but in the religious life of America."

APOSTOLIC BENEEDICTION SIGNED BY POPE PIUS XI

POPE PIUS XI. (AMBROGIO DAMIANO ACHILLE RATTI). Pope Pius XI Hand-Illuminated Benediction Signed. c. 1930. Rare hand-illuminated apostolic benediction signed by Pope Pius XI with a portrait of him. The blessing reads, "Most Holy Father, Margaret, Katherine, Regina, John, Leo and Charles Lougahan, humbly prostrate at the feet of Your Holiness beg one special blessing." Signed by the pope at the conclusion, "Pope PP. XI." In near fine condition. The entire piece measures 24 inches by 19 inches. Uncommon signed by Pope Pius XI. $2,500

Pope Pius XI was head of the Catholic Church from February 6, 1922 until his death in 1939. The first sovereign of Vatican City from its establishment as an independent state, Pope Pius XI issued numerous encyclicals warning of the dangers of capitalist greed, communism, and anti-clericalism. Upon his death in 1939, he was buried in the Papal Grotto of Saint Peter's Basilica; during the excavation to create his tomb, ancient burial grounds were uncovered which revealed bones now venerated as the bones of St. Peter.

SIGNED BY POPE JOHN PAUL II

POPE JOHN PAUL II. Autograph Sacrosong Diploma Signed. Rare original woodblock-print diploma from the 1970 Polish Sacrosong Music Festival. Signed by Pope John Paul II (born Karol Józef Wojtyła), "Karol card Wojtyla." In excellent condition. Double matted and framed. The entire piece measures 22 inches by 19 inches. Rare and desirable signed by Pope John Paul II. $2,000

The famous Polish Sacrosong Festival was established in 1969 to preserve Catholic identity during the Cold War. Future pope Cardinal Karol Wojtyla was a major patron of the festival, featured vocalist, and appeared in a full-length feature album, ‘Pope John Paul II At The Festival Sacrosong’, produced and distributed in more than 30 worldwide networks in 1979.
Amsterdam: Joannes Janssonius, 1617. Rare edition of the Epitome of Vesalius, first published in 1543 as an abbreviated dissection room manual to accompany his masterpiece De Humani Corporis Fabrica (On the Fabric of the Human Body). Folio, bound in full contemporary calf, gilt titles and elaborate gilt toothing to the spine, red spine label, raised tooled bands, marbled endpapers, engraved pictorial title page. Engraved portrait of Vesalius, engraved folding plate of Adam and Eve after that in the epitome before the main text. Containing 39 full-page anatomically illustrated plates copied from Geminus, woodcut headpieces and initials. In near fine condition. Captions in both Latin and German, having been otherwise taken directly from Thomas Geminus' first copy of 1545, Compendiosa Toitus Anatomic Delineato Aere Exarata. German text taken from Baumann's German edition of 1551 (Keynes, 171; Krivatsy, 12321; Waller, 9919). $28,000

Flemish refugee, engraver and printer Thomas Geminus was active throughout the latter 16th century in London and best known for his 1545 work Compendiosa totius anatomie delineatio, aere exarata (A complete delineation of the entire anatomy engraved on copper). Printed by John Herford the work consisted of 41 unnumbered engraved sheets all copied directly from Andreas Vesalius' Epitome, published in 1543 as an abbreviated dissection room manual to accompany the latter's masterpiece De Humani Corporis Fabrica (On the Fabric of the Human Body). In his copperplate engraved copies, Geminus removed all the details he regarded as superfluous, most notably the background landscapes which informed Vesalius's images. Born in 1588 in Arnhem, Netherlands and the son of bookseller and publisher Jan Janszoon the Elder, Dutch cartographer and publisher Johannes Janssonius produced and published several important maps and volumes throughout the early 17th century including the Hondius Atlas. His 1617 work was printed as a direct copy of the Gemini plates with credit given to Vesalius as the book's author as was common in that era. Item #74638
Philadelphia: Robert Bell, 1776. Exceptionally rare edition of the first surgical work by an American and printed in North America. Octavo, bound in nineteenth century three quarters morocco over marbled boards, gilt titles and tooling to the spine, frontispiece. Jones' work was the accepted guide to surgical practice during the American Revolutionary War” (G&M 2155; Austin 1843; Evans 15100 and 14814; Sabin 94063 and 36524). In near fine condition. $20,000

Although Jones was born in America and brought up in a family of medical doctors, he was trained as a surgeon in France by some of the leading physicians in the world, including Percivall Pott, one of the founders of the study of orthopedics. His doctoral thesis, On the Observation of Wounds, would later develop into this seminal surgical text and the very first treatise on surgery to be printed in North America. Jones was also integral in establishing the medical school that would later become Columbia University’s College of Physicians and Surgeons, where he was appointed as the very first professor of surgery in the Americas. DARWIN, CHARLES.

Autograph Note Signed To Alfred Russel Wallace.

Rare autograph note signed by Charles Darwin to fellow naturalist Alfred Russel Wallace. The note reads, "Oct. 27 Down, Beckenham Kent Can you tell me Mr. Fr. Geach's address? I want to send him my book." With the address in Darwin's handwriting on the verso: "A.R. Wallace The Dell Grays Essex." The two leading figures in the development of the theory of evolution through natural selection, Darwin and Wallace's theories differed slightly. Darwin argued that competition between members of the same species led to adaptation, while Wallace asserted that environmental pressures led populations of various locations to diverge. In 1858, Darwin and Wallace published a joint publication: On the Tendency of Species to form Varieties; and on the Perpetuation of Varieties and Species by Natural Means of Selection, the content of which Darwin would develop into his magnum opus, On the Origin of Species, published the following year. In near fine condition. Double matted and framed with a photograph of Darwin. The entire piece measures 18.5 inches by 13.5 inches. An exceptional example linking two of the leading minds in the theory of evolution. $20,000

"DARWIN AUTOGRAPH NOTE TO FELLOW GIANT IN THE FIELD OF EVOLUTIONARY BIOLOGY"

One of the most important figures in human history, English naturalist, geologist and biologist Charles Darwin became internationally renowned for his contributions to the science of evolution. He established that all species of life have descended over time from common ancestors and, in a joint publication with Alfred Russel Wallace, introduced his scientific theory that this branching pattern of evolution resulted from a process that he called natural selection, in which the struggle for existence has a similar effect to the artificial selection involved in selective breeding. Darwin published his theory of evolution with compelling evidence in his 1859 book On the Origin of Species, overcoming scientific rejection of earlier concepts of transmutation of species. By the 1870s, the scientific community and much of the general public had accepted evolution as a fact. However, many favored competing explanations and it was not until the emergence of the modern evolutionary synthesis from the 1930s to the 1950s that a broad consensus developed in which natural selection was the basic mechanism of evolution. Darwin's scientific discovery is the unifying theory of the life sciences, explaining the diversity of life.

FIRST EDITION OF THE CABINET OF NATURAL HISTORY AND AMERICAN RURAL SPORTS

DOUGHTY, JAMES AND THOMAS.
The Cabinet of Natural History and American Rural Sports.

Philadelphia: J. and T. Doughty, 1830-33. First edition of "The first color-plate sporting book printed in America" (Grolier/Henderson). Quarto, 3 volumes. Bound in contemporary half morocco over marbled boards, top edge gilt. Three engraved titles, 2 engraved portraits, and 57 lithographic plates after Thomas Doughty and others (comprising 53 hand-colored lithographs, one colored etching, two uncolored engravings and one uncolored wood-engraving). According to Bennett, Volume III is perhaps the most difficult of all American sport items to find...Artistically Vol. 1 is much the most important, for it contains the original plates by Thos. Doughty, famous painter and founding-father of the Hudson River School" (Bennett, p. 35; Grolier/Henderson, p. 40). $8,800

Thomas Doughty, one of America's greatest landscape painters "apparently taught himself how to paint, and around 1816 he painted his first landscapes. It was also at this time that he listed his occupation as "painter" in the Philadelphia register, among the first American artists to do so. He was an avid hunter and fisherman whose intense love of nature inspired him to capture the serenity and joy he experienced in the wooded hills and along the quiet streams of the Northeast" (Britt Steen Zuñiga for DNB). DELUXE SIGNED LIMITED DERRYDALE PRESS EDITION OF BROWN'S THE HORSE OF THE DESERT

BROWN, WILLIAM ROBINSON.
The Horse of the Desert.

William Robinson Brown purchased his first Arabian horses in 1910 and founded the Maynesboro Stud in Berlin, New Hampshire which became the largest Arabian stud farm in the United States. He obtained the foundation bloodstock from his older brother who had purchased the stallion, named Abu Zeyd from the Crabbet Arabian Stud in England. Brown believed Abu Zeyd to be an ideal representation of the breed. Upon the horse's death Brown donated its skeleton to the American Museum of Natural History. Item #88002

"IN NATURE NOTHING EXISTS ALONE"

CARSON, RACHEL.
Silent Spring.

Item #83522

In the late 1950s, Carson turned her attention to conservation, especially environmental problems that she believed were caused by synthetic pesticides. The result was Silent Spring, which brought environmental concerns to the American public. “Her book is a cry to the reading public to help curb private and public programs which by use of poisons will end by destroying life on earth. ... Miss Carson, with the fervor of an Ezekiel, is trying to save nature and mankind” (The New York Times).

ALBERT EINSTEIN AUTOGRAPHED SIGNED EQUATION

EINSTEIN, ALBERT.

Autographed Signed Equation.

Albert Einstein signature with a hand-written equation. The equation first appeared in print in Einstein’s Annus mirabilis papers, initially published in the Annalen der Physik Scientific Journal in 1905. The four articles comprising the papers contributed substantially to the foundation of modern physics and changed views on space, time, mass, and energy. The first of these papers was titled “On a Heuristic Viewpoint Concerning the Production and Transformation of Light” and proposed the idea of energy quanta. The second, “On the Motion of Small Particles Suspended in a Stationary Liquid, as Required by the Molecular Kinetic Theory of Heat,” delineated a stochastic model of Brownian Motion. The third was “On the Electrodynamics of Moving Bodies” (later known as Einstein’s special theory of relativity), and the fourth, from which this particular equation comes, was titled “Does the Inertia of a Body Depend Upon its Energy-Content?” in which Einstein also deduced the most famous of all equations: E = mc². The present equation appeared in the Annus mirabilis papers with the introduction: “The principle of energy must apply to this process, and in fact (by the principle of relativity) with respect to both systems of coordinates. If we call the energy of the body after the emission of light E₁ or H₁ respectively, measured relatively to the system (x, y, z) or (ξ, η, ζ) respectively, then by employing the relation given above we obtain:

\[ E_0 = E_1 + \frac{1}{2}L + \frac{1}{2}L_0 \]

\[ H_0 = H_1 + \frac{1}{2}L + \frac{1}{2}L_0 \sqrt{1 - \frac{v^2}{c^2}} + \frac{1}{2}L + \frac{1}{2}L_0 \sqrt{1 - \frac{v^2}{c^2}} \]

Double matted and framed. The entire piece measures 14 inches by 18.5 inches. A remarkable piece of history.

$15,000

Albert Einstein received the 1921 Nobel Prize in Physics for his "services to theoretical physics", in particular his discovery of the law of the photoelectric effect, a pivotal step in the evolution of quantum theory (David Bodanis). In his lifetime, Einstein published more than 300 scientific papers and more than 150 non-scientific works. His intellectual achievements and originality have made the word "Einstein" synonymous with "genius".

RARE PHOTOGRAPH OF ALBERT EINSTEIN; SIGNED AND DATED BY HIM

EINSTEIN, ALBERT.
Signed Photograph.

Black and white silver gelatin photograph portrait of Albert Einstein. Boldly signed "A Einstein, 51." Double matted and framed. The entire piece measures 19.5 inches by 21 inches. This is the largest signed photograph of Einstein we have seen or handled. $20,000

Albert Einstein developed the general theory of relativity, one of the two pillars of modern physics (alongside quantum mechanics). Einstein's work is also known for its influence on the philosophy of science. Einstein is best known in popular culture for his mass–energy equivalence formula $E = mc^2$ (which has been dubbed "the world's most famous equation"). He received the 1921 Nobel Prize in Physics for his "services to theoretical physics", in particular his discovery of the law of the photoelectric effect, a pivotal step in the evolution of quantum theory (David Bodanis).

"WAR, IN ITS FAIREST FORM, IMPLIES A PERPETUAL VIOLATION OF HUMANITY AND JUSTICE"

GIBBON, EDWARD.
The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.

London: Printed for W. Strahan; and T. Cadell, in the Strand, 1781-1788. Rare first editions, first state of each volume of the historian's masterpiece. Quarto, six volumes, bound in full contemporary calf, rebacked, gilt titles and tooling to the spine, gilt ruled, raised gilt bands, marbled endpapers. With the frontispiece portrait of Gibbon dated 1780 by Joseph Hall after the original portrait painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds and 12-page Table of Contents only present in the first state of Volume I. Engraved folding maps of the Eastern Roman Empire and Constantinople in Volume II; with the map of Constantinople in its original folded issue, as opposed to the more common appearance showing the plate trimmed to the margin and inserted. Engraved folding map of the Western Roman Empire in Vol III. Errata leaves for Volumes I-III in each respective volume; errata for Volumes IV-VI at rear of Volume VI. A stunning set; exceptionally rare and desirable. $25,000

"This masterpiece of historical penetration and literary style has remained one of the ageless historical works. Gibbon brought a width of vision and a critical mastery of the available sources which have not been equaled to this day; and the result was clothed in inimitable prose" (PMM 222). "For 22 years Gibbon was a prodigy of steady and arduous application. His investigations extended over almost the whole range of intellectual activity for nearly 1500 years. And so thorough were his methods that the laborious investigations of German scholarship, the keen criticisms of theological zeal, and the steady researches of (two) centuries have brought to light very few important errors in the results of his labors. But it is not merely the learning of his work, learned as it is, that gives it character as a history. It is also that ingenious skill by which the vast erudition, the boundless range, the infinite variety, and the gorgeous magnificence of the details are all wrought together in a symmetrical whole. It is still entitled to be esteemed as the greatest historical work ever written" (Adams, Manual of Historical Literature, 146-7). Item #89147
FIRST EDITION OF STANLEY'S IN DARKEST AFRICA

STANLEY, HENRY M.

In Darkest Africa.

London: Sampson Low, Marston, Searle and Rivington, 1890. First edition of Stanley's classic work. Inscribed by the author in volume one in the year of publication, "To the Lord Provost Muir of Glasgow, for courteous hospitality and attention to the author with his special compliments Henry M. Stanley July 3rd 1890 London." Octavo, 2 volumes, cartographic endpapers. Two steel-engraved portrait frontispieces, 3 folding maps, 38 plates & 6 etchings (signed by the artist), with numerous illustrations. Housed in a custom clamshell box. A nice example, uncommon signed and inscribed. $3,200

Stanley and Emin entered Bagamoyo on their donkeys, some way ahead of their caravan, on 4 December, 1889. It was sensational news. Emin was safe, although the expedition to relieve him had cost the lives of at least 700 people. With the good journalist's facility for rapid reporting, Stanley began his account of the rescue at the Hotel Victoria, Cairo, on 25 January 1890, working on it continuously for fifty days at the rate of 20 printed pages per day.

