3. Almanach republicano para 1870 e 1871, 1º anno de publicação, contendo alem da filhinha para 1870 e 1871 varios artigos sobre republica. Uma grande colleção de artigos humorísticos poesias, etc. [Rear wrapper] Lisbon: Typographia Portugueza, 1869. 8°, original violet printed wrappers (front with some small tears and minor soiling, small hole in blank portion). Woodcut border of a linked chain on covers. Uncut and partially unopened. In very good condition overall. 59 pp., (5 pp. advertisements). $375.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In “Ao Publico,” the author voices his hope that this almanac will be “como que o evangelho popular, sempre presente a todas as horas na morada do povo, sobre a mesa do trabalho, ou junto ao album de recreio, dizendo a todos—união pela democracia!—salvação pela republica!” The Juizo do anno begins with the statement that the planet ruling 1870 is Saturn, “a verdadeira imagem do tyranno,” and continues with a political interpretation rather than the usual astrological / astronomical overview of the year. After the calendar and usual tables of dates appear essays on what a “republic” is, expenses of a republic, and what a federal republic is. A selection of poems (several bitterly misogynistic) are followed by recipes and instructions for making beer, champagne, wine, and various liquors.

Defends the Actions of the Prefect of Cabo Verde Against Miguelistas and Renegade Soldiers—With an Eyewitness Report by the United States Consul

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this work in defense of Manuel Antonio Martins, who served as prefect of Cabo Verde ca. 1834: “Éra ha muitos annos um dos individuos mais abastados, e mais bem estabelecidos d’aquellas Ilhas,” reports the anonymous author, until the press and his enemies destroyed his reputation. Martins was appointed prefect of Cabo Verde by D. Pedro (regent for D. Maria II), who said that in that position, “o Prefeito de Cabo-Verde [Martins] tinha feito mais em tres mezes, do que todos os outros fariam em tres annos!”

The Miguelistas seem to have attacked Martins for every action he took. He was accused of tearing out all the vines in Ilha de Santo Antão and replacing them with coffee trees. Document 1 (pp. 14-18) recounts the discussions about rejuvenating agriculture on Cabo Verde that led to the tearing up of vineyards.

Martins was also accused of filling the islands with prisons. Document 2 (pp. 19-25), signed by José Joaquim Lopes de Lima, deputy to the Cortes for Cabo Verde, gives details on the horrendous state of Cabo Verde under D. Miguel, and the many improvements that Martins instituted.

Document 3 (pp. 26-29) was written by the United States Consul in Cabo Verde, William G. Merrill, and was originally published in 1835 in the New-York Gazette and General Advertiser. Merrill recounts the arrival in Cabo Verde of 225 soldiers loyal to D. Miguel. These soldiers rounded up the province’s officials, dragged them to the cemetery and shot them, then declared D. Miguel the legitimate king. Diplomatic personnel such as Merrill were forced to agree or be shot. Merrill believed that Martins’s calm kept even worse things from happening. After a few days, the Miguelista soldiers commandeered ships and sailed off—for the United States, they said. In case they made it there, which Merrill thought unlikely, he gave a description of their leader (thin, thirtyish, and “uma catadura de assassino, como eu nunca vi”).

Mortality Rate of Mine Workers from Mozambique in the Transvaal
7. [COELHO, Duarte Egas Pinto, and others]. Relatorio ácerca das causas da Mortalidade dos indigenas da Provincia de Moçambique quando trabalhando nas indústrias mineiras do Transvaal. 1904. Lourenço Marques: Imprensa Nacional, 1911. Large 8°, original pink printed wrappers (slightly foxed, folded, spine chipping). In very good condition. 73 pp., with tables. $150.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this report on the mortality rate among Mozambicans sent to work in the mines of the Transvaal. The rate had risen to 80 per 1,000 workers. The table on pp. 43-44 cites the number of deaths for each disease in every month of 1903, ranging from abscesso tuberculoso to tumor dos pulmões, with the greatest number of fatalities due to pneumonia, meningitis, and dysentery. Pages 48-56 offer notes from visits to 11 mines in the districts of Johannesburg, Germiston, and Boksburg: working conditions (including protection from the cold for the miners), living quarters, food, baths, hospitals, and latrines.

On pp. 57-73 a Portuguese official offers suggestions for reducing the mortality rate among the Mozambican miners, among which is the proposal that wine be introduced into their diet. British High Commissioner Milner admits that many of the suggestions are valid, but refuses to consider giving the miners wine.

The main part of the report (pp. 1-42) is signed by Pinto Coelho. This and all the other sections are dated 1904.

In the 1880s, after gold and diamonds were discovered there, the Transvaal became the mainstay of Mozambique’s economy. Mozambique’s government recruited Mozambican workers for the labor-intensive mines. In exchange, the Transvaal sent freight on the railroad to Lourenço Marques and allowed Mozambique’s products preferential access in Transvaal markets. Wages of such workers were a major source of income for Mozambique, so a high mortality rate among the workers was cause for considerable economic concern.