"WE CAN DO ANYTHING WE WANT TO IF WE STICK AT IT LONG ENOUGH": AUTOGRAPH NOTE SIGNED BY HELEN KELLER

KELLER, HELEN.

Helen Keller Autograph Note Signed.

Rare autograph note written and signed by deaf-blind American activist and author Helen Keller. Written in pencil on a three-hole punch album page the note reads, "To Bob Hunt, We can do anything we want to if we stick at it long enough, Helen Keller." In fine condition. Double matted and framed with a portrait of Keller. The entire piece measures 21.25 by 16.5 inches. $1,800

Helen Keller became a well-traveled lecturer, activist, and prolific writer despite the rare illness she contracted at 19 months of age which left her both blind and deaf. Much of Keller's success was attributed to the 49-year relationship she had with governess and companion Anne Sullivan who initially taught Keller to communicate by spelling words into her hand. Keller went on to become a world-famous speaker and author, best remembered for her work as an advocate for persons with disabilities, the deaf community, and women's suffrage.
CHURCHILL, WINSTON S.

The Second World War: The Gathering Storm; Their Finest Hour; The Grand Alliance; The Hinge of Fate; Closing the Ring; Triumph and Tragedy.

"Winston Churchill himself affirmed that 'this is not history: this is my case" (Holmes, 285). Churchill was re-elected to the post of Prime Minister in 1951. "The Second World War is a great work of literature, combining narrative, historical imagination and moral precept in a form that bears comparison with that of the original master chronicler, Thucydides. It was wholly appropriate that in 1953 Churchill was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature" (Keegan). Named by Modern Library as one of the 100 best non-fiction books of the twentieth century. It placed number one on the 100 best non-fiction books of the twentieth century by National Review magazine. Item #67088

TYPE-WRITTEN LETTER SIGNED BY PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL TO SOVIET AMBASSADOR IVAN MAISKY

CHURCHILL, WINSTON S.
Autograph Letter Signed.

One page typescript letter signed by Winston S. Churchill while serving as a member of Parliament. On Chartwell, Westerham, Kent stationary dated 14th November, 1936. "My dear Ambassador," His Excellency the Soviet Ambassador, I am very much obliged to you for your long and interesting letter, and for the information and assurances which it contains. I hope that you read my speech in Hansard where it was fully reported, and that you will give as much weight to the latter part of my reference to your Government as to the former. This, I am sure, was the effect produced upon the greater part of my hearers. Once more thanking you, Believe me, "Yours, Winston S. Churchill." In near fine condition. Double matted and framed with a photograph of Churchill. The entire piece measures 15.5 inches by 14.5 inches. A nice association. $3,500

Churchill took the lead in warning the world about the threat of Nazi Germany at the outbreak of the Second World War. His speeches and radio broadcasts inspired British resistance, especially in the years of 1940–41 when the British Commonwealth and Empire stood virtually alone in its active opposition to Adolf Hitler. Upon his death aged ninety in 1965, Queen Elizabeth II granted Churchill the honor of a state funeral, which saw one of the largest assemblies of world statesmen in history.

"COURAGE FACES FEAR AND THEREBY MASTERS IT"

KING JR., MARTIN LUTHER.
Strength to Love.

New York: Harper & Row, Publishers, 1963. First edition of Dr. King's second book, of which Coretta Scott King noted, "If there is one book Martin Luther King, Jr. has written that people consistently tell me has changed their lives, it is Strength to Love." Octavo, original half cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper, "To Murray Stavers With Best Wishes and appreciation for your support Martin Luther King." Fine in a near fine dust jacket with light wear. Rare and desirable signed and inscribed by Dr. King. $12,500

Strength to Love was Martin Luther King's first volume of sermons, published the same year in which he penned his Letter from a Birmingham Jail, and joined the historic March on Washington and delivered his famous I have a dream speech. The following year he won the Nobel Peace Prize. King notes in the preface: "In these turbulent days of uncertainty the evils of war and of economic and racial injustice threaten the very survival of the human race. Indeed, we live in a day of grave crisis. The sermons in this volume have the present crisis as their background; and they have been selected for this volume because, in one way or another, they deal with the personal and collective problems that the crisis presents." Coretta Scott King said about this book that it "best explains the central element of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s philosophy of nonviolence: His belief in a divine, loving presence that binds all life. By reaching into and beyond ourselves and tapping the transcendent moral ethic of love, we shall overcome these evils."

I AM PREPARED TO DIE;
SIGNED AND DATED BY NELSON MANDELA

MANDELA, NELSON.
I Am Prepared to Die.

Nelson Mandela's famous speech at the Rivonia Trial; now regarded as among the greatest speeches ever given. His closing statement is captured for the first time in this volume that states, "During my lifetime I have dedicated myself to this struggle of the African people. I have fought against White domination and I have fought against Black domination. I have cherished the ideal of a democratic and free society in which all persons live together in harmony and with equal opportunities. It is an ideal which I hope to live for and achieve, but if need be, it is an ideal for which I am prepared to die."

Item #46025

“I HAVE WALKED THAT LONG ROAD TO FREEDOM”

MANDELA, NELSON.

“The Nelson Mandela who emerges from his memoir is considerably more human than the icon of legend Mandela is, on the evidence of his amazing life, neither a messiah nor a moralist nor really a revolutionary but a pragmatist to the core, a shrewd balancer of honor and interests. He is, to use a word unhappily fallen into disrepute, a politician, though one distinguished from lesser practitioners of his calling mainly by his unwavering faith in his ultimate objective, ending white minority rule.” (New York Times).

Of all creatures that breathe and move upon the earth,
nothing is bred that is weaker than man" - Homer
HOMER. TRANSLATED BY RAPHAELLO MAFFEI.
Odissea Per Raphaelem Volaterranum in Latinum Conversa (The Odyssey of Homer translated by Raphael of Volterra in Latin).

Rome: Per Lacubum Mazochium, 1510. One of the earliest Latin translations of Homer's epic poem, translated from the Greek by Roman Hellenic scholar Raphaello Maffei (Raphael of Volterra). Quarto, bound in contemporary vellum, rebacked, woodcut titles and printer’s device to the title page and at end of text. From the library of Robert R. Dearden, Jr. of Philadelphia with his bookplate to the front panel. American bibliophile and author Robert R. Dearden was known for his extensive rare Bible collection with a focus on early editions of American Bibles. He authored the book The Guiding Light on the Great Highway (1929), elaborately illustrated with photographs of his collection. Minor wear and a few small repairs to the title page. A very good example of this important work which has survived over five centuries.

Attributed to the singular ancient Greek poet Homer, the Iliad and the Odyssey are considered to be the most important works of ancient Greek literature. The Iliad, set in the midst of the ten-year Trojan War focuses on the quarrel between King Agamemnon and the warrior Achilles. The Odyssey tells the epic tale of the journey of Odysseus, King of Ithaca after the fall of Troy. The Homeric Question, concerning the tales' true authorship, continues to be debated - with some scholars believing the poems to be the work of many contributors over the course of centuries. In addition to his best-known work Commentariorum rerum urbanarum libri XXXVIII, Italian humanist, historian and theologian Raffaello Maffei translated from Greek into Latin the Odyssey of Homer, the Oeconomics of Xenophon, and the Gothic War of Procopius.

FIRST ILLUSTRATED EDITION IN ENGLISH OF CERVANTES’ MASTERPIECE DON QUIXOTE

CERVANTES SAAVEDRA, MIGUEL DE.
The History of the Most Renowned Don Quixote of Mancha: And his Trusty Squire Sancho Pancha, Now Made English according to the Humour of our Modern Language, And Adorned with several Copper Plates.

London: Printed by Tho. Hodgkin, and are to be sold by John Newton, 1687. First edition of the first illustrated edition in English of Don Quixote. Folio, bound in three quarters calf over marbled boards, gilt titles to the spine, raised bands. With copper-engraved frontispiece and eight copper-engraved plates, each bearing two images. Translated by John Phillips. In very good condition with all plates present. In near fine condition. An exceptional example. $10,000

Don Quixote tells the tale of a man so entranced by reading about the chivalrous romantic ideals touted in books that he decides to take up his sword and become a knight-errant himself, with the aims of defending the helpless and warding off the wicked. With his somewhat confused laborer-turned-squire, Sancho Panza, they roam the world together and have adventures that have haunted reader's imaginations for nearly four hundred years. Don Quixote is generally recognized as the first modern novel. Over those years, it has had an incredible influence on thousands of writers, from Dickens to Faulkner, who once said he reread it once a year, "just as some people read the Bible". Vladimir Nabokov is quoted as saying, "Don Quixote is greater today than he was in Cervantes’s womb. [He] looms so wonderfully above the skyline of literature, a gaunt giant on a lean nag, that the book lives and will live through [his] sheer vitality... He stands for everything that is gentle, forlorn, pure, unselfish, and gallant. The parody has become a paragon."

First edition of Dostoevsky’s masterpiece, described by Freud as “the most magnificent novel ever written.” Octavo, bound in contemporary three quarters calf, four parts bound in two volumes. In near fine condition with some light toning to the pages. A very nice example of this cornerstone of world literature, most rare in a contemporary binding. $28,000

Published less than four months before his death, Dostoevsky's masterpiece The Brothers Karamazov has come to be considered one of the supreme achievements in the worldwide literary canon. Set in 19th-century Russia, the philosophical and spiritual drama enters deeply into mankind's universal struggles with morality, faith, reason and free will. Centered around the greedy and negligent Fyodor Karamazov and his three sons, the harrowing tale relays the details of a long-awaited family reunion which ends tragically in Fyodor's murder. One of the most widely influential pieces of literature ever published, the work has attracted a range of admirers including Albert Einstein, Martin Heidegger, Franz Kafka, Albert Camus, and Sigmund Freud. In an essay on the novel written after the Russian Revolution and the First World War, Nobel Prize-winning author Hermann Hesse described Dostoevsky as not a “poet” but a "prophet" "No writer has been more important to the understanding and/or reception of Russian literature in the West than Fedor Dostoevsky" (The Cambridge Companion to Modern Russian Culture, p.184). There have been several film adaptations of the novel including the 1915 silent film directed by Victor Tourjansky and the 1958 film directed by Richard Brooks, starring Yul Brynner and William Shatner.

"The mystery of human existence lies not in just staying alive, but in finding something to live for"
RARE FIRST EDITION, FIRST ISSUE OF DESIGNS
BY MR. R. BENTLEY FOR SIX POEMS
BY MR. T. GRAY;
IN THE ORIGINAL BOARDS

GRAY, THOMAS.

Designs by Mr. R. Bentley for Six Poems by Mr. T. Gray.

$3,800

Gray's Elegy is the final poem in the work, and "A Long Story" is here printed for the first time. At Gray's insistence, the word "Designs" precedes "Poems" in the title, and the title "Mr" was used before each name. The plates by Richard Bentley (1708-1782), are described as "an extraordinary and skillful combination of classical river gods, rococo lightness, and Strawberry Hill Gothic" (Hammelmann and Boase Book Illustrators in 18th Century England, 1975, p.14).

FIRST EDITION OF EMILY DICKINSON'S SECOND COLLECTION OF POEMS

DICKINSON, EMILY.

Second Series. Edited by Two of Her Friends, T. W. Higginson and Mabel Loomis Todd.

Boston: Roberts Brothers, 1891. First edition of Emily Dickinson’s second book of poetry, one of only 960 copies of the first printing. Octavo, original cloth, original gray cloth, top edge gilt. In near fine condition with a touch of rubbing. Housed in a custom cloth and chemise case.

$7,500

Emily Dickinson published only 11 poems during her lifetime, but upon her death in 1886, her sister Lavinia discovered 1775 manuscript poems. Mabel Todd edited and published the three series of these poems until a quarrel between the Dickinson and Todd families led to a division of the manuscripts, preventing the further publication of complete and authoritative editions of Dickinson's poetry until 70 years after her death (Wolff). Dickinson's lyrics, "her letter to the world," offer an account "of the life about her, of tiny ecstasies set in motion by mutations of the seasons or by home and garden incidents, of candid insights into her own states of consciousness, and of speculations on the timeless mysteries of love and death. Her mind was charged with paradox" (Hart, 201).
RARE FIRST EDITION IN ENGLISH OF DUMAS’ THE THREE MUSKETEERS

DUMAS, ALEXANDRE.
The Three Musketeers; or, the Feats and Fortunes of a Gascon Adventurer.

London: Bruce and Wyld, 1846. First edition in English of Dumas’ masterpiece. Octavo, bound in full contemporary calf, gilt titles to the spine, raised gilt bands, marbled endpapers. Translated from the French by William Barrow. Barrow's translation was the first of three English translations published in 1846 and is considered the most faithful to the original text. To conform to nineteenth century English standards other translations removed many of the explicit and implicit references to sexuality which adversely affected the readability of many scenes. Period bookplate to the front pastedown, in very good condition with some loss to a few pages. Housed in a custom half leather clamshell box. First editions are of the utmost scarcity. $20,000

Set in the mid 17th century, Alexandre Dumas' masterpiece, The Three Musketeers, chronicles the adventures of the young, foolhardy, and brave d'Artagnan as he leaves his family in Gascony to join the Musketeers of the Guard in Paris. A military branch of the Royal Household of the French monarchy, the King's Musketeers furnished a company of light cavalry and formed the royal guard for the king while he was outside of the royal residences. As the story goes: once in Paris, d'Artagnan is appointed by King Louis XIII to Des Essart's company of the King's Guard and befriends three Musketeers: Athos, Porthos, and Aramis. He soon becomes involved in a plot of seduction, murder and revenge that ultimately results in his promotion to the Musketeers, although he is left heartbroken and filled with regret. First serialized from March to July of 1844 (four years before the beginning of the French Revolution), Dumas used the protagonist's adventures as a vehicle to explore the injustices that defined the current social and political climate. The novel was adapted into numerous television series and films including the 1993 Austrian-American action-adventure comedy starring Charlie Sheen, Kiefer Sutherland, and Tim Curry.

Item #88658
THOREAU, HENRY DAVID.
Walden; or, Life in the Woods.

Boston: Ticknor and Fields, 1854. First edition of Thoreau’s masterpiece. Octavo, original brown cloth with eight pages of advertisements inserted between rear endpapers. Title-page vignette of Thoreau's cottage and lithographed map of Walden Pond. In very good condition with only light wear to the spine. Housed in a custom half leather clamshell box. A very sharp example of this work. $10,500

"[Walden] still seems to me the best youth's companion yet written by an American, for it carries a solemn warning against the loss of one's valuables, it advances a good argument for traveling light and trying new adventures, it rings with the power of powerful adoration, it contains religious feeling without religious images, and it steadfastly refuses to record bad news" (E. B. White, Yale Review, 1954).

"I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived" - Thoreau

RARE RALPH WALDO EMERSON AUTOGRAPH LETTER SIGNED

EMERSON, RALPH WALDO.
Autographed Letter Signed.

Autographed letter handwritten and signed by Ralph Waldo Emerson. One page, folded and written on both the front and back of the page. The letter reads, "Concord Tuesday Morning 28 June My Dear Sir, I am very happy to hear that my greeting from Miss de Quincey is on its way to me: and I am glad to know that yourself, of whom I had already heard will be the bearer. Meantime, it happens to my mortification that painters are just now making a desolation of my house. Tomorrow my plight will be no better. I think I will come & see you tomorrow afternoon, & we will consent on the best time for me to show you our Concord meadows. I will look for you at the Revere House tomorrow mid-day at 5 1/2 o’ clock in which good hope I am yours respectfully, R.W. Emerson N. Pinder, Esq." In very good condition. The entire piece measures 14 inches by 20 inches, with an opening in the back of the frame to view the verso of the letter. $4,000

"It happens to my mortification that painters are just now making a desolation of my house"

- Ralph Waldo Emerson
"A WORD IN EARNEST IS AS GOOD AS A SPEECH"

DICKENS, CHARLES.

Bleak House.

"In Bleak House for the first time [society] is seen as an absurdity, an irrelevance, almost a madness. A dark force from which the real people must escape in order to create another society of their own [Dickens] had been preparing for this novel all his life and, despite the calamities which had helped to provoke it in the first place, was even happy while he was writing it" (Ackroyd, 649-50). "The Dickens cosmos, his phantasmagoric London and visionary England, emerges in Bleak House with a clarity and pungency that surpasses the rest of his work, before and after" (Bloom, 311).

"ONE ALWAYS BEGINS TO FORGIVE A PLACE AS SOON AS IT'S LEFT BEHIND"

DICKENS, CHARLES.

Little Dorrit.

London: Bradbury and Evans, 1847. First edition, first issue of Dickens' tenth novel and one of his outstanding novels. Octavo, 2 volumes. Bound in contemporary three quarters calf over marbled boards. With 40 illustrations by Hablot Knight Brown ("Phiz"), including frontispiece and vignette title page. In near fine condition. $1,250

"In Little Dorrit, Dickens mounts his single most ferocious onslaught against England and English society; against its government, against its financiers, against its artists and even against its ordinary citizens who, at least in Bleeding Heart Yard, believed that ...foreigners were always immoral... that foreigners had no independent spirit..." (Ackroyd, 758).

FIRST EDITION OF CHARLES DICKENS' MASTER HUMPHREY'S CLOCK

DICKENS, CHARLES.

Master Humphrey's Clock.

London: Chapman and Hall, 1840-41. First edition of Master Humphrey's Clock, originally published as a weekly serial that contained both short stories and two novels (The Old Curiosity Shop and Barnaby Rudge). Three volumes, contemporary half morocco, gilt. Three frontispieces and numerous woodcut illustrations by George Cattermole and Hablot Browne. In near fine condition. $1,400

Most later anthologies published these short stories and the novels separately. However, the short stories and the novels were published in 1840 in three bound volumes under the title Master Humphrey's Clock, which retains the full and correct ordering of texts as they originally appeared. Item #27006
THE WORKS OF CHARLES DICKENS: FINELY BOUND IN FULL MOROCCO WITH TWO AUTOGRAPHED LETTERS SIGNED BY CHARLES DICKENS

DICKENS, CHARLES.
The Works of Charles Dickens (Including: Bleak House; A Tale of Two Cities; David Copperfield; Great Expectations; Oliver Twist; A Christmas Carol; David Copperfield; Dombey & Son; The Old Curiosity Shop; Nicholas Nickleby).

London: Chapman & Hall, 1906-1908. Octavo, 40 volumes. Full red morocco bound by Bayntun, with gilt titles and elaborate tooling, blue inlay to the inner and rear panels. This example is finely bound and is extra-illustrated with two autograph letters signed by Charles Dickens. The first letter is to Sir John Bowring. An interesting letter regretting that Dickens did not attend Bowring's lecture and mentioning his "Falstaff house" and "All the Year Round" and joking with him about taking poison from the Natives. Bowring was a travel writer and the fourth Governor of Hong Kong. Published in Letters of Charles Dickens: 1836-1870, p 180. The second letter is from London, June 13, 1848, to Edward Davis. In which Dickens apologizes for not answering his letter earlier but explains that he has no connection to the Punch office and that his amateur company will not be able to visit Newcastle. Numerous plates throughout including mounted illustrations after George Cruikshank, Hablot K. Browne. An exceptional complete set in near fine condition. $18,500

Charles Dickens is generally considered the greatest writer of the Victorian period. His works are characterized by attacks on social evils, injustice, and hypocrisy. "His imaginative freshness, his deep and sincere tenderness and pity, his whole-souled humor that is seldom sharpened into wit, his superabundance of creative energy, have built a deathless niche in the temple of fame for Charles Dickens" (Kunitz & Haycraft, 184).

Item #3507
"AS YOU ARE NOW SO ONCE WERE WE": FIRST ENGLISH EDITION OF ULYSSES, ONE OF 2,000 COPIES

JOYCE, JAMES.
Ulysses.

London: For the Egoist Press by John Rodker, 1922. First English edition of Joyce's masterpiece, Ulysses. Quarto, original printed wrappers. One of 2000 numbered copies. This edition was printed by Darantiere from the first edition plates as soon as that edition was exhausted. It was printed for Joyce's patron Harriet Weaver, who was unable to find a printer in England, and distributed mainly by Rodker and Ezra Pound, working from Paris. According to Slocum & Cahoon, of the 2000 copies of Ulysses from the first edition plates, approximately 500 were sent to America and subsequently burned by government censorship authorities. A very good unrestored example. Housed in a custom morocco clamshell and chemise box. $7,800

It was initially a struggle for the author to find a publisher, a comic irony considering that Ulysses is "[u]niversally hailed as the most influential work of modern times" (Grolier Joyce 69). Upon publication, Ulysses was an immediate success. The first printing sold out, and "within a year Joyce had become a well-known literary figure. Ulysses was explosive in its impact on the literary world of 1922" (de Grazia, 27). Even so, the book faced difficulties in global reception. It was banned in the U.K. and was prosecuted for the obscenity in the Nausicaa episode (Ellmann, 1982).

FIRST EDITION OF GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S ANDROCLES AND THE LION; INSCRIBED BY HIM

SHAW, GEORGE BERNARD.
Androcles and the Lion, Overruled, Pygmalion.

London: Constable and Company, 1916. First edition of this collection of plays, which includes Bernard Shaw's classic Pygmalion; the basis for the George Cukor directed film My Fair Lady starring Audrey Hepburn and Rex Harrison. Octavo, original cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the half-title page, "To Charles Ricketts from George Bernard Shaw. 14th July 1916." The recipient, Charles Ricketts was an English artist best known for his book illustrations for George Bernard Shaw and Oscar Wilde. This copy belonged to William Randolph Hearst and was sold in his sale, Parke Bernet, 22 November 1939. In near fine condition. Housed in a custom half morocco and chemise case. Signed and inscribed first editions are rare. $7,800

In ancient Greek mythology, Pygmalion fell in love with one of his sculptures, which then came to life. The general idea of that myth was a popular subject for Victorian era English playwrights, including one of Shaw's influences, W. S. Gilbert, who wrote a successful play based on the story called Pygmalion and Galatea that was first presented in 1871. Shaw would also have been familiar with the burlesque version, Galatea, or Pygmalion Reversed. Shaw's play has been adapted numerous times, most notably as the musical My Fair Lady and its film version. The story concerns Eliza Doolittle, a Cockney flower girl who takes speech lessons from professor Henry Higgins, a phoneticist, so that she may pass as a lady. The original Broadway and London shows starred Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews. Item #86436
"THE TRUTH IS RARELY PURE AND NEVER SIMPLE"

WILDE, OSCAR.
The Importance of Being Earnest: A Trivial Comedy for Serious People.
London: Leonard Smithers and Co, 1899. Limited first trade edition of the author's masterpiece, one of 1000 copies. Quarto, original publisher's lavender cloth stamped in gilt. In fine condition. Housed in custom half morocco clamshell chemise and case. A superior example, rare and desirable in this condition. $6,000

First performed on February 14, 1895 at the St James's Theatre in London, The Importance of Being Earnest is a farcical comedy in which the protagonists maintain fictitious personae to escape burdensome social obligations. Working within the social conventions of late Victorian London, the play's major themes are the triviality with which it treats institutions as serious as marriage, and the resulting satire of Victorian ways. Contemporary reviews all praised the play's humour, though some were cautious about its explicit lack of social messages, while others foresaw the modern consensus that it was the culmination of Wilde's artistic career so far. Its high farce and witty dialogue have helped make The Importance of Being Earnest Wilde's most enduringly popular play.

WITH A SIGNED NOTECARD BY MARK TWAIN

TWAIN, MARK.
Punch, Brothers, Punch! And Other Sketches by Mark Twain.
New York: Slote, Woodman & Co, 1878. First edition of this collection of short stories with the author's name written in roman on the title page, letters missing from p 91, line 4, and 13 lines on p 101. Octavo, original cloth. With a signed notecard from Twain on his stationary which reads, "None genuine without this label on the battle. S.L.C. Oct. 28/ 80. Yrs Truly S.L. Clemens Mark Twain. June 1880." Inscriptio to the endpaper, in near fine condition. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. An exceptional quote from Twain. $4,000

First published under the title A Literary Nightmare, Punch, Brothers, Punch! is the story of Twain's encounter with an 'earworm', or virus-like jingle which he cannot escape until he manages to pass it on to another person.

"CHEER UP, THE WORST IS YET TO COME!"

TWAIN, MARK.
The Tragedy of Pudd'nhead Wilson. And the Comedy, Those Extraordinary Twins.

"A major part of Twain's Mississippi writings. It resembles Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn in being set before the Civil War in a small Missouri town modeled on Hannibal. However, it has a much more somber tone" (Rasmussen, 372).
“IT NEVER WAS A WAR, ANY MORE THAN THERE’S WAR BETWEEN MAN AND ANTS”

WELLS, H.G.
The War of the Worlds.

London: William Heinemann, 1898. First edition, first issue of this science fiction cornerstone. Octavo, original grey cloth lettered in black. Currey’s state (A) with 16 pages publisher’s advertisements at end dated Autumn 1897. In near fine condition. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. An exceptional example. $6,000

“The War of the Worlds is a tour de force whose innumerable fictional offspring include numerous adaptations and homages, by far the most effective of which was Orson Welles’ Mercury Theater radio broadcast of 1938” (Anatomy of Wonder II-1234). Filmed several times, the first in 1953, starring Gene Barry and Ann Robinson and most recently in 2005 film directed by Steven Spielberg, starring Tom Cruise and Dakota Fanning.

“YOU MUST SUFFER ME TO GO MY OWN DARK WAY”

STEVENSON, ROBERT LOUIS.
Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

"If [Bram Stoker's] Dracula leaves one with the sensation of having been struck down by a massive, 400-page wall of horror, then Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde is like the sudden, mortal jab of an ice pick" (Stephen King). Leaping to life out of a “fine bogey dream” from which the author’s wife abruptly awakened him, Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde proved "immediately and lastingly Stevenson’s most famous story" (Baugh et al., 1499).

Item #85754

“STATES ORGANIZED FOR WAR WILL MAKE WAR AS SURELY AS HENS WILL LAY EGGS...”

WELLS, H.G.
A Short History of the World.

New York: The Macmillan Company, 1922. First edition of Wells’ classic work, which Albert Einstein recommended for the study of history as a means of interpreting progress in civilization. Octavo, original cloth. Boldly signed by H.G. Wells on the half-title page. In near fine condition. First editions are uncommon, signed examples exceptionally so. $4,800

Of the more than one hundred books that H. G. Wells published in his lifetime, this is one of the most ambitious. Spanning the origins of the Earth to the outcome of World War I, A Short History of the World is an engrossing account of the evolution of life and the development of the human race, discovery of America, the Industrial Revolution, and a host of other subjects.

GIBRAN, KAHLIL.
Jesus: The Son of Man.
New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1928. First edition of Kahlil Gibran's masterful retelling of the story Jesus of Nazareth. Octavo, original cloth, illustrations by the author. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper in the year of publication, "For Roy and D. from Howard and Bill With the blessing upon you four, and with the gratitude of Kahlil Gibran 1928." Near fine in a near fine dust jacket. Rare and desirable inscribed and in the original dust jacket.
$8,500

One of Gibran's most well-loved works over 70 years after its original publication, Jesus the Son of Man is a striking fictional portrait of Christ as seen through the eyes of his contemporaries. Depicting a variety of famous figures, from Mary Magdalen to Pontius Pilate, Gibran's spellbinding collection of narratives combines historical authority with the supreme eloquence that his admirers hold so dear. Fully conscious of the social, political, and religious realities of Palestine and Rome at the time, and at home with the local traditions and language, Gibran effortlessly evokes the spellbinding power of Christ's presence upon his associates.

Elaborately illustrated with an engraved title page and frontispiece with tissue guard to each play. Introduction and notes by John Denis & illustrations by Byam Shaw. Printed by Charles Whittingham & sons. A stunning set. $2,800

English poet, playwright, and actor, William Shakespeare is widely regarded as the greatest writer in the English language and the world's pre-eminent dramatist. His extant works consist of approximately 38 plays and 154 sonnets. His plays have been translated into every major living language and are performed more often than those of any other playwright to this day. Item #33050

POE, EDGAR ALLAN.
The Complete Works of Edgar Allan Poe.

Edgar Allan Poe is best known for his tales of mystery and the macabre, and he is considered the inventor of the genres of detective fiction and, the then emerging, science fiction. The anguish in his fiction reflects the torment he experienced from his financial difficulties. Indeed, he was one of America's earliest practitioners of the short story, and he was the first popular American writer to attempt to live off the income of writing alone. In light of his unexpected but immense contributions, the Edgar Award is presented annually for distinguished work in the mystery genre. Item #88045

THE WORKS OF F. SCOTT FITZGERALD; FINELY BOUND BY SANGORSKI AND SUTCLIFFE

FITZGERALD, F. SCOTT.
This Side of Paradise; Flappers and Philosophers; Six Tales of the Jazz Age and Other Stories; The Beautiful and the Damned; The Great Gatsby; Tender is the Night; Taps at Reveille; The Last Tycoon: An Unfinished Novel; The Stories of F. Scott Fitzgerald: A Selection of 28 Stories; Afternoon of an Author: A Selection of Uncollected Stories and Essays; Babylon Revisited and Other Stories; The Pat Hobby Stories; The Letters of F. Scott Fitzgerald; Scott Fitzgerald: Letters to His Daughter; The Apprentice Fiction of F. Scott Fitzgerald, 1909-1917.