FIRST separate EDITION. The Testamento had previously been published in the Investigador portuguez. In 1821 it was reprinted by Lourenço Caminha in Obras inéditas, under the title “Carta escripta de Paris, ou Instrução ao Ser. Príncipe D. José.” According to Innocêncio, that edition has numerous textual errors. There is also a Lisbon, 1943 edition.

Cunha (1662-1749), a famous progressive politician, diplomat, and economic thinker, served as Ambassador extraordinary to London, Madrid and Paris, and as Minister Plenipotentiary to the Congress of Utrecht in 1712. In this posthumously published Testamento, his most famous work, he advises the future D. José I to appoint Sebastião José de Carvalho e Melo (the future Marquês de Pombal) as his prime minister; to reform the army, navy, and magistracy; to encourage industry and open rivers and canals to navigation; and to be tolerant of different religious beliefs. Negative influence of the Inquisition, and the situation of Jews and New Christians, is discussed on pp. 45-57. In the course of developing a mercantilistic argument regarding Portuguese trade, products of Brazil, such as leather, sugar, tobacco, pão do Brazil, cravo do Maranhão, cocoa, and vanilla are repeatedly mentioned in connection with Portuguese trade with other European countries on pp. 58-64, as are wines from continental Portugal and Madeira, salt from Setúbal, and importation of fabrics.

short title, decorated endleaves. In very good to fine condition. A scathing denunciation of this work in ink manuscript is jotted on the front free endleaf verso and rear free endleaf recto, with a list of suggested readings (all dated 1880 or earlier) that offer better information. xvi, 725 pp., (1 l. indice).

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Fernández de los Ríos, who served as Spanish ambassador to Portugal from 1869 to 1873, was a strong proponent of a union between Spain and Portugal, which he propounds here. Also included: a history of Portugal’s foreign relations, 1140 to present; Fernández de los Ríos’s period as ambassador, including treaties and conventions on capital punishment, civil marriage, trade, telegraphs, railroads, immigration, and cultural and educational activities. The final part (pp. 671-725) covers the author’s exile from Spain and Portugal, Iberismo, and false patriotism.

Fernández de los Ríos (Madrid, 1821-Paris, 1880) was a journalist and editor, politician, and historian of the Generación del 68.

The Companhia Geral da Agricultura e Vinhos do Alto Douro was a government oversight organization established by the Portuguese Prime Minister Sebastião José de Carvalho e Melo, Marquês de Pombal to regulate the trade and production of Port wine. Established in 1756, one of the first official duties of the company was the delineation of the boundaries of the Douro wine region. This act essentially made the Douro the world’s first regional appellation. Under their charter, Pombal invested an immense amount of control in the Douro Wine Company to regulate all exports of Port, set production quantities limits, fix maximum and minimum prices for grapes and to serve as sole arbitrator in any disputes between vine growers and Port shippers. In 1761, the company was further granted a monopoly on the sale of brandy which was used in the fortification process of Port winemaking. The Douro Wine Company continued to operate to 1833 (and was briefly revived from 1843 and 1853).

Provenance: We have not been able to discover anything about António R. Passos (fl. late nineteenth- and / or early twentieth-century), but over the years have seen many books bearing his signature. They are invariably interesting volumes, in above average condition, dealing mainly with agricultural products or minerals and their application in commerce. He must have been an astute and discerning book buyer and bibliophile.

Large 8°, early nineteenth-century half calf over marbled boards (joints weak; head and foot of volume II spine defective; other binding wear), spines gilt with raised bands in six compartments, crimson and dark green lettering pieces in second and third compartments from head, gilt lettering, marbled endleaves, all text-block edges marbled. Some very light browning and occasional mild foxing. Minor worming in blank lower margin of 74 leaves of volume I, never affecting text. In good condition. xv, 496; vii, 528 pp.
2 volumes. $300.00

FIRST EDITION. The work appeared again printed in Dublin, 1789. A “second, corrected” edition appeared in London, 1790, by the same publisher as the present work, with xvi, 487; vii, 528 pp. There are as well editions of London, 1793 and London, 1794. The text was also translated into German and published in Leipzig, 1790.

Alexander Jardine, army officer and author, was the illegitimate son of Sir Alexander Jardin, fourth baronet (1712-1790), also an army officer. He eventually rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel, served as counsel in La Coruña from 1779 to 1795, and died in Portugal in 1799. Stationed in Gibraltar, in 1771 Jardine was appointed as a representative of the English government to Sultan Mohammed Ibn Abdallah. The letters touch on his time in Morocco (volume I, pp. 1-189), where he visited Tetuan, Larache, Meknes, and traveled into the Atlas Mountains.