New York: Charles Scribner's Sons/Rutgers University Press. Finely bound set of the works of F. Scott Fitzgerald. Octavo, 15 volumes, bound in full morocco by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, gilt titles and tooling to the spine, all edges gilt, marbled endpapers. An exceptional set. $7,500

Fitzgerald's first novel, This Side of Paradise, displayed a sophisticated cynicism masking keen psychological insight and sensitivity to the falseness of the ideals of the so-called "jazz era" in America, following World War I. F. Scott Fitzgerald continued to write on this theme in two volumes of short stories, Flappers and Philosophers and Tales of the Jazz Age. With the publication of The Great Gatsby, the story of a gross and ostentatious man who gained immense material success but who destroyed himself and those around him in the process, F. Scott Fitzgerald's full powers as a novelist were revealed; he was ranked by many critics as one of the pre-eminent American writers. In his later writings, as exemplified by the short story collections All the Sad Young Men and Taps at Reveille, and the novel Tender is the Night, his central theme shifted to what he deemed the inevitable corruption of the individual by the blind crassness of modern society. "THE WORLD BREAKS EVERYONE, AND AFTERWARD, SOME ARE STRONG AT THE BROKEN PLACES"

HEMINGWAY, ERNEST.
In Our Time; Stories: The Sun Also Rises; Men Without Women; A Farewell to Arms; Death in the Afternoon; Winner Take Nothing; Green Hills of Africa; To Have and Have Not; For Whom the Bell Tolls; Across the River and into the Trees; The Old Man and the Sea; The Snows of Kilimanjaro and Other Stories; A Moveable Feast; The Short Stories of Ernest Hemingway.

Finely bound collection of the works of Ernest Hemingway. Octavo, 14 volumes, bound in full morocco by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, gilt titles and tooling to the spines, raised bands, all edges gilt, marbled endpapers. An exceptional set. $7,500

After his reputation was established with the publication of The Sun Also Rises, Hemingway essentially became the spokesperson for the post–World War I generation. His legacy to American literature rests in his simplistic "hard-boiled style" which writers who came after him either attempted to emulate or avoid. Item #90640
THE WORKS OF J.D. SALINGER; BOUND BY SANGORSKI AND SUTCLIFFE

SALINGER, J.D.
The Catcher In the Rye, Nine Stories, Raise High the Roofbeam, Franny and Zooey.

Finely bound set of the works of J.D. Salinger. Octavo, 4 volumes, bound in full morocco by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, gilt titles to the spine, gilt ruled to the spine, front and rear panels, raised bands, marbled endpapers. In fine condition.

J.D. Salinger’s first critically acclaimed story, A Perfect Day for a Bananafish (1948), appeared in New Yorker Magazine, which would publish much of his later work. Published in 1951, Salinger’s best known and immensely successful novel, The Catcher in the Rye, was followed by Nine Stories (1953), Franny and Zooey (1961), and two novellas, Raise High the Roof Beam, Carpenters and Seymour: An Introduction (1963).

J.R.R. TOLKIEN'S THE HOBBIT; FINELY BOUND BY SANGORSKI AND SUTCLIFFE

TOLKIEN, J.R.R.
The Hobbit.

London: George Allen & Unwin Ltd, 1966. Octavo, bound in full morocco by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, gilt titles and tooling to the spines, gilt ruled to the front and rear panels, raised bands, all edges gilt, marbled endpapers. In fine condition. Illustrations by the author.

$1,250

"In enchanted Middle-earth, a small, comfort-loving Hobbit is awakened from his slumbers by a visitor who tells of lost treasure. Before Bilbo Baggins returns home again, he journeys past wizards and elves, talkative trees and treasure-guarding dragons, all swirling in cosmic battle between good and evil. Tolkien legitimized the modern fantasy genre, and provided the 1960's counterculture with antiwar, back-to-Eden icons" (NYPL Books of the Century 199).

THE LORD OF THE RINGS TRILOGY; FINELY BOUND BY SANGORSKI AND SUTCLIFFE

TOLKIEN, J.R.R.
The Lord Of The Rings Trilogy: The Fellowship of the Ring, The Two Towers, The Return of the King.

London: George Allen and Unwin Ltd, 1966. Octavo, 3 volumes, bound in full morocco by Sangorski and Sutcliffe, gilt titles and tooling to the spines, gilt ruled to the front and rear panels, raised bands, all edges gilt, inner dentelles, marbled endpapers, maps present. In near fine condition. An exceptional set.

$2,500

The Lord of the Rings began as a sequel to Tolkien's 1937 children's fantasy novel The Hobbit, but eventually developed into a much larger work. It was written in stages between 1937 and 1949, much of it during World War II in letters to his son, "and finally, having polished it to his own satisfaction, published it as a trilogy from 1954 to 1955, a volume at a time, impatiently awaited by a growing audience. It is considered one of this century's lasting contributions to that borderland of literature between youth and age" (Eyre, 134-35).

Fitzgerald, F. Scott.

New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1934. First edition of the work which Fitzgerald considered to be his finest. Octavo, original green cloth. Inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper "For Lillian Abercrombie with best wishes of a fellow Celt F. Scott Fitzgerald." In near fine condition. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell and chemise box. $30,000

F. Scott Fitzgerald wrote in a friend's copy of Tender Is the Night, "If you liked The Great Gatsby, for God's sake read this. Gatsby was a tour de force but this is a confession of faith." Set in the South of France in the decade after World War I, Tender Is the Night is the story of a brilliant and magnetic psychiatrist named Dick Diver; the bewitching, wealthy, and dangerously unstable mental patient, Nicole, who becomes his wife; and the beautiful, harrowing ten-year pas de deux they act out along the border between sanity and madness. Tender Is the Night is also the most intensely, even painfully, autobiographical of Fitzgerald's novels; it smolders with a dark, bitter vitality because it is so utterly true. This account of a caring man who disintegrates under the twin strains of his wife's derangement and a lifestyle that gnaws away at his sense of moral values offers an authorial cri de coeur, while Dick Diver's downward spiral into alcoholic dissolution is an eerie portent of Fitzgerald's own fate. F. Scott Fitzgerald literally put his soul into Tender Is the Night, and the novel's lack of commercial success upon its initial publication in 1934 shattered him. He would die six years later without having published another novel, and without knowing that Tender Is the Night would come to be seen as perhaps his masterpiece. In Mabel Dodge Luhan's words, it raised him to the heights of "a modern Orpheus." Named by Modern Library as one of the 100 greatest novels of the twentieth century. It was basis for the 1962 film directed by Henry King starring Jennifer Jones and Jason Robards. The soundtrack featured a song, also called Tender Is the Night, by Sammy Fain (music) and Paul Francis Webster (lyrics), which was nominated for the 1962 Academy Award for Best Song. Robards won the 1962 NBR Award for his performances in Tender Is the Night and Long Day's Journey Into Night.

HEMINGWAY, ERNEST.
Green Hills of Africa.

New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1935. First edition of Hemingway's second work of nonfiction, an account of a month on safari he and his wife took in East Africa during December 1933. Octavo, original green cloth, decorations by Edward Shenton. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper, "To Gweneth P. Beam wishing her plenty of luck Ernest Hemingway." The recipient was a secretary at Scribner's at the time of publication when Hemingway inscribed this copy to her. Some light fading to the cloth as usual in a bright near fine dust jacket with light rubbing. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. A very sharp example. $18,500

Green Hills of Africa was published in 1935, but initially appeared in Scribner's Magazine the same year (Meyers, 1985). The first edition explains that Hemingway "attempted to write an absolutely true book to see whether the shape of a country and the pattern of a month's action can, if truly presented, compete with a work of the imagination." The author's intentions were quickly confirmed when the first print-run sold a popular 10,500 copies, and it was aptly praised by The New York Times as "a fine book on death in the African afternoon...The writing is the thing; that way he has of getting down with beautiful precision the exact way things look, smell, taste, feel, sound." Not unlike Hemingway's virtuosic abilities, Green Hills of Africa also offers the writer's opinions on the value of his contemporaries: "The good American writers are Henry James, Stephen Crane, and Mark Twain. Henry James wanted to make money. He never did, of course."

"Where a man feels at home, outside of where he's born, is where he's meant to go"

For Whom The Bell Tolls.
New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1940. First edition, early printing of the novel that is regarded as one of Hemingway's best works. Octavo, original cloth. Signed by Ernest Hemingway on the page following the front free endpaper. Fine in a excellent near fine price-clipped dust jacket with a few small closed tears. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. Rare and desirable signed by Hemingway. $7,500

For Whom the Bell Tolls combines two of the author's recurring obsessions: war and personal honor. "This is the best book Ernest Hemingway has written, the fullest, the deepest, the truest. It will, I think, be one of the major novels of American literature Hemingway has struck universal chords, and he has struck them vibrantly" (J. Donald Adams).

THE TORRENTS OF SPRING

HEMINGWAY, ERNEST. The Torrents of Spring.

$4,200

Ernest Hemingway's first novel was preceded by Three Stories and Ten Poems and the collection of stories In Our Time. "Hemingway was planning a carefully engineered campaign for breaking his contract with Boni and Liveright and maneuvering to place his novel [The Sun Also Rises] with Scribner's. The vehicle was...[the] satirical novel, The Torrents of Spring, which was clearly calculated to cause problems with his publisher, since it was a deliberate parody of Sherwood Anderson [Boni and Liveright's best-selling author].

MITCHELL, MARGARET.

Gone With the Wind.

New York: Macmillan, 1936. First edition, first issue with "Published May 1936" on the copyright page of the author's classic novel. Octavo, original gray cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the title page in the year of publication, "To Virginia Morris, my room mate at Smith College, my friend for many years. With love Peggy Margaret Mitchell Atlanta, GA Dec. 14, 1936." Mitchell and Morris lodged together at 10 Henshaw Avenue, a college approved boardinghouse, where Mitchell was apparently one of its most vibrant and engaging tenants. During her tenure there, Mitchell was already offering colorful discourses on the Civil War, its conflicts seeming to possess her more than "the current unpleasantness in Europe." After finishing her freshman year at Smith, and following the death of her mother, Mitchell went back to Atlanta to take over the household for her father and never returned to Smith College. Black and white photograph of the members of Mitchell's freshmen class at Smith College, with "Peg" kneeling in foreground and two Confederate bills. Owner's name to the half-title page, near fine in a very good first issue dust jacket, with Gone with the Wind listed in the second column of the booklist on the back panel, with $3.00 cost on the front flap, which shows wear. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. A significant association copy. $22,500

Margaret Mitchell began to write Gone with the Wind in 1926, while recovering from an automobile accident. Over the next eight years she painstakingly researched for historical accuracy. She accumulated thousands of pages of manuscript. Here is how she later described her life’s labor: "When I look back on these last years of struggling to find time to write between deaths in the family, illness in the family and among friends which lasted months and even years, childbirths (not my own), divorces and neuroses among friends, my own ill health and four fine auto accidents ... it all seems like a nightmare. I wouldn't tackle it again for anything. Just as soon as I sat down to write, somebody I loved would decide to have their gall-bladder removed. ..." In 1934, an editor from Macmillan's Publishers came to Atlanta seeking new authors. He was referred to John and Margaret Marsh as people who knew Atlanta's literary scene. She steered him to several prospects, but didn't mention her own work. A friend told him that she was writing a novel, but she denied it. On the night before he was to leave Atlanta, she appeared at his hotel-room door with her still imperfect, mountainous manuscript and left it with him for better or for worse. Gone With the Wind is said to be the fastest selling novel in the history of American publishing (50,000 copies in a single day), and went on to win the Pulitzer Prize. Item #82010
“LAST NIGHT I DREAMT I WENT TO MANDERLEY AGAIN”

DU MAURIER, DAPHNE.
Rebecca.

London: Victor Gollancz Limited, 1938. First edition of du Maurier’s masterpiece later made into the Oscar-winning 1940 film directed by Alfred Hitchcock. Octavo, original black cloth. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket with one small closed tear and light rubbing to the extremities. A nice example. $3,800

“Last night I dreamt I went to Manderley again. It seemed to me I stood by the iron gate leading to the drive and for a while I could not enter; for the way was barred to me.” These famous opening lines later became some of the most famous opening words ever recorded in Alfred Hitchcock’s Oscar-winning 1940 film of the same name. Rebecca is certainly Du Maurier’s most famous novel and one that many others after her attempted to imitate, as a resurgence of romantic mystery novels came soon after its publication. Item #89084

STEINBECK, JOHN.
Tortilla Flat.

Set in Monterey, California, Tortilla Flat tells the story of a small band of paisanos who resist the corrupting tides of honest toil in favor of a life of adventure. “An utterly unprecedented sort of book, and hard to analyze in its unique charm” (Virginia Kirkus). Item #88945

“RARE FIRST EDITION OF T.S. ELIOT'S THE WASTE LAND; ONE OF 460 EXAMPLES”

ELIOT, T.S.
The Waste Land.

Richmond: By Leonard and Virginia Woolf at the Hogarth Press, 1923. First edition, first state of one of the most influential works of the 20th century. Octavo, original marbled blue boards; one of about 460 copies hand-printed by the Leonard and Virginia Woolf. In near fine condition with a small piece missing from the spine. A very nice example, as most examples of this fragile work appear lacking the spine. $5,800

The Waste Land expresses with great power the disillusionment and disgust of the period after World War I. In a series of fragmentary vignettes, loosely linked by the legend of the search for the Grail, it portrays a sterile world of panicky fears and barren lusts, and of human beings waiting for some sign or promise of redemption. FIRST EDITION OF WILLIAM FAULKNER'S SANCTUARY: IN THE RARE ORIGINAL DUST JACKET

FAULKNER, WILLIAM.

Sanctuary.

New York: Johnathan Cape & Harrison Smith, 1931. First edition of the novel that established Faulkner's literary reputation. Octavo, original half cloth, pictorial endpapers. From the library of Virginia bibliophile and historian Christopher Clark Geest with his bookplate. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket. A very sharp example. $4,500

Set in Faulkner's fictional Yoknapatawpha County, Mississippi in the summer of 1929, Sanctuary is a story of murder, rape, and abduction; widely considered Faulkner's most controversial work and the novel responsible for his breakthrough as one of the most talented writers of the 20th century. "It is one of the most terrifying books I have ever read. And it is one of the most extraordinary" - Edwin Seaver. Item #91796

"UPON THE DARK, CEASELESS WATER MOONLIGHT WAS BROKEN INTO LITTLE FLEETING SILVER WINGS"

FAULKNER, WILLIAM.

Mosquitoes.

New York: Boni & Liveright, Inc, 1927. First edition of Faulkner’s second novel. Octavo, original cloth, pictorial endpapers. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket. From the library of Virginia bibliophile Christopher Clark Geest. A very nice example of this early Faulkner work. $4,800

On a yacht on Lake Pontchartrain, a diverse group of strangely associated people embark on a four-day excursion from the city of New Orleans. Evidently inspired by a similar excursion from Faulkner's own life, the novel offers a tongue in cheek criticism of the mundane preoccupations of the 1920s New Orleans creative community. Item #91795

"WAR IS AN EPISODE, A CRISIS, A FEVER THE PURPOSE OF WHICH IS TO RID THE BODY OF FEVER"

FAULKNER, WILLIAM.

A Fable.

An allegorical story of World War I, set in the trenches in France and dealing ostensibly with a mutiny in a French regiment, A Fable was originally considered a sharp departure for Faulkner. Recently it has come to be recognized as one of his major works and an essential part of the Faulkner oeuvre. Faulkner himself fought in the war, and his descriptions of it "rise to magnificence," according to The New York Times. Item #89763
FROM THE LIBRARY OF FELLOW NOVELIST
BUDD SCHULBERG

FAULKNER, WILLIAM.
The Faulkner Reader.

New York: Random House, 1954. First edition of this collection of works by the Nobel Prize-winning author. Octavo, original cloth. Signed by the author in the year of publication, "William Faulkner New York 3 Dec 1954." From the library of American screenwriter, novelist and sportswriter Budd Schulberg, best known for his 1954 Academy Award-winning screenplay for On the Waterfront as well as his 1941 novel What Makes Sammy Run? Small ownership initials of Schulberg to the front free endpaper, near fine in a very good dust jacket. Rare and desirable signed. $6,500

The Faulkner Reader is a sweeping anthology of works by an American original, including the complete text of The Sound and the Fury, a foreword by the author, his Nobel Prize address, and a selection of brilliant novellas and short stories.

The Harder They Fall.

New York: Random House, 1947. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author, "For Herb Yellin, With my thanks for your interest in my work. Cordially Budd Schulberg July 1, 1974." The recipient Herb Yellin was the founder of The Lord John Press. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket. $600

First edition of Schulberg’s second book, the basis for the 1956 film directed by Mark Robson, featuring Humphrey Bogart’s final film role. Crowded with unforgettable characters, it is a relentless expose of the fight racket. Many critics hailed the book as even better than What Makes Sammy Run?

Item #85365

"THEY LOOKED AT EACH OTHER UNTIL THEY WEREN'T ACQUAINTANCES ANY LONGER"

SCHULBERG, BUDD.
What Makes Sammy Run?

New York: Random House, 1941. First edition of what many consider one of the most important novels on Hollywood and the film industry. Octavo, original cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author in the year of publication, "To Julian Johnson with respect and fond regards, Budd. March 29, 1941." The recipient Julian Johnson was the head story editor for 20th Century Fox studios in the 1930s. Fine in a near fine first issue dust jacket. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. $5,500

Although What Makes Sammy Run was never made into a film — it reached Broadway as a musical in the 1960s, and Schulberg himself directed a 1959 TV adaptation — works as varied as "The Player" and "Sweet Smell of Success" owe a debt to Schulberg’s tale. Item #89545

Mutiny on the Bounty.

New York: Limited Editions Club, 1947. First limited edition of this epic historical drama made into the 1962 film starring Marlon Brando, Trevor Howard and Richard Harris. The film was the first widescreen motion picture ever produced. One of only 1500 copies. This is number 426. Signed on the front free endpaper in the year of the film's production by Marlon Brando (cast as First Lieutenant Fletcher Christian), Lewis Milestone (the film's director), Tarita Teriipaia (Princess Maimiti), and inscribed by the film's producer Aaron Rosenberg, "To Phil Corrin, Hope the picture lives up to your expectations. Most sincerely, Aaron Rosenberg." Additionally signed on the verso by twelve additional cast members including Richard Harris and Duncan Lamont. Octavo, bound in full pebbled sheepskin, gilt titles and tooling to the spine and front panel, top edge gilt, in the scarce original glassine and original slipcase. An extraordinary example, most rare and desirable signed by Brando and the cast. $15,000

LEWIS, C.S.

That Hideous Strength.

London: John Lane, The Bodley Head, 1943. First edition of the final novel in Lewis' acclaimed Space Trilogy. Octavo, original cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by C.S. Lewis to fellow writer and journalist George Orwell and his wife (Eric and Eileen Blair) on the front free endpaper, "To the Blairs, with kind regards, C.S. Lewis Aug. 1945." This is the review copy used in George Orwell's literary review of the book which was published in the Manchester Evening News on August 16th 1945. Also with three hand-corrections to the text in Lewis' hand which he made in all review copies before personally sending to critics. Although Lewis and Orwell were not close friends, both were employed as radio journalists by the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) during WWII, an era that transformed both religious broadcasting (in which Lewis became a primary figure) and war correspondence (Orwell's experience as a correspondent working out of the basement of the BBC during wartime was a major inspiration for his masterpiece Nineteen Eighty-Four). Very good in a very good dust jacket. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. A remarkable association. $30,000

According to biographer A. N. Wilson, Lewis began The Space Trilogy after a conversation with J.R.R. Tolkien in which both men lamented the state of contemporary fiction. They agreed that Lewis would write a space-travel story, and Tolkien would write a time-travel one. Tolkien's story only exists as a fragment, published in The Lost Road and other writings (1987) edited by his son Christopher. "[Lewis's] book describes the struggle of a little group of sane people against a nightmare that nearly conquers the world. A company of mad scientists – or, perhaps, they are not mad, but have merely destroyed in themselves all human feeling, all notion of good and evil – are plotting to conquer Britain, then the whole planet, and then other planets, until they have brought the universe under their control. All superfluous life is to be wiped out, all natural forces tamed, the common people are to be used as slaves and vivisection subjects by the ruling caste of scientists, who even see their way to conferring immortal life upon themselves. Man, in short, is to storm the heavens and overthrow the gods, or even to become a god himself – George Orwell, Manchester Evening News, 1945.

CAMUS, ALBERT.
The Plague.

"The Plague is parable and sermon, and should be considered as such. To criticize it by standards which apply to most fiction would be to risk condemning it for moralizing, which is exactly where it is strongest... There are certain things which need to be said now, without care for the future, and these are said in The Plague" (Stephen Spender in Books of the Century, 159).

WYNDHAM, JOHN.
The Day of the Triffids.

"A thoroughly English apocalypse, it rivals H. G. Wells in conveying how the everyday invaded by the alien would feel. No wonder Stephen King admires Wyndham so much" (Ramsey Campbell). It was the basis for two films, a 1962 feature film produced by George Pitcher and Philip Yordan, directed by Steve Sekely, starring Howard Keel and Nicole Maurey and a 1981 made for television movie.

"IF YOU REALLY WANT TO HEAR ABOUT IT"

SALINGER, J.D.
The Catcher In The Rye.

Since his debut in 1951 as The Catcher In the Rye, Holden Caulfield has been synonymous with "cynical adolescent." Holden narrates the story of a couple of days in his sixteen-year-old life, just after he's been expelled from prep school, in a slang that sounds edgy even today and keeps this novel on banned book lists. It begins, "If you really want to hear about it, the first thing you'll probably want to know is where I was born and what my lousy childhood was like, and how my parents were occupied and all before they had me, and all that David Copperfield kind of crap, but I don't feel like going into it, if you want to know the truth. In the first place, that stuff bores me, and in the second place, my parents would have about two hemorrhages apiece if I told anything pretty personal about them."

Item #84678

"INSCRIBED BY J.D. SALINGER"

SALINGER, J.D.
Franny and Zooey.

New York: Little, Brown, and Company, 1961. First edition, second printing of Salinger's third book. Octavo, original cloth. Inscribed by Salinger in red pen on the front free endpaper to a personal friend, "Oke, Stop over sometime, JDS 8/26/61." While Salinger is known for his reclusive behavior with regard to the spotlight of the international press, he did have close relations with the local townspeople around his New Hampshire home, who respected his privacy. This inscription shows the authentic nature of those relationships. Affixed to the verso of the front panel and front free endpaper are three newspaper clippings regarding Salinger's reputation as a recluse later in life, including a clipped article from the Boston Herald, Thursday, April 25th, 1991, "Salinger breaks silence to refuse award" regarding Salinger's refusal to accept a Lillian L. Poses Creative Arts Award in 1991 and a clipped Q. & A. regarding news of a fire at Salinger's hilltop home in Cornish, New Hampshire. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket. Books signed by Salinger are scarce. $9,200

Salinger's short story Franny and novella Zooey first appeared in The New Yorker in 1955 and 1957 respectively. Both stories center on the two youngest members of the Glass family of New York's Upper East Side. Franny takes place in an unnamed college town during Franny's weekend visit to her boyfriend. Set shortly after Franny, Zooey takes place in the Glass family Manhattan apartment where Franny is suffering from an existential breakdown. Both stories echo Salinger's own disillusionment with the inauthenticity he saw in contemporary society, which he himself attempted to escape through an ever-evolving roster of unconventional religious practices. "ONLY THE PRESENT IS REAL - THE HERE-AND-NOW. SEIZE THE DAY"

BELLOW, SAUL.
Seize the Day.

New York: The Viking Press, 1956. First edition of the Nobel Prize-winning author's fourth book. Octavo, original half cloth. Inscribed by the author, "For the Gabels with best wishes from an old exile to Evanston Saul Bellow." The recipients were close friends of Bellow's while he was a student at Northwestern University. Fine in a very good dust jacket. Uncommon.

$1,500

"It is the special distinction of Mr. Bellow as a novelist that he is able to give us, step by step, the world we really live each day--and in the same movement to show us that the real suffering of not understanding, the deprivation of light" (New York Times).

“SOME PEOPLE, IF THEY DIDN’T MAKE IT HARD FOR THEMSELVES, MIGHT FALL ASLEEP”

BELLOW, SAUL.
The Adventures of Augie March.

$4,500

The Adventures of Augie March comes on stage with one of literature's most famous opening lines. "I am an American, Chicago born, and go at things as I have taught myself, free-style, and will make the record in my own way: first to knock, first admitted." Bellow quickly found a receptive audience for his new energetic style. The novel went on to win the National Book Award for 1954 and was listed on Modern Library's 100 greatest novels of the twentieth century.

Naked Lunch

BY WILLIAM S. BURROUGHS

Naked Lunch is considered Burroughs’ seminal work. Extremely controversial in both its subject matter and its use of obscene language (something Burroughs recognized and intended), the book was banned in Boston and Los Angeles in the United States, and several European publishers were harassed. It was one of the more recent American books over which an obscenity trial was held. The book was banned in Boston in 1962 due to obscenity (notably child murder and acts of pedophilia), making it among the last works to be banned in that city, but that decision was reversed in 1966 by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court. The Appeals Court found the book did not violate obscenity statutes, as it was found to have some social value. The hearing included testimony in support of the work by Allen Ginsberg and Norman Mailer.

KESEY, KEN.

One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest.

$18,000

Published in February 1962, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest was a great critical and commercial success. Over the subsequent decades the book’s reputation and readership swelled as millions recognized Kesey’s psychiatric ward as a not-so-fantastic metaphor for a modern world in which bureaucracy and technology combine to diminish humanity, individuality and diversity. Adapted to the stage in 1963, with Kirk Douglas in the lead, and was the basis for the highly successful 1975 film directed by Milos Forman and starring Jack Nicholson. Considered to be one of the greatest films ever made, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest ranks number 33 on the American Film Institute’s 100 Years, 100 Movies list. It was the second to win all five major Academy Awards (Best Picture, Actor in Lead Role, Actress in Lead Role, Director, and Screenplay) following It Happened One Night in 1934, an accomplishment not repeated until 1991 by The Silence of the Lambs. It also won numerous Golden Globe and BAFTA Awards. Item #88433

VONNEGUT, JR., KURT.
Slaughterhouse-Five, or The Children's Crusade, A Duty-Dance With Death.

"Slaughterhouse-Five, perhaps Vonnegut's most powerful novel, presents two characters who can see beneath the surface to the tragic realities of human history but make no attempt to bring about change. The central event is the destruction of Dresden by bombs and fire storm—a catastrophe that Vonnegut himself witnessed as a prisoner of war" (Vinson, 1414-15). "Kurt Vonnegut knows all the tricks of the writing game. So he has not even tried to describe the bombing. Instead he has written around it in a highly imaginative, often funny, nearly psychedelic story. The story is sandwiched between an autobiographical introduction and epilogue" (The New York Times). HELLER, JOSEPH.

Catch – 22.

New York: Simon & Schuster, 1961. First edition of Heller's classic first book. Octavo, original blue cloth. Presentation copy, lengthily inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper in the year of publication, "To Sue Fox - With all best wishes and with the hope that we'll meet again soon. Hungry Joe Heller November 14, 1961 New York." The inscription references one of Heller's characters, Hungry Joe, a soldier tormented by nightmares who has yet been permitted to return home despite the fact that he has finished the book's protagonist, WWII Army Air Corps Captain John Yossarian's, required number of squadron missions. Very good in a very good dust jacket with some wear to the foot and crown of the spine. Rare and desirable with such a lengthy inscription by Heller.

$8,800

"Catch-22, Joseph Heller's first and best-known novel, depicts a military world turned upside down. Many consider the novel to be the definitive statement of the modern antiwar position. SIGNED BY TOM WOLFE, KEN KESEY, HUNTER S. THOMPSON AND A HOST OF OTHER COUNTER-CULTURE FIGURES

WOLFE, TOM.
The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test.

The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test was published by Farrar, Straus and Giroux in 1968 and is considered ideal insight into the hippie movement. The New York Times said the novel is not simply the best book on the hippies, it is the essential book . . . the pushing, ballooning heart of the matter . . . Vibrating dazzle!" Indeed, "[a]mong journalists, Wolfe is a genuine poet; what makes him so good is his ability to get inside, to not merely describe (although he is a superb reporter), but to get under the skin of a phenomenon and transmit its metabolic rhythm" (Newsweek).

DYLAN, BOB.
Bob Dylan Song Book.

Dylan's lyrics have incorporated various political, social, philosophical, and literary influences. They defied existing pop music conventions and appealed to the burgeoning counterculture. His accomplishments as a recording artist and performer have been central to his career, but songwriting is considered his greatest contribution. Dylan has sold more than 100 million records, making him one of the best-selling artists of all time.

ACOSTA, OSCAR ZETA.
The Revolt of the Cockroach People.

Before his mysterious disappearance and probable death in 1974, Oscar Zeta Acosta was famous as a Robin Hood Chicano lawyer and notorious as the real-life model for Hunter S. Thompson's "Dr. Gonzo": a fat, pugnacious attorney with a gargantuan appetite for food, drugs, and life on the edge. In this exhilarating sequel to The Autobiography of a Brown Buffalo, Acosta takes us behind the front lines of the militant Chicano movement of the late sixties and early seventies, a movement he served both in the courtroom and on the barricades.

FLEMING, IAN.
The Spy Who Loved Me.

In light of the novel’s immense presence as a classic thriller, it’s amusing to learn that it was at first poorly received. The reception was so bad that Fleming wrote to Michael Howard of the Jonathan Cape publishing company to explain why he wrote the book: “I had become increasingly surprised to find my thrillers, which were designed for an adult audience, being read in schools, and that young people were making a hero out of James Bond ... So it crossed my mind to write a cautionary tale about Bond, to put the record straight in the minds particularly of younger readers ... the experiment has obviously gone very much awry” (Chancellor 2005). Upon Fleming’s request, no reprints were made until after his death in 1964. It was the basis for the tenth film in the James Bond series, starring Roger Moore, Barbara Bach and Curt Jürgens. Item #88973

Made into the 1975 film of the same title starring Roger Moore as Bond, with an all-star cast which included Christopher Lee, Britt Ekland, Maud Adams and Hervé Villchaize. Item #88432

The Man With The Golden Gun.
London: Jonathan Cape, 1965. First edition, first state with the golden gun embossed on the front board. Octavo, original black boards, green patterned endpapers. The publisher set out to publish the embossed gun but the cost proved prohibitive to continue, so the gilt-stamping was ceased, and the remaining copies were published with plain front boards. "This issue with the golden gun on the casing is the rarest, by far, of the Bond books. The Cape archives do not reveal how many copies were produced with the golden gun stamping." (Biondi & Pickard, 50). "Publication day would be the same throughout the British Commonwealth and stock would need to arrive in good time to meet this date. The books were sent from the UK via container ship (a 'slow boat') as air transport was expensive, and those nations furthest afield would be sent the earliest available copies (which, of course, meant the 'Golden Gun' bindings) at the first opportunity, to ensure a simultaneous publication as intended" (Gilbert, p. 418). An excellent near fine example with the gilt bright, a small contemporary name to the front pastedown in a near fine dust jacket with a touch of rubbing. A very bright example of the rare first state binding. $9,800

The Spy Who Loved Me.
"THE PUBLIC LOVES TO CREATE A HERO"

METALIOUS, GRACE.