The rest of the first volume deals with France, mostly with Paris, and with general observations on the French character, language, literature, the arts, government, education, the military, religion, industry, agriculture, etc. There are brief passages relating to Orleans, Tours, Angoulême, Bordeaux, and some places in between. Jardin’s active military career ended in 1776, when he became a British agent in Spain, gathering intelligence for four years in sometimes dangerous conditions. His time in Spain is dealt with in volume II, pp. 1-400; the principal theme of these pages is Spanish government and society, there is also a defense of sexual equality and advocacy of greater similarity in education and dress between the sexes. He traveled to Fuenterrabía, then from San Sebastián, Vergara, Bilbao, Ribadeo, El Ferrol, Santiago de Compostela to La Coruña. Also visited and commented on are Santander, Cádiz, the Sierra Morena, Cordoba, Aranjuez, El Escorial, and Madrid. Portugal is treated on pp. 401-504 of the second volume, while Jersey is dealt with in the final pages. Having entered Portugal from Galicia, Jardine draws a favorable comparison with Spain. He traveled to Braga and Porto, then went on to Lisbon. As with the other sections, the pages on Portugal deal mainly with the author’s observations on just about every possible aspect of Portuguese life.

The Oxford Dictionary of National Biography notes, “[The book’s] larger theme is government and society, but it is notable for its defence of sexual equality and advocacy of greater similarity in education and dress between the sexes.” The Letters were read by Mary Wollstonecraft, who reviewed the book in the Analytical in 1789. The influence of Jardine’s ideas on sexual equality can be seen in Wollstonecraft’s Vindication of the Rights of Women, 1792. See Chernock, Men and the Making of Modern British Feminism, p. 21.

The series editor is António Lopes Vieira. The English translation of this work was made by Deborah Brammer. This thorough study includes a description of the region, a history of Dão wines, a survey of the vineyards, the grape varieties, vineyard care, wine-making and the style of wines, quintas of the region, the organization of the region, and Dão wine in the kitchen and at table.

Pernambuco Native on Patent Medicine “Agoa de Inglaterra,” 1812

FIRST EDITION; another (a reprint?) appeared in 1931. This bit of propaganda by a native of Pernambuco gives a fascinating history of the manufacture and distribution of Agoa de Inglaterra. Originally imported from England—hence the name—this patent medicine was composed primarily of powdered cinchona bark dissolved in wine. Since quinine, the active ingredient of cinchona, was not isolated until 1820, Agoa de Inglaterra was widely popular as a remedy for the malaria that was endemic to Portugal.

Present here (missing in most copies) is the front wrapper, which gives the printer and place of printing, not mentioned on the title-page or elsewhere in the book.

Lisboa Occidental: Na Officina de Pedro Ferreira, a custa de hum parente do Autor, 1737. Folio (29 x 19 cm.), contemporary speckled sheep (worn and scraped but sound, board on front cover exposed at foot, minor worm damage to boards), spine richly gilt (faded) with raised bands in six compartments, dark red lettering-piece in second compartment from head with gilt short-title.
Half-title with large, elaborate woodcut arms of Portugal. Title page in red and black. Large woodcut and typographical headpieces and tailpieces, woodcut initials. Wide margins with printed sidenotes. Ugly dark brown stain at top edge through p. 40, extending as much as 6 cm. into text but not affecting legibility. In good condition, if just barely. Two early ink manuscript rubric inscriptions in margins of half-title. Three lines of old ink manuscript notes on front pastedown endleaf, noting sections of the book. Later (nineteenth-century?) ten-line, faded ink inscription in margin of p. 51. (18 ll.), 760 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This compendium in ten books, which purports to cover all fields of human knowledge, is an early Portuguese encyclopedia. We have never seen a work whose imprint included the statement that it was paid for at the expense of one of the author’s relatives: “a custa de hum parente do Autor”. The doting relative apparently spared no expense: the half-title has a large woodcut, the title page is in red and black, the font is large, the margins wide, the headpieces and initials elaborate, and the length remarkable (speaking as one who has counted every page). In the charming prologue (f. b1r-b4r), the author describes to “amigo, ou inimigo, sabio, ou insipiente Leitor” his aims in this book and his insatiable reading habit.

Frei José de Jesus Maria, a native of Lisbon, entered the Franciscan Order in 1704 at the convent of N.ª S.ª dos Anjos, Torres Vedras, in the province of Arrábida and, says Barbosa Machado, “aplicou-se a todo o genero de erudição em que sahio egregiamente versado.” Fr. José was preacher to the infamous brother of D. João V, the Infante D. Francisco, to whom he dedicated the Academia, despite his fear that it was a mere trifle (“tão pequena”). Indeed, this dedication to so controversial a personage may account for the rarity of the volume. Also, such a work may have been “read to pieces” at first, with surviving copies later discarded when thought to be out of date. According to the title page, Frei José had been a missionary in Brazil, and three times served as Guardião do Convento de Santa Catherina de Ribamar. Aside from this work, he published Brogniolo recopilado, e substanciado com addictamentos de gravissimos authores, metodo mais breve, muy suave, e utilissimo de exorcizar expellindo demonios, e desfazendo feitiços segundo os dictames do Sagrado Evangelho, Lisbon, 1723.

The preliminary leaves include two Romances in verse, by Dr. Vitorino Vitoriano Xavier do Amaral, and Francisco Manuel de Brito Mascarenhas, a Decima by Dr. António Soares de Carvalho, a neo-Latin Epigram by Dom Francisco António Vanicheli, and a neo-Latin ode by “Æmidærius Hæsipus Lusitanus Setobricensis Barbaricus”.

Here are the topics covered in Frei José’s summary of all aspects of human life, documented with “vastissimas noticias.”

I. Das primeiras acçoens, e operaçoens da creatura humana: including on man as a rational being, giants, pygmies, remarkable examples of maternal and paternal love, pagan gods, counting, orthography, caring for children, the evils of luxury

II. Da vida espiritual: including teaching children to be Christians, heretics, schisms, and Church councils

III. Da vida, e estado real: including the qualities of a perfect monarch, the creation of laws, Portuguese history

IV. Vida ecclesiastica, including early priests, papal elections, patriarchs, reliquaries, lamps in churches, swearing oaths

V. Vida religiosa: e monastica: including the lives of monks and clergymen, dozens of religious orders, military orders

VI. Vida conjugal: including choosing a spouse, marriage rites among barbarians, subtleties and excesses of the married state

XI. Vida laboriosa: including chapters on the origin of farmers and others who work the land; millers, bakers, etc.; cooks, pastry chefs, tavern-keepers, cheese-makers; makers of oil, bread, hats, dyes, and shopkeepers; spinners, weavers, dressmakers, launderers; tailors, embroiderers, shoemakers, tanners; gold- and silversmiths, diamond-cutters, assayers, grinders; smelters, brazier-men, tinkers, plumbers; watchmakers, blacksmiths, gunsmiths, swordssmiths; contractors, merchants, gilders, printers, booksellers, candle-makers; hairdressers, barbers, glaziers, couriers, saddlers; carvers, statuary-makers, carpenters, turners, cooperers, bed-makers.

XII. Vida perdida: including chapters on comedians; dancers, gamblers, bullfighters; drunkards, thieves, murderers; prostitutes, witches; magicians; sorcerers; “Vida perdida por natureza”; those who are presently or chronically ill; natural and sudden deaths; why some live long lives; rituals after death, including funerals; final paroxysms and how the body rots. (A cheerful note to end on!)

At the end are a 3-column index of authors cited (pp. 719-732), a second index with authors and works (pp. 733-743), and a detailed table of contents (pp. 745-760). At the end of the second, the present author notes that he has not always cited works in full in the sidenotes for fear of making it difficult to print, “por não encher mais as margens fazendo-as imperceptíveis para o Prelo.”

Reports of Four District Governors

29. [MOZAMBIQUE. Cardoso, Augusto.] Districto de Inhambane. Relatorio do Governador 1906-1907. 4 works in 1 volume. Lourenço Marques: Imprensa Nacional, 1907. 8°, contemporary green quarter morocco over marbled boards, smooth spine with gilt fillets and lettering (small defects at extremities, lower hinge torn). Light browning throughout the volume. Overall very good. vi, 140 pp., 1 large folding lithographic plan of a hospital in two colors, many tables in text (1 folding, paginated 83-84).

FIRST and ONLY EDITIONS of four reports by district governors for 1906-1907. The Portuguese government passed a law in 1907 that required colonial administrators to report in detail on the economic and social status of their territory and to suggest improvements in administration, infrastructure and public works, with particular attention to income, expenses, public works, agriculture, industry, transportation, missions, schools, ports, prisons, hospitals, and almshouses. These relatorios from 1906-1907 are among the earliest in the series, and like all such reports, they provide valuable sociological and ethnographic information on the state of the Portuguese colonies following the Scramble for Africa. The reports seem to have been intended only for circulation within the government. Some even have "confidencial" printed on the title page; all are rare.

Cardoso (who signed the report on p. 140) focuses on questions that concern the indigenous population: the shortage of labor, police interactions with them, reprisals against them, acceptable clothing, and weddings. He also discusses agriculture (cultivation of cashews, sugar, coffee, rubber, cotton, and wine) and the processing of sugar, oils, and petroleum. Inhambane is north of Lourenço Marques (Maputo), where the Matamba flows into the Indian Ocean.

* OCLC: 416989323 at University of London. Porbase locates a copy at the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal, without mention of the vi pp. at the front.

BOUND WITH:

Couto Lupi (who signed the report on p. 95) devotes a lengthy section (pp. 57-78) to the institution of the prazos, through which the Portuguese crown had, over the centuries, given certain settlers large land grants and almost total control over the indigenous population living therein. The lengthy discussion reflects the friction that frequently arose between the Portuguese bureaucracy and the prazo-holders regarding taxes, labor, and production. Couto Lupi also gives special attention to the ports and canals of the district. Quelimane is a seaport toward the northern border of Mozambique, now the administrative capital of the Zambezia province.

AND BOUND WITH:
Bettencourt (who signed the report on p. 94) explains that his province’s archives have no models for this sort of report, and proceeds to give his evaluation of the situation in Tete (dismal) and of the prazos (useless and unnecessary, pp. 7-14). His focus is on mining, agriculture, and immigration (pp. 34-40, 66-85). Tete is on the Zambezi River.