Peyton Place.

Metalious' Peyton Place sold 60 000 copies within the first ten days of its release and remained on the New York Times best seller list for 59 weeks. The novel spawned a franchise that would run through four decades. Twentieth Century-Fox adapted it as a major motion picture in 1957. The original 1956 novel was adapted again in 1964, in what became a wildly successful prime time television series for 20th Century Fox Television that ran until 1969, and the term "Peyton Place", an allusion to any small town or group that holds scandalous secrets, entered into the American lexicon.

CAPOTE, TRUMAN.

In Cold Blood.

$3,800

If all Truman Capote did was invent a new genre--journalism written with the language and structure of literature--this "nonfiction novel" about the brutal slaying of the Clutter family by two would-be robbers would be remembered as a trail-blazing experiment that has influenced countless writers. But Capote achieved more than that. He wrote a true masterpiece of creative nonfiction. In Cold Blood established Capote as the "herald of a new genre, 'the non-fiction novel,' which recognizes the convergence of fiction and fact in times of outrage, the insane surrealism of daily life" (Hart, 122; Allen, 247).

FRAZEE, STEVE. (JOHN WAYNE).

The Alamo.

New York: Avon Books, 1960. First edition of this work, which was made into the classic film starring and directed by John Wayne. Small octavo, original illustrated wrappers as issued. Inscribed on the half-title page, "Good luck Billy John Wayne." In near fine condition. Housed in a custom clamshell box. Books signed and inscribed by John Wayne are rare.

$3,800

The Alamo is a 1960 American historical epic war film about the 1836 Battle of the Alamo produced and directed by John Wayne and starring Wayne as Davy Crockett. The picture also stars Richard Widmark as Jim Bowie and Laurence Harvey as William B. Travis, and the supporting cast features Frankie Avalon, Patrick Wayne, Linda Cristal, Joan O'Brien, Chill Wills, Joseph Calleia, Ken Curtis, Ruben Padilla as Santa Anna, and guest star Richard Boone as Sam Houston.

DICK, PHILIP K.

Ubik.

Ubik "features the creation of a subjective world by a group of people killed in an accident but restored to a kind of consciousness within a preservative machine, though any final determination of what is real in the book is made superbly problematical" (Clute & Nicholls, 329). "A brilliantly realized science fiction future darkened by Kafkaesque paranoia. As portrayed by Dick, a world in which cryogenic suspension has abolished traditional concepts of death and in which psychics can alter the future by changing the past is one that offers no foundation for objective truth" (Barron, Fantasy and Horror 6-113). It was chosen by Time magazine as one of the 100 greatest novels since 1923.

PUZO, MARIO.
The Godfather.

New York: G.P. Putnam’s Sons, 1969. First edition of Puzo’s definitive novel of the Mafia underworld. Octavo, original half black cloth. Association copy, warmly inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper to Hollywood screenwriter Barry Beckerman and his wife, “For Susan – the only wife in the world who would let her husband make a movie in Sweden and so lovely that she has nothing to fear from the competition & Barry- who helped me get this book written and who I repaid by beating him in tennis. From your fellow Chinese Food addict, Mario.” Recipient Barry Beckerman wrote the screenplays for the films Shamus, A Matter of Wife… and Death and St. Ives; he was also a studio executive and producer. Fine in a near fine dust jacket with light rubbing and wear. Jacket art by S. Neil Fujita. Housed in a custom slipcase. An exceptional association copy. $12,500

Outa Dark is a novel at once mythic and starkly evocative, set in an unspecified place in Appalachia sometime around the turn of the century. A woman bears her brother’s child, a boy; the brother leaves the baby in the woods and tells her he died of natural causes. Discovering her brother’s lie, she sets forth alone to find her son. Both brother and sister wander separately through a countryside being scoured by three terrifying and elusive strangers, headlong toward an eerie, apocalyptic resolution.

GARCIA MARQUEZ, GABRIEL.
One Hundred Years of Solitude.

London: Jonathan Cape, 1970. First British edition of Gabriel Garcia Marquez's magnum opus. Octavo, original green cloth. Signed by Gabriel Garcia Marquez on the dedication page. Additionally signed by the translator on the half-title page, who has transcribed the classic sentence of this novel as follows, "It's enough to know that you and I exist at this moment. Gregory Rabassa." Fine in a near fine dust jacket with a touch of wear. Jacket design by Toni Evora. Translated by Gregory Rabassa. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. A unique example. $11,500

Since it was first published, One Hundred Years of Solitude has been translated into 37 languages and has sold more than 30 million copies. "It chronicles the life of Macondo, a fictional town based in part of Garcia Marquez's hometown of Aracataca, Colombia, and seven generations of the founding family, the Buendias. He creates a complex world with characters and events that display the full range of human experience. For the reader, the pleasure of the novel derives from its fast-paced narrative, humor, vivid characters, and fantasy elements. In this 'magic realism', the author combines imaginative flights of fancy with social realism to give us images of levitating priests, flying carpets, a four-year-long rainstorm, and a young woman ascending to heaven while folding sheets" (NYPL Books of the Century 31).

V. S. NAIPAUL'S THIRD NOVEL: SIGNED BY HIM

NAIPAUL, V.S.
Miguel Street.

"Miguel Street is the Bowery, the Tenderloin, and the Catfish Row of Trinidad's Port of Spain - its citizens a loony multitude whose knavery often rises from real kinship with pathos and tragedy... Naipaul is at his best in these swift caricatures of human depravity" (San Francisco Chronicle).

Trinidadian essayist and novelist V.S. Naipaul has won both the 1971 Booker Prize and the 2001 Nobel Prize in Literature. "This world of Naipaul's is in fact charged with what can only be described as a romantic view of reality, an almost unbearable tension between the idea and the physical fact..." (The New York Review of Books).

Item #90453
ANGELOU, MAYA. (JAMES BALDWIN).
I Know Why The Caged Bird Sings.

New York: Random House, 1969. First edition of Angelou's critically acclaimed first book. Octavo, original first issue book, with the top edge stained red. From the library of writer and close friend of Angelou's James Baldwin's library with his signature to the front free endpaper. Signed by the author, "Joy! Maya Angelou" on the half-title page. After Angelou's close friend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had been assassinated in 1968 depression had set in. Her dear friend James Baldwin, or Jimmy and her "brother friend" as she affectionately called him, took her to a dinner party to brighten her spirits, if only for the night. The party was at the home of the Pulitzer prize-winning cartoonist Jules Feiffer and his wife Judy in late 1968. Everyone in the room began sharing stories about their childhoods, but when it was Angelou's turn to speak, Mrs. Feiffer was blown away by her storytelling. The next day Feiffer called Random House editor Robert Loomis to tell him he should have Angelou write a book. Following Mrs. Feiffer's orders, Loomis asked Angelou to write a book about her life, but she said no. Angelou considered herself a poet and playwright, not an author. He asked again; she declined again. Around the fourth time he changed his tune. She had just written a TV series and was out in California when he called. "It's just as well you don't attempt to write autobiography, because to write autobiography as literature is almost impossible," she remembers him saying. "Maybe I'll try it," she replied. Loomis's new tactic had been inspired by a conversation with Baldwin. Baldwin told Loomis that in order to get Angelou to do anything, you have to tell her she can't do it. The reverse psychology worked. She isolated herself in London and began writing I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings (1969), the first of her seven-book autobiography series. It was instantly a bestseller and is her most critically acclaimed work. Had it not been for Baldwin and Angelou's pugnacious tenacity, the world may have never known she was a masterful memoirist. Near fine in a near fine dust jacket with light rubbing. Jacket design by Janet Halverson. An extraordinary association copy linking two of the greatest African American writers of the twentieth century. $12,000

"This testimony from a black sister marks the beginning of a new era in the minds and hearts of all black men and women... I Know Why The Caged Bird Sings, liberates the reader into life simply because Maya Angelou confronts her own life with such a moving wonder, such a luminous dignity. I have no words for this achievement, but I know that not since the days of my childhood, when the people in books were more real than the people one saw every day, have I found myself so moved... Her portrait is a biblical study in life in the midst of death" (James Baldwin).

WRIGHT, RICHARD. (TONI MORRISON).

Native Son.

New York: Harper & Brothers Publishers, 1940. First edition, first issue binding with "A - P" on the copyright page. First issue green and yellow jacket, with price of $2.50 present and no blurbs on the spine. Octavo, original blue cloth. Boldly signed by Nobel Prize-winning author Toni Morrison on the front free endpaper. In 1977, Toni Morisson's third novel Song of Solomon became the first novel by an African American writer to be chosen as a main selection for the Book of the Month Club since Wright's Native Son in 1940. Fine in a very good first issue dust jacket which has been laminated. A strong association linking two of the most influential figures in the African American literary canon. $5,200

Both award-winning authors’ works boldly addressed the issues of racism and race relations prevalent in late 19th to mid-20th century America through powerful and vivid portrayals of the African American experience. Wright is credited for helping to change race relations through his literary work, and Morrison received both the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1993 and National Humanities Medal in 2000. Item #89942

"ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL COLLABORATIONS BETWEEN A GREAT WRITER AND A GREAT PHOTOGRAPHER EVER PUBLISHED"

DECARAVA, ROY AND LANGSTON HUGHES.
The Sweet Flypaper of Life.

"Acknowledged as the most influential black writer of his generation, and as one of the greatest American poets of all time here composed a fictional story to accompany DeCarava’s images, creating a lyrical tale about imaginary characters to go with photographs of real people" (Roth, 138). “THE REBIRTH OF THE SOUL IS PERPETUAL; ONLY REBIRTH EVERY HOUR COULD STAY THE HAND OF SATAN”

BALDWIN, JAMES.
Go Tell It On The Mountain.

Go Tell It on the Mountain, Baldwin said, “is the book I had to write if I was ever going to write anything else.” “With lyrical precision, psychological directness, resonating symbolic power, and a rage that is at once unrelenting and compassionate, Baldwin chronicles a fourteen-year-old boy's discovery of the terms of his identity as the stepson of the minister of a storefront Pentecostal church in Harlem one Saturday in March of 1935” (The New York Times). Item #89633
"I DON'T WANT TO END UP SIMPLY HAVING VISITED THIS WORLD"

OLIVER, MARY.
No Voyage and Other Poems.

Mary Oliver was described by The New York Times as "far and away, [America's] bestselling poet." She has won both the Pulitzer Prize in 1984 and the National Book Award in 1992.

"YOU KNOW NOTHING AT ALL EXCEPT THE MOONLIGHT IS BEAUTIFUL"

OLIVER, MARY.
Twelve Moons.

In her fourth volume of poetry, Twelve Moons, Pulitzer Prize-winning Mary Oliver continues to explore the alluring, yet well-nigh inaccessible kingdoms of nature and human relationships.

"ALMOST ANY BOOK WAS BETTER THAN LIFE"

RHYS, JEAN.
Sleep It Off, Lady.

London: Andre Deutsch, 1976. First British edition of this collection of short stories. Octavo, original cloth. Presentation copy warmly inscribed by the author on the dedication page to John and Teresa Chilton. Chilton was a well-known British Jazz trumpeter and writer. Fine in a fine dust jacket. $850

Sleep it off, Lady is a collection of sixteen terrifying, painful, and despairing stories set in the West Indies, London, Paris, and provincial England drawn from the experience of the contemporary novelist's life.

"TELL ME, WHAT IS IT YOUR PLAN TO DO WITH YOUR ONE WILD AND PRECIOUS LIFE?: FIRST EDITION OF AMERICAN PRIMITIVE; SIGNED BY MARY OLIVER"

OLIVER, MARY.
American Primitive.

Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1983. First edition of the poet’s Pulitzer Prize-winning collection. Octavo, original green cloth. Signed by Mary Oliver on the title page. Fine in a near fine dust jacket with a touch of rubbing. Author photograph by Molly Malone Cook. The hardcover edition is scarce, as it was issued simultaneously in paperback. $2,500

Oliver’s poetry has been called an "indefatigable guide to the natural world, particularly to its lesser-known aspects" (Kumin, 1993). “Visionary as Emerson [she is] among the few American poets who can describe and transmit ecstasy, while retaining a practical awareness of the world as one of predators and prey,” reviewed The Nation. Holly Prado of Los Angeles Times Book Review noted that Oliver’s work “touches a vitality in the familiar that invests it with a fresh intensity.”
TOOLE, JOHN KENNEDY; FOREWORD BY WALKER PERCY.
A Confederacy of Dunces.

"A masterwork . . . the novel astonishes with its inventiveness . . . it is nothing less than a grand comic fugue" (The New York Times Book Review). The book's passage to success began in 1976 when John Kennedy Toole's mother Thelma, using a walker, hobbled into the office of the novelist Walker Percy at Loyola University. She was followed by a chauffeur carrying a manuscript that she told Mr. Percy was a "masterpiece." Percy agreed to read it. He became entranced and decided that the novel was "a major achievement, a huge comic-satiric-tragic one-of-a-kind rendering of life in New Orleans." After some more publishers rejected the book, Louisiana State University Press agreed to take a chance with a first printing of just 2,500 copies. It sold about 50,000 copies in hard cover and nearly 600,000 in paperback within three years of publication.

INSCRIBED BY PHILIP ROTH TO HIS WIFE CLAIRE BLOOM

ROTH, PHILIP.
The Anatomy Lesson.

New York: Farrar Straus and Giroux, 1983. First edition of the third novel from Roth to feature Nathan Zuckerman as the main character. Octavo, original cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed by Roth to his wife Claire Bloom on the title page, "To my dearest Claire- Who was there at Zuckerman's birth and has helped me see him through his fury. My love and my love and my love P. Oct. 1, '83." Roth first met Bloom in 1966, when they were both in earlier relationships. "To have such a mind as Philip Roth's fixed on your every word and gesture is both daunting and extremely flattering", she recalled of this first encounter. The couple finally began their relationship in 1975, and started living together at an early stage. An excellent example in a fine dust jacket. An exceptional association copy. $4,800

Preceded by 1979's The Ghost Writer and 1981's Zuckerman Bound, The Anatomy Lesson is a continuation of the story of Roth's alter ego, Nathan Zuckerman, who finds himself having just buried his father and facing middle age. Fellow novelist Martin Amis wrote of the book: "The Anatomy Lesson' may be the third and final installment of the Zuckerman trilogy, but it is also Roth's second consecutive novel about what success is like. Such fixity!" adding, "no modern writer, perhaps no writer, has taken self-examination so far and so literally." Item #84755
“LOVE IS THE LONGING FOR THE HALF OF OURSELVES WE HAVE LOST”

KUNDERA, MILAN.
L’Insoutenable Légerete de L’Etre (The Unbearable Lightness of Being).