* OCLC: 183434987, at Universitat Senckenberg; Porbase locates a copy at the Biblioteca Central da Marinha.

AND BOUND WITH:

Part I includes a detailed report on military expeditions sent into the interior of the district of Mozambique to control the indigenous population, with names of those in charge and evaluations of their conduct. The governor, Pedro Massano de Amorim (see p. 168) also suggests where further military action might be taken (pp. 7-18, 22-24). His recommendations for improving the district include building lighthouses, railroads, and hospitals, cultivating natural resources, and improving laws on emigration and customs payments.

* OCLC 145358161, listed as part of a series (1907-1916) at Stanford and University of Florida; and 183200819, part of a series with 1906-7 and 1908-9 at Universitat Senckenberg; Porbase locates a copy at the Biblioteca Central da Marinha.

Circular white paper ticket with blue border and “481” supplied in ink manuscript in upper outer corner of front pastedown endleaf. 216 pp.

FIRST EDITION. The text appeared again in the author’s Obras completas, [1987?] It consists of 27 “Cartas”. Beginning on p. [65] is a divisional title page, dated 1823, titled Continuação das Cartas aos Portuguezes escritas por José Accursio das Neves.

This book attempts to foster the political economy while opposing the new constitutional system. There is much derogatory comment on the French and American revolutions, buttressed with references to Rousseau, Voltaire, Raynal, classical authors, and the Bible. On pp. 7-8 of the first part, the author refers to Portuguese shipping on the high seas, intended to promote Brazilian sugar, coffee, and cotton, which will be traded for wines of the Alto Douro, plums from Traz-os-Montes, and figs from the Algarve. On p. 69 is a reference to Brazilian independence. This is further discussed in “Carta XII: o desmembramento da monarquia” on pp. [89]-96. Cartas XV, XVI, and XVII, pp. [113]-136 deal with “Efeitos da regeneração pelo que respeita a indústria”.

Accursio das Neves (1766-1834), a noted economist, held various government posts; his writing was primarily concerned with the political implications of commerce. Elected a member of the Real Academia das Ciências de Lisboa in 1810, he was a defender of conservatism, being one of the principal supporters of D. Miguel in the Côrtes of 1828. As a conservative, he had been opposed to the liberal ideology behind the revolution of 1820, and the 1822 Portuguese constitution. On May 14, 1821, he lost his government offices, only to be reinstated in June 1823. Nevertheless, Neves was elected deputy to the Côrtes of 1822. The years 1821-1828 saw the maturing of his political-economic development. Despite the conservative approach to politics, Neves favored industrialization and free trade (while defending a moderate protectionism). As a result of his support for Miguelismo, Neves became an obscure figure with the triumph of the liberals at the end of his life. Today he is regarded as one of the most brilliant Portuguese thinkers and most lucid prose writers of his age, a precursor of modern economic theory in Portugal.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The dedication is signed “Um Lavrador do Douro”. The authorship has been ascribed to Frederico Alexandre Pinto by OCLC record 43294262; it has also been attributed to Afonso Botelho de Sampaio e Sousa. Simon and Unzelman list it under Manuel do Castro Pereira, but he is clearly the recipient of the letters rather than their author. Another completely different work, a 16 page pamphlet by António Correia Herédia, appeared in 1863, titled Questão vinhateira do Douro.

This work is an epistolary account in protest against the unfair advantage enjoyed by the Companhia (Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro, established by the Marquês de Pombal in 1756) in selling and exporting wine that drove small wine producers out of business. The common thread throughout all of the letters is the unfair treatment of independent wine producers stemming from a law of 21 Abril de 1843, and a second of 22 de Outubro de 1843. The first law is described in detail on page 53, specifically articles 8, 9, and 12. Article 8 regulates how much the companhia has to pay for different qualities of wine sold by producers at the feiras. Article 9 is about the privilege awarded the Companhia ("a companhia fica obrigada a fazer o commercio de vinhos d’exportação, e de consumo, sem que entre ella e os commerciantes haja a mais pequena distinção e privilegio," p. 53). Article 12, which infuriates the author most, is about the compensation of 150 contos de reis, which are reduced from the cost of consuming and exportation that the Companhia would otherwise have to pay to the customs in Porto.
The problems and costs of export range from discussions of Brazil and Great Britain, and laws about exporting Douro wines to the United States (p. 235), Asia and Africa (p. 231). Due to the subsidy that the government gave to the Companhia, smaller producers could no longer be competitive in the market. The author gives an idealized vision of what he calls the “laissez faire laissez passer,” recalling his first years as a wine producer when there was freedom in the commerce of wine, around the years 1835-1837. The author tells the story that he inherited his uncle’s wine business and, after having a good payday, went to Regoa [Peso da Régua, in the Douro region] to make some purchases. There he found various types of craftsmen selling their wares, including tailors, a textile market, and ironworks. The author praises conditions that were still favorable for small business (pp. 11-12) which resulted in a flourishing and diverse market. He then describes an economic crisis that led to the laws of 1843, suggesting they were influenced by the Banco Comercial, and contributed greatly to the threat of the extinction of paper money (crisis of 1837-1839, p. 16).

The author also suggests that the true cause of the wine crisis in 1843 (beyond the law of April 21, 1843) was a prodigious production of wine in the Douro region. This surplus inspired the wine producers to plant more vineyards with their increased capital, which consequently saturated the market (p. 60).

Defense of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this defense of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro. The Companhia was founded in 1756, partly in an effort by the Marquês de Pombal to limit long-standing British influence on the Port wine trade. It officially delineated the boundaries of the Douro wine region, regulated exports of Port, set production limits and prices, and was sole arbiter in disputes between producers and shippers. It also held a monopoly on the sale of brandy, used in the fortification process for making Port wine, and on the sale of the grape distillates bagaço or bagaceira (similar to grappa), which were sold in taverns in Porto and elsewhere, mostly for consumption by common people. Before the Companhia was finally dismantled in 1853, a number of attempts were made to reduce its influence, especially by liberals in sympathy with the middle and lower classes.

First Edition in Portuguese. Another edition appeared in Rio de Janeiro the same year. The French occupation of the Douro region in 1807-1809 had caused a steep drop in sales of Port wine, from which those in the trade were struggling to recover. Sale of Port wine was still in the hands of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro, established by the Marquês de Pombal in 1756. In London, some British merchants accused the Companhia of being a monopoly and asked Parliament to take action against it. The merchants from England and Scotland who signed the opening letter in this collection argue that the Companhia is beneficial to the trade, as it encourages the production of better wine. They reprint numerous documents, including two from 1754 that spurred the creation of the Companhia. Their petition to Parliament is reprinted with extensive annotations.

Port Wine Producers Petition Against British Wine Merchants

36. [PORTUGAL. Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro]. Tradução de hum requerimento dirigido ao Governo de S.M.B. por alguns negociantes Inglezes da Cidade do Porto contra a Companhia Geral do Alto Douro; e observações de hum curioso sobre a materia. Porto: Na Typ. de Viuva Alvarez Ribeiro & Filhos, 1825. 8°, stitched. Publisher’s monogram on title page. Occasional small stains and slight toning. In very good condition. 39 pp. Pages 5-12 in two columns, with original English text beside the Portuguese translation. $300.00

FIRST EDITION. On p. 12 appear the names of the fifteen individual Port wine merchants and firms signatory to the petition, including Offley Forrester Webber & C.º, Cambell Taylor & C.º, Cockburns Wauchope & C.º, John Bell & C.º, James Woodhouse, Geo. Sandeman & C.º, John Quilliman and T.G. Smith. In a letter to Foreign Secretary George Canning, they complain that the 1810 treaty between Portugal and Great Britain is not being enforced, and that the consequences “threaten the total destructions of their Trade.” Among the complaints: they are not allowed to taste wines for themselves and choose which are appropriate for export; the prices set for wines exported to England are much higher than for wines exported elsewhere; and the prices set for brandy (aguardente) are outrageous.

The “Observação geral” in the original Portuguese occupies pp. 13-39. It refutes point by point the petition of the British Port wine merchants, who had complained about the monopolistic practices of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro, also known as the Real Companhia Velha.

The Portuguese government had been heavily involved in the wine trade since 1756, when the Marquês de Pombal established the Companhia, partly in an effort to limit long-standing British influence on the Port wine trade. It officially delineated the boundaries of the Douro wine region, regulated exports of Port, set production limits and prices, and was sole arbiter in disputes between producers and shippers. It also held a monopoly on the sale of brandy, used in the fortification process for making Port wine, and on the sale of the grape distillates bagaço or bagaceira (similar to grappa), which were sold in taverns in Porto and elsewhere, mostly for consumption by common people. Before the Companhia was finally dismantled in 1853, a number of attempts were made to reduce its influence, especially by liberals in sympathy with the middle and lower classes.

Yet Another Attempt to Prevent the Dilution of Port Wine

40. [PORTUGAL. Laws. D. José I, King of Portugal 1750-1777]. Eu ElRey. Faço saber aos que este Alvará virem: Que na Minha Real Presença se verificou com toda a certeza: Por huma parte, que no anno proximo pas-sado de mil setecentos setenta e dous foi tão excessiva a quantidade de Vinho branco, que colhêram, e manifestáram alguns Lavradores dos Terrenos de Vinhos tintos .... [Lisbon]: Na Regia Officina Typografica, issued 10 April 1773. Folio (29.5 x 18.5 cm.), later wrappers. Clean and crisp. In very good condition. (2 ll.). $250.00

Another royal attempt to prevent the dilution or mixture of wines. Ever since wines from Porto became popular in England in the late seventeenth century, unscrupulous producers had begun to dilute wines to enhance color or taste, or to increase the amount they could offer for sale. Due to decreased quality, sales of Port wine had begun to drop by the mid-eighteenth century.