When "The Unbearable Lightness of Being" was first published in English, it was hailed as "a work of the boldest mastery, originality, and richness" by critic Elizabeth Hardwick and named one of the best books of 1984 by the New York Times Book Review. It went on to win the Los Angeles Times Book Prize for Fiction and quickly became an international bestseller.

“IF YOU CARE ABOUT SOMETHING YOU HAVE TO PROTECT IT”

IRVING, JOHN.
A Prayer For Owen Meany.

A Prayer for Owen Meany won high praise on publication for "Irving's powerful storytelling, his gift for creating memorable characters, his humor and his elemental emotional power" (Chronology of American Literature). "A rare creation in the somehow exhausted world of late 20th-century fiction-it is an amazingly brave piece of work" (Stephen King). Item #88427

SIGN ED ORIGINAL DRAWING BY PLAYWRIGHT TOM STOPPARD

STOPPARD, TOM.
Tom Stoppard Drawing.

Original drawing by playwright Tom Stoppard titled $500.00. The drawing corresponds to one of Stoppard's later plays, The Real Thing, first performed in 1982. Matted and framed. The entire piece measures 18 inches by 14.25 inches. $1,000

The Real Thing is a play by Tom Stoppard that was first performed in 1982. It examines the nature of honesty and uses various constructs, including a play within a play, to explore the theme of reality versus appearance. Glenn Close played Annie and Jeremy Irons played Henry in the Broadway production. Close and Irons both won Tonys for their roles, as did Christine Baranski for her featured performance as Charlotte.

FIRST EDITIONS OF NORWEGIAN WOOD; BOTH VOLUMES SIGNED BY HARUKI MURAKAMI

MURAKAMI, HARUKI.
Norwegian Wood.

London: Harvill, 2000. First editions of the author’s most well-known work. Small octavo, original wrappers as issued. Both volumes are signed by Haruki Murakami on the title page. Both volumes are in fine condition and are in the original gold box. Translated by Jay Rubin. $2,200

Norwegian Wood is a nostalgic story of loss and sexuality. The novel is set in Tokyo during the late 1960s, a time when Japanese students, like those of many other nations, were protesting against the established order.

Each volume is signed or inscribed by Robert Jordan, except the final three novels which were published posthumously. Each volume in fine in a fine dust jacket. Illustrated by Darrell Sweet. An exceptional set. $4,800

The Wheel of Time is notable for its length, detailed imaginary world, well-developed magic system, and large cast of characters. The eighth through fourteenth books each reached number one on the New York Times Best Seller list. After its completion, the series was nominated for a Hugo Award. As of 2017, the series has sold over 80 million copies worldwide, and is the best selling epic fantasy series since The Lord of the Rings.

Item #87452
STEINBECK, JOHN. (JOHN UPDIKE).
America and Americans.

New York: The Viking Press, 1966. First edition of Steinbeck's final book. Quarto, original half cloth, illustrated, cartographic endpapers. With 136 pages of photographs, 24 in full color by 55 of the most prominent American photographers of the era including Ansel Adams, Sam Siegel, and Todd Webb. Presentation copy, inscribed by the author on the half-title page, "For John Updike with admiration John Steinbeck." American author John Steinbeck published his most notable works between 1937 (Of Mice and Men) and 1952 (East of Eden), and was awarded both the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction in 1940 and Nobel Prize in Literature in 1962. One of the most prolific American authors from the early 1960s until his death in 2009, fellow recipient of the Pulitzer Prize John Updike identified Steinbeck as one of his literary heroes at a young age. Both writers' works explored themes of crises related to faith, injustice, and family dynamics applied to small town 'everyman' protagonists. Both Steinbeck and Updike wrote in a realist tradition featuring their own distinctively rich and imaginative vocabulary and style of prose. Near fine in a very good dust jacket. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. Jacket design by Christopher Harris. Photograph of Steinbeck to the rear panel by Paul Farber. An exceptional association linking two of the greatest writers of twentieth century America. $20,000

Steinbeck's final book, America and Americans combines the talents of the Nobel Prize-winning author and 55 of the most prominent American photographers of the era. The result is a spectacular portrait of America with its vital array of scenic beauty and human variousness with rich feature articles exploring the American government, American people, Americans as they relate to their land, and the paradox and dream of the pursuit of happiness. FIRST EDITION OF HENRI CARTIER-BRESSON THE EUROPEANS; SIGNED BY HIM

CARTIER-BRESSON, HENRI.
The Europeans.

New York: Simon and Schuster, 1955. First edition in English of Cartier-Bresson's famous photobook, "capturing the essence of what has not previously been seen," with 114 large photogravures (many double-page) and bright cover designed by Joan Miró. Folio, original illustrated boards. Signed by Henri Cartier-Bresson on the title page. Fine in a near fine acetate dust jacket. With the captions booklet laid in.

$6,500

Henri Cartier-Bresson is perhaps the greatest photographer of the twentieth century, The Europeans, along with The Decisive Moment are his finest books. Henri Cartier-Bresson's amazing feat as a photographer is the ability to follow his heart and the keen vision of his mind and eye in each photograph. His subjects are only part of the image in the viewfinder, whose composition he sometimes arranges with geometric precision. Many of his best photographs also have startlingly broad political and sociological connotations, which gives the ordinary subjects extraordinary dignity, even grandeur. Europeans is filled with these images, which are often visually complex as well.

Item #2330

FIRST EDITION OF HENRI CARTIER-BRESSON'S THE DECISIVE MOMENT; SIGNED TWICE BY HIM

CARTIER-BRESSON, HENRI.
The Decisive Moment.

New York: Simon and Schuster, 1952. First American edition of Cartier-Bresson's classic work, with 126 photographs by "the Raphael of 20th-century photographers." Folio, original illustrated boards. Jacket design by Matisse. Boldly signed by Henri Cartier-Bresson on the title page. With the captions booklet laid in, which is signed by Cartier-Bresson as well. Fine in a near fine dust jacket with a touch of rubbing and wear. Rare and desirable signed twice by this legendary photographer.

$6,800

The Decisive Moment is Cartier-Bresson's most famous work, containing his most comprehensive and important statement on the meaning, technique, and utility of photography. "The simultaneous publication [of this edition with Images à la Sauvette] in New York in July 1952, with a cover by Matisse (who had just had his retrospective at the Museum of Modern Art) was a tremendous success" (Roth, 134). With extremely scarce dust jacket; separate caption pamphlet (rarely found) laid in (Parr & Badger I:208).

Item #85360
RUSCHA, ED.
Twentysix Gasoline Stations.

Ed Ruscha's first book, a seminal "bookwork", is one of the most influential conceptual art works; it served as a kind of tonic, liberating the artists' book from many of its traditional emphases. "The first book came out of a play with words. The title came before I even thought about the pictures. I like the word 'gasoline' and I like the specific quality of 'twenty-six.' If you look at the book you will see how well the typography works - I worked on all that before I took the photographs. Above all, the photographs I use are not 'arty' in any sense of the word. . . . One of the purposes of my book has to do with making a mass-produced object. The final product has a very commercial, professional feel to it. . . . I have eliminated all text from my books - I want absolutely neutral material. My pictures are not that interesting, nor the subject matter. . . . My book is more like a collection of 'ready-56 item 241 mades'" (Edward Ruscha, Artforum interview, 1965; Lippard, Six Years: The dematerialization of the art object from 1966 to 1972, p.11). "The most renowned series of artist's books in the history of the genre" (Parr & Badger, The Photobook: A History, Vol. II; Castleman, A Century of Artists Books, p.167.) Item #4014
ESSAYS OF MICHEL DE MONTAIGNE; SIGNED BY SALVADOR DALI

DE MONTAIGNE, MICHEL; ILLUSTRATED BY SALVADOR DALI. Essays of Michel de Montaigne.

Garden City, NY: Doubleday & Company, 1947. Signed limited edition of The Essays of Montaigne, boldly signed by artist Salvador Dali. With sixteen color illustrated plates and numerous illustrations in the text. One of 1,000 numbered copies. Octavo, original cloth, gilt titles to the spine, gilt decoration to the front panel, gilt topstain. In fine condition. Translated by Charles Cotton. $900

Dali was commissioned by Doubleday publishing in 1946 to illustrate The Essays of Michel de Montaigne in a special limited edition. An avid admirer of Montaigne, Dali created twenty-one original illustrations in his typically bizarre, surreal, and often grotesque style to accompany a selection of the philosopher's works. “ALMOST NOTHING ELSE IN CHILDREN’S LITERATURE EQUALS PINOCCHIO FOR WILDNESS OF INVENTION”

COLLODI, CARLO.
The Story of a Puppet or the Adventures of Pinocchio. Translated from the Italian by M. A. Murray. Illustrated by C. Mazzanti.

London: T. Fisher Unwin, 1892. Rare first edition in English of Collodi’s classic work. Octavo, original white cloth with blue floriated pattern, floriated endpapers and edges. With 37 illustrations by C. Mazzanti. In near fine condition with a touch of rubbing. Uncommon in this condition.

$9,500

Considered “one of the best known fantasies, and the most popular children’s book to come out of Italy… Almost nothing else in children’s literature equals Pinocchio for wildness of invention” (Carpenter & Prichard, 413-4), the story first appeared as a serial in Italian from July 1881 to January 1883 and was published in book form under the title Le Avventure di Pinocchio in 1883. “The tale is notable for its universality, its blend of imagination and humor, its lively pace, and its ethereal charm. But it has a dark side—its honest depiction of children’s fears” (Silvey, 157). This translation by M.A. Murray was the first English translation. Collodi’s tale was made into the notable Disney animated feature film in 1940.

RARE FIRST EDITION OF MARY POPPINS; IN EXCEPTIONAL CONDITION

TRAVERS, P.L.
Mary Poppins.

New York: Reynal & Hitchcock, 1934. First American edition of this children's classic. Octavo, original cloth, illustrated with 27 line cuts (13 full-page) and chapter tailpieces by Mary Shepard. Fine in a fine dust jacket without wear. A sterling example.

$3,500

"The first Mary Poppins stories were written when [Travers] was recovering from an illness, and were told to two children of her acquaintance. Mary Poppins appeared in 1934 and was an immediate success" (Carpenter & Prichard, 540). It centers on magical English nanny of the same name. She is blown by the east wind to Number 17 Cherry Tree Lane, London, and into the Banks's household to care for their children. It was adapted by Walt Disney in 1964 into a musical film titled Mary Poppins, starring Julie Andrews and Dick Van Dyke. It received a total of thirteen Academy Award nominations, including Best Picture – an unsurpassed record for any other film released by Walt Disney Studios – and won five; Best Actress for Andrews, Best Film Editing, Best Original Music Score, Best Visual Effects, and Best Original Song for "Chim Chim Cher-ee".

FIRST EDITION OF MARY MAPES DODGE'S CLASSIC WORK

BARRIE, J.M.
The Little Minister.
London: Cassell & Company, 1891. First issue with half-titles. Octavo, 3 volumes. Bound in full red calf by Bayntun-Riviere, Original cloth bound in at rear of volumes. $750

The Little Minister is set in Thrums, a Scottish weaving village based on Barrie's birthplace, and concerns Gavin Dishart, a young impoverished minister with his first congregation. The weavers he serves soon riot in protest against reductions in their wages and harsh working conditions. It was turned into a successful play in 1897 and eventually a movie starring Katharine Hepburn in 1934.

New York native Mary Mapes Dodge had never visited Holland when she wrote Hans Brinker, but "every detail of life and custom was so carefully verified by the author that the book was immediately accepted by the Dutch as the most faithful story of Dutch life known in Holland" (Meigs, et al., 191). $1,800

New York: James O'Kane, 1866. First edition of the author's best known work. Octavo, original cloth. In near fine condition with light rubbing to the extremities.

"DEAREST SAYS THAT IS THE BEST KIND OF GOODNESS"

BURNETT, FRANCES HODGSON.
Little Lord Fauntleroy.

"It is unfortunate that Cedric Fauntleroy, the charming American grandson of a crusty English earl, has been stereotyped as a sissy, for he is a charming and resourceful child. But his characteristic velvet suit with Vandyke collar, a fashion of the day, was forced upon many real-life boys [A.A. Milne among them] who then looked upon the novel with disfavor" (Silvey, 106).

FIRST EDITION, FIRST ISSUE OF DR. SEUSS' McELLIGOT'S POOL; INSCRIBED BY HIM

SEUSS, DR (THEODOR GEISEL).
McElligot's Pool.

New York: Random House, 1947. First edition of the first Dr. Seuss title to feature full-color art on every other page. Quarto, original cloth, pictorial endpapers, illustrated throughout. Inscribed by the author, "For Mrs. Haye with very kindest regards- Dr. Seuss." Near fine in a near fine dust jacket with light rubbing and wear. Uncommon signed and inscribed. $4,500

McElligot's Pool was the first Dr. Seuss book to use water colors for its illustrations; however, because of budget concerns, Random House published half of the book in black and white, alternating between two pages in color and two pages in black and white. It became a Junior Literary Guild selection and garnered Dr. Seuss his first Caldecott Honor.

Item #85678
KEATS, EZRA JACK.
The Snowy Day.

New York: The Viking Press, 1962. First edition of The Snowy Day, which is considered "one of the most important American books of the 20th century" (Diefendorf, ed. The New York Public Library's Books of the Century). Oblong quarto, original pictorial cloth as issued. Fine in a very good first-issue dust jacket with the prerequisite $3.00 price and no mention of this title winning the Caldecott Medal (the second and subsequent printings mention this on the front flap of the jacket). Also without patterned interior front and rear flaps that mimicked the snowflake patterns of the endpapers in later printings. Although the Caldecott Medal is affixed to the dust jacket cover, this was due to the common practice of book sellers who adhered the sticker for marketing purposes after the Caldecott was awarded. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. First printings in the original dust jacket are of the utmost rarity. $12,000

After serving in World War II, Ezra Jack Keats returned to New York and started a career in illustration, working first in the comic industry, and then working for such publications as Reader's Digest, The New York Times Book Review, and Collier's. In the 1950s Keats started illustrating dust jackets, and when one book cover caught the eye of an editor of youth literature, Keats was soon commissioned to illustrate children's books. Keats started solely as an illustrator for the work of other authors, but he soon observed that few children's books showcased an African-American or other minority child as the main character. Published in 1962, The Snowy Day was the first book Keats both authored and illustrated, and was a milestone for featuring the first African-American protagonist in a full-color picture book. "None of the manuscripts I'd been illustrating featured any black kids—except for token blacks in the background. My book would have him there simply because he should have been there all along." It went on to win the 1963 Caldecott Medal, and has remained a deeply loved and profoundly influential book.

"One winter morning Peter woke up and looked out the window. Snow had fallen during the night. It covered everything as far as he could see" - The Snowy Day
RARE ORIGINAL DRAWING OF THE GIVING TREE
BY SHEL SILVERSTEIN

SILVERSTEIN, SHEL.
The Giving Tree Original Signed Drawing.