One of the first actions of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro, established in 1756 by the Marquês de Pombal, was to order that all elderberry plants in the Douro region be rooted out, since the juice of the elderberry (sabugueiro) was favored for diluting wine. In this decree the prohibida Baga de Sabugueiro is mentioned, and the king orders that in areas where red wines for export are grown, all vines with white grapes shall be grafted (cut off and replaced with red??). More ingredients are also added to the forbidden list—folhelho, pão campeche, and caparrosa (shale, logwood, and ferrous sulfate). Anyone who buys or even transports these items is subject to criminal penalties.

The Companhia was founded in 1756, partly in an effort by the Marquês de Pombal to limit long-standing British influence on the Port wine trade. It officially delineated the boundaries of the Douro wine region, regulated exports of port, set production limits and prices, and was sole arbiter in disputes between producers and shippers. It also held a monopoly on the sale of brandy, used in the fortification process for making Port wine, and on the sale of the grape distillates bagaço or bagaceira (similar to grappa), which were sold in taverns in Porto and elsewhere, mostly for consumption by common people.

Before the Companhia was finally dismantled in 1853, a number of attempts were made to reduce its influence, especially by liberals in sympathy with the middle and lower classes.

Forestalling Tax Evasion in Purchases of Alcohol

41. [PORTUGAL. Laws. D. José I, King of Portugal 1750-1777]. Eu ÉlRey. Faço saber aos que este Alvará com força de Lei virem: Que sendo-me presentes algumas confusões, e dúvidas, que tem ocorrido na execução dos Meus Alvarás ... assim pelo que respeita à arrecadação do Subsidio Literario, que por Elles Fui servido impôr nos Vinhos dos Meus Dominios .... N.p.: n.pr., issued at Nossa Senhora da Ajuda, 16 December 1773. Folio (29.5 x 18.5 cm.), modern marbled wrappers, edges rouged. Eight-line woodcut initial. In very good condition. (4 ll.) $350.00

The king clarifies the obligation of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro to collect royal taxes on wine, aguardente and vinegar. To curb tax evasion, he forbids retail sale of wine and aguardente within the Douro appellation area. The alvará of 10 November 1772 had created some confusion on these matters.

The Portuguese government had been heavily involved in the wine trade since 1756, when the Marquês de Pombal established the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro. The Companhia officially delineated the boundaries of the Douro wine region, regulated exports of Port, set production limits and prices, and was sole arbiter in disputes between producers and shippers. It also held a monopoly on the sale of brandy, used in the fortification process for making Port wine, and on the sale of the grape distillates bagaço or bagaceira (similar to grappa), which were sold in taverns in Porto and elsewhere, mostly for consumption by common people. The Companhia was finally dismantled in 1853.

At the end of this decree, the printed signature of the Marquês de Pombal appears below the printed signature of the king.

Deals with various details of wine-growing and shipping in the Douro region: comarcas whose wine is inferior, the risks of using huge barges on the Douro, moving barges when the wind dies, price-fixing, mislabeling of wines, and impediments to river traffic such as fisheries that extend out into the river. Pages 13-14 list obstructions that are to be razed at the expense of the respective town councils within thirty days of the publication of this decree.

Because of widespread, deliberate discrepancies from the standard size of wine casks in the Douro region, the king ordains that a pareador geral operating out of Porto will be in charge of confirming the exact measurements of casks. To further discourage deceptive practices, the cooper(s) (tanoeiros) who produce the casks are henceforth required to brand each cask with their name.

Folio (28.7 x 18.5 cm.), in later black-and-white machine-marbled wrappers, text-block edges rouged from an earlier binding. Eight-line woodcut initial. In very good condition. 6 pp. $150.00

Because the Douro is sometimes so low that it is difficult to transport wine to Porto, the queen orders that roads be built on both sides of it. Taxes for that purpose will be collected from the owners of vineyards who produce wine for export or for domestic sale (vinho de ramo), from the Junta of the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro, from wine merchants, and from the citizens of Porto. The owners of land taken for the roads will be compensated depending on the current use of the land.

The Portuguese government had been heavily involved in the wine trade since 1756, when the Marquês de Pombal established the Companhia, partly in an effort to limit long-standing British influence on the Port wine trade. Extends the Companhia Geral da Agricultura das Vinhas do Alto Douro for another twenty years, through 1816. It officially delineated the boundaries of the Douro wine region, regulated exports of Port, set production limits and prices, and was sole arbiter in disputes between producers and shippers. Detailed Analysis of Anglo-Portuguese Commercial Treaty

50. SARAIVA, António Ribeiro. Do tratado de commercio entre Portugal e a Gran-Bretanha. London: Imprensa de Schulze e Ca., 1842. 12°, recent crimson half morocco over marbled boards, spine with raised bands in five compartments, gilt lettering in second and fourth compartments, gilt place and date at foot, decorated endleaves, original printed wrappers bound in (small holes and chips). Occasional very light spotting and soiling. In very good condition. 215, (1) pp. [errata printed on outside rear wrapper]. $400.00

FIRST EDITION. In a series of letters written before and after the adoption of an important commercial treaty, the author argues that the trade agreement between Great Britain and Portugal would benefit Portugal even more than it would benefit England. His argument is complex, detailed, annotated, and full of historical allusions and analysis of the Portuguese political economy. There is a reference to Brazil on p. 35, and several references to the wine trade, as well as comments on British tastes in wine. The text of the treaty appears on pp. [193]-214. The work was written as a series of lengthy letters to the editor of the Lisbon newspaper Portugal velho, which had Miguelista sympathies.