One of the most widely interpreted and best-selling children's books of all time, The Giving Tree has sold over ten million copies since its first appearance in 1964. The book has been described as "one of the most divisive books in children's literature" for the various interpretations inspired by the relationship between the selfless female giving tree and the human boy who benefits from her gifts as he grows through adulthood into old age. Throughout the picture book, the boy benefits at all stages of life from the tree's gifts with little regard for the tree's well-being in return. This relationship has been interpreted as a representation of the relationship between man and nature, mother and child, and as the "Christian ideal of unconditional love" (Leonard, 2005).

BASEBALL SIGNED BY LEGENDS BABE RUTH AND LOU GEHRIG

RUTH, BABE AND LOU GEHRIG.
Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig Autographed Baseball.

Spalding Official League Special baseball, signed by Yankee legends, Babe Ruth on the sweetspot and Lou Gehrig on the west panel. “Lindenhurst NY Oct 18 1930” appears on the north panel in an unknown hand. For the fishing village of Lindenhurst, Long Island, this 1930 exhibition game with Ruth and Gehrig (avid fishermen themselves) was regarded as the greatest sporting event in local history—and it remains so to this day. First, the Yankee legends were honored with a parade fit for kings. Then, more than 4,000 star-struck spectators gathered at Meridale Baseball Park for a contest between their Lindenhurst ball club (managed by Babe's fishing buddy Addie Klein) and the Ruth/Gehrig all-star squad. What ultimately stole all the headlines was the Bambino's ninth-inning moon shot, reported here by the Lindenhurst Star newspaper: "The second pitch was shoulder-high, and that's where Ruth likes 'em. He took a healthy swing and 'crack' went the bat as the ball went sailing out over the right fielder’s head! The ball landed just in back of the Old Homestead Inn, corner Wellwood Avenue and Montauk Highway, and was said to be the longest drive ever seen on the home grounds...The most famous ballplayer in the world just grinned as he trotted at a slow pace around to third base where he halted, not wishing to continue on to home plate, apparently satisfied with the triple." (In addition to Ruth's gesture of sportsmanship and humility, Gehrig is said to have donated his financial compensation to the Lindenhurst team.)

According to the Village of Lindenhurst website: It was a cold, windy October day at the Meridale Baseball Park at West Montauk Highway and South Second Street. But nothing could keep the crowds away on that brisk fall day of 1930. That was the day Babe Ruth came to Lindenhurst. Accompanied by other big-leaguers such as Lou Gehrig, Ruth played an exhibition game against Addie Klein's Lindenhurst Nine, an amateur baseball club. Bundled up in blankets and overcoats, none of the 4,000 fans seemed to mind that the local team got beat by Ruth and his cohorts by a score of 10-4.

Arguably one of the best baseball teams in history, the 1927 New York Yankees club was so consistent its roster went virtually unchanged throughout the entire season. The team acquired the nickname Murderers’ Row to describe, in particular, the first six hitters of the lineup: Earle Combs, Mark Koenig, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel, and Tony Lazzeri.

LARGE SIGNED PHOTOGRAPH OF BABE RUTH

RUTH, BABE.

Babe Ruth Signed Photograph.

Full length photograph of Babe Ruth swinging a baseball bat. Inscribed by him, "To my good friend Jack Musante Sincerely Babe Ruth 3-12-47." Triple matted and framed. The photograph measures 9 inches by 7 inches. The entire piece measures 19 inches by 17 inches. An exceptional photograph, rare and desirable signed by Ruth. $9,800

Babe isn't just a baseball legend, he was one of the most important pioneers in the world of celebrity golf. Ruth was at Griffith Park Golf Course in L.A. when he was informed in 1919 he had been sold to the New York Yankees from the Boston Red Sox. He skipped an optional first practice with his new team in 1920 to play a round of golf in Jacksonville, Fla. And when he was holding out for a raise from the Yankees years later, he played golf in St. Petersburg, Fla. Later in his life, Ruth participated in a golf tour with Crosby and Bob Hope during World War II to support the Red Cross, and he played in numerous other charity events and programs.

SIGNED BY EACH MEMBER OF THE MERCURY SEVEN

Project 7 Mercury Astronauts Signed Photograph.

Original black and white photograph signed by the seven Mercury astronauts holding a model of the Mercury 7 spacecraft: Alan Shepard, Gus Grissom, Scott Carpenter, Walter Schirra, Donald Slayton, John Glenn, and Leroy Gordon Cooper in the margin below the photograph. In near fine condition. Double matted and framed. The entire piece measures 16 inches by 13 inches. Rare and desirable signed by each of the Original Seven. $7,500

"The first seven American astronauts were an admirable group of individuals chosen to sit at the apex of a pyramid of human effort... They chose to lead by following the opportunity that chance, circumstance, technology and history had prepared for them" (Swenson, Grimwood & Alexander). NASA introduced the seven astronauts in Washington on April 9, 1959. Although the agency viewed Project Mercury's purpose as an experiment to determine whether humans could survive space travel, the seven men immediately became national heroes and were compared by TIME magazine to "Columbus, Magellan, Daniel Boone, and the Wright brothers" (TIME 1959). F. M. Bator's 1960 book, The Question of Government Spending, was described in the Economic Journal "as a model of the sort of contribution which the economist can make to informed public discussion." Item #91547
"AS A MATTER OF FACT, WHAT INVESTMENT CAN WE FIND WHICH OFFERS REAL FIXITY OR CERTAINTY OF INCOME?"

FISHER, IRVING.

Theory of Interest: As Determined by Impatience to Spend Income and Opportunity to Invest In It.

New York: The MacMillan Company, 1930. First edition of Irving Fisher's groundbreaking work. Octavo, original blue cloth, fourteen tables in the text, seventeen tables in appendices fifty-eight charts in text, including three fold-out. Near fine in the rare original dust jacket with light wear. With the printed errata slip tipped-in at page vii. $4,200

Irving Fisher was the greatest economist the United States has ever produced. One of Fisher's key contributions is Interest Theory. Fisher presented the theory of interest by giving a full demonstration of the principles that determine an interest rate in the book The Theory of Interest. He used the book to answer the fundamental changes in the nature of the world economy including financing, the sensational inflation of the currencies of the combatants, and the remarkable developments in new scientific, industrial and agricultural revolution. ARROW, KENNETH J.

Social Choice and Individual Values.

New York: John Wiley & Sons, 1951. First edition of the Nobel Prize-winning economist’s ground breaking work. Octavo, original blue cloth. Inscribed and dated by Kenneth Arrow on the front free endpaper. Fine in a very good dust jacket with some chips and wear. Rare, especially in the original dust jacket and inscribed by Arrow. $3,800

The Nobel Prize-winning economist's first book was his doctoral dissertation at Columbia. "Arrow's 'impossibility theorem' appeared to have such startling consequences for both political philosophy and welfare economics that literally hundreds of papers have been written to refute it. But Arrow's theorem has withstood all technical criticisms and has never been decisively challenged on its own grounds" (Great Economists Since Keynes, 6). Item #78935

SCARCE FIRST EDITION OF THE LORDS OF CREATION

ALLEN, FREDERICK LEWIS.

The Lords of Creation.

In Lords of Creation, Allen vividly profiles leading Wall Street titans and details "the rapid growth of Standard Oil, the panic of 1907, the 'Money Trust investigation' of 1912 and Federal Reserve legislation... the general theme is the immense financial power which became concentrated in the hands of a few commanding financiers" (New York Times). Item #84532

"IT IS THIS THEME, CO-OPERATION IN INDUSTRY, THAT I DESIRE TO DEVELOP"

“One of the major scientific contributions of the 20th century” (Goldstine & Wigner). John von Neumann and Oskar Morgenstern conceived a groundbreaking mathematical theory of economic and social organization, based on a theory of games of strategy. Not only would this revolutionize economics, but the entirely new field of scientific inquiry it yielded--game theory--has since been widely used to analyze a host of real-world phenomena from arms races to optimal policy choices of presidential candidates, from vaccination policy to major league baseball salary negotiations. “Had it merely called to our attention the existence and exact nature of certain fundamental gaps in economic theory, the Theory of Games and Economic Behavior... would have been a book of outstanding importance. But it does more than that. It is essentially constructive: where existing theory is considered to be inadequate, the authors put in its place a highly novel analytical apparatus designed to cope with the problem. It would be doing the authors an injustice to say that theirs is a contribution to economics only. The scope of the book is much broader. The techniques applied by the authors in tackling economic problems are of sufficient generality to be valid in political science, sociology, or even military strategy. The applicability to games proper (chess and poker) is obvious from the title. Moreover, the book is of considerable interest from a purely mathematical point of view... The appearance of a book of the caliber of the Theory of Games is indeed a rare event” (World of Mathematics II:1267-84). However, "it would be doing the authors an injustice to say that theirs is a contribution to economics only. The scope of the book is much broader. The techniques applied by the authors in tackling economic problems are of sufficient generality to be valid in political science, sociology, or even military strategy. The applicability to games proper (chess and poker) is obvious from the title. Moreover, the book is of considerable interest from a purely mathematical point of view...” (Hurwicz in World of Mathematics, vol 2). In the words of two Nobel Prize-winning economists, “a landmark in the history of ideas” and a seminal work in mathematics and economics, which "has had a profound impact on statistics" (Dorfman, Samuelson & Solow, Linear Programming and Economic Analysis pp 417, 445).

SAMUELSON, PAUL A.; ROBERT M. SOLOW; ROBERT DORFMAN
Linear Programming and Economic Analysis.

New York: McGraw-Hill Company, Inc, 1958. First edition of this classic text. Octavo, original gray cloth. Presentation copy, inscribed Paul Samuelson to colleague and close friend Francis Bator on the front free endpaper, "With thanks of Paul S." With Francis M. Bator’s signature and note “Gift of PAS, Jan. 17, 1958.” Also, "With the Compliments of Paul A. Samuelson" note. Francis M. Bator was Deputy National Security Advisor of the United States from 1965 to 1967. He was also a Special Assistant to President Lyndon B. Johnson. On the occasion of his departure from the White House, The Economist of London headed an article about his service "Europe's Assistant." Bator's 1958 article "The Anatomy of Market Failure," was recently described as "the standard reference" to the "approach [that] now forms the basis of …textbook expositions in the economics of the public sector." In near fine condition. A nice association. $2,500

Linear programming has been one of the most important postwar developments in economic theory, but until publication of the Linear Programming and Economic Analysis, no text offered a comprehensive treatment of the many facets of the relationship of linear programming to traditional economic theory. FIRST EDITION OF EDWARD L. BERNAYS' PUBLIC RELATIONS; SIGNED BY HIM

BERNAYS, EDWARD L.
Public Relations.

Norman, OK: University of Oklahoma Press, 1952. First edition of Bernays' work regarding public relations. Octavo, original cloth. Inscribed by the author on the front free endpaper, "To Ivan Black- in memory of our TV adventure of informing, persuading and adjusting- Edward L. Bernays July 1, 1952.” Included is a one page autographed signed letter on Bernays' letterhead asking whether the theatrical publicity industry used his theories. Near fine in a very good dust jacket. Rare and desirable signed. $7,500

Public relations as described in this volume is, among other things, society's solution to problems of maladjustment that plague an overcomplex world. Publicist Edward L. Bernays offers here the kind of advice individuals and a variety of organizations sought from him on a professional basis during more than four decades. With such knowledge, every intelligent person can carry on his or her activities more effectively. Public Relations provides know-why as well know-how. Item #81028
MARKOWITZ, HARRY M. (KENNETH ARROW).
Mean-Variance in Portfolio Choice and Capital Markets.

In 1952, Harry Markowitz published "Portfolio Selection," a paper which revolutionized modern investment theory and practice. The paper proposed that, in selecting investments, the investor should consider both expected return and variability of return on the portfolio as a whole. The purpose of the present book is to present a comprehensive and accessible account of the general mean-variance portfolio analysis, and to illustrate its usefulness in the practice of portfolio management and the theory of capital markets. RORTY, RICHARD. Philosophy and the Mirror of Nature.

Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1979. First edition of this classic work of twentieth century philosophy. Octavo, original cloth. Signed by Richard Rorty on the half-title page. Fine in a near fine dust jacket. This is the first signed example we have seen or handled of this landmark work. $5,800

When it first appeared in 1979, Philosophy and the Mirror of Nature hit the philosophical world like a bombshell. In it, Richard Rorty argued that, beginning in the seventeenth century, philosophers developed an unhealthy obsession with the notion of representation: comparing the mind to a mirror that reflects reality. Rorty's book is a powerful critique of this imagery and the tradition of thought that it spawned.

Item #88089
Nobel Prize-winning economist's F.A. Hayek's landmark three-volume Law, Legislation and Liberty is "an immense contribution to social and legal philosophy" (Philosophical Studies). The first volume in the series, Rules and Order (1973), deals with the distinction between legislative law and natural or "grown" law, and its implications for freedom. Volume 2, The Mirage of Social Justice (1976), attacks the widespread contemporary belief in political redistribution and "social justice" (the latter a myth, Hayek argues). Hayek argues persuasively that modern society has destroyed the original conception of the legislature, and that as a consequence there has been a miscarriage of the democratic ideal. Ours has become a "bargaining democracy," in which government is little more than the football of special interests. In tracing precisely how and why this situation arose, Hayek confronts the central flaw of modern democracy: the notion of government as sugar daddy, confiscating income and doling it out to those with the greatest political clout. To halt this destructive process, Hayek urges "the containment of power and the dethronement of politics," together with the rules which permit the formation of a "spontaneous order" in which law is king and government has neither a mandate nor the power to achieve particular, as opposed to general, ends. He logically demonstrates the inconsistency of a centralized, governmentally-controlled society with freedom. The two, he insists, are incompatible. Hayek's astounding intellectual range encompasses politics, philosophy, economics, anthropology, sociology and the history of ideas. His language is nontechnical, possessing clarity of style and thought. The book has a consistency, brilliance, insight and accessibility rarely found among thinkers of any age, much less our own. Reading Hayek is a bracing experience, something like the intellectual equivalent of drinking from a cold, clear brook" (Paul Westman).
FIRST EDITION OF THE ROAD TO SERFDOM; IN THE RARE ORIGINAL DUST JACKET

HAYEK, FRIEDRICH AUGUST VON
The Road To Serfdom.

London: Routledge & Sons, 1944. First edition of one of the most influential and popular expositions of classical liberalism ever published. Octavo, original black cloth. The British edition (which this example is) was published in March of 1944, preceding its American counterpart, which was published later that same year in September. Light rubbing and small contemporary name to the front free endpaper, an excellent example in the original dust jacket with some expert restoration. Housed in a custom half morocco clamshell box. Rare in the original dust jacket. $12,000

"Hayek has written one of the most important books of our generation. It restates for our time the issue between liberty and authority with the power and rigor of reasoning that John Stuart Mill stated in his great essay, 'On Liberty'" (Hazlitt, 82). [I]n my opinion it is a grand book. . . . Morally and philosophically I find myself in agreement with virtually the whole of it: and not only in agreement with it, but in deeply moved agreement" (John Maynard Keynes). The Road To Serfdom placed fourth on the list of the 100 best non-fiction books of the twentieth century by National Review magazine and was named by Modern Library as one of the 100 best non-fiction books of the twentieth century.