The author mentions on p. 6 his "caro amigo, e patrício, e contemporâneo de batina, Sr. Costa Cabral"—i.e., António Bernardo da Costa Cabral (1803-1889), first Conde and first Marquês de Thomar, who was at times virtual dictator of Portugal (holding the post of Prime Minister, 1842-1846; returning to power as Prime Minister 1849-1851). This work was analyzed in Reflexões sobre o tratado de commercio entre Portugal e a Grã-Bretanha, and análise do opúsculo do Sr. António Ribeiro Saraiva relativo ao mesmo assumpto, Lisbon 1843.

Ribeiro Saraiva (1797-1890) was sent by D. Miguel on diplomatic missions throughout Europe, and remained D. Miguel’s staunch supporter even after the liberal triumph in 1834.

Argues in Detail Against the Anglo-Portuguese Commercial Treaty

62. [TREATY: Great Britain and Portugal]. Analyse ao Tratado de commercio e navegação de 3 de julho de 1842 entre Portugal e a Gram Bretanha: negociações sobre a reducção de direitos em virtude do artigo 7º; e males que ella devia causar a Portugal se fosse levada a effeito. Por um ex-deputado ás Côrtes, amigo da industria do seu pais. Lisbon: Na Typographia de José Baptista Morando, 1844. 8º, stitched, traces of early wrappers. Uncut and unopened. Light browning. In very good condition. ii, 124 pp. $350.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Argues that the recent treaty with Great Britain reducing tariffs will damage Portuguese industry, including textile and other manufacturing, fishing and wine production; the argument is supported by statistics from Portugal and examples drawn from the rest of Europe. On pp. 5-51 the author analyzes the 1842 treaty between Portugal and Great Britain article by article, pointing out the unfair advantages it gives to British subjects trading in Portugal.

Menu for Dinner Honoring a Famous Bullfighter

With Cover Sketch by a Distinguished Caricaturist and with a Signed and Dated Presentation Inscription From the Bullfighter to the Caricaturist

64. [VALENÇA, Francisco]. [Menu]. Cena en honor de D. Juan Belmonte, regalito de la afición portuguesa. [Lisbon]: n.pr., 1937. Large 8°, folded. Printed in red throughout. Full-page caricature of Belmonte fighting a bull on cover. In fine condition. Belmonte’s signed (“Juan Belmonte”) and dated (1937) three-line presentation inscription to Francisco Valença on cover. 2 leaves, printed on the rectos only. $600.00

Signed presentation copy of a menu designed by Francisco Valença for a dinner at A Severa, Lisbon, 17 July 1937 in honor of the Spanish bullfighter Juan Belmonte, inscribed by Belmonte to Valença. Some of the dishes include “Sopa Belmontina,” “Pescado a la Média Veronica,” and “Ternera Andaluza con salsa torera.” Juan Belmonte y García (1892-1962) was considered by many the greatest bullfighter of all time. He revolutionized the art of bullfighting. A close friend of Ernest Hemingway, he is the prototype for one of the characters in Hemingway’s novel, The Sun Also Rises, as well as being featured in Hemingway’s nonfiction book on bullfighting, Death in the Afternoon.

Francisco Valença (1882-1962) was perhaps the most important twentieth-century Portuguese caricaturist. The article on him in the Grande enciclopédia portuguesa e brasileira...
notes that Valença was renowned in Portugal and abroad, comparing him to Bordalo Pinheiro, one of the geniuses of the art of caricature: “Durante toda a sua vida tem constantemente enriquecido com os seus desenhos não só inúmeras páginas da grande maioria dos jornais e revistas de Portugal, como também de França, de Espanha e do Brasil. É, tanto pela extensão da sua obra, como pela sua intenção artística e social, um dos maiores caricaturistas portugueses depois de Rafael Bordalo Pinheiro, com o qual tem grandes afinidades....”

Valença began his career in 1900, as director of O Chinelo, which he founded with André Brun and writer Carlos Simões. Valença also founded Salão cômico (1902); Varões assinalados (1909-1911)—winner of the “Grand Prix” in the Rio de Janeiro exposition of 1922-1923; and O Moscando (1913). His work appeared in the following newspapers, journals, and reviews: A Comédia portuguesa (1902); Brasil-Portugal (1902-1909); Suplemento humorístico do Século (1904-1908); Novidades (1907); Ilustração portuguesa (1906-1920); Tiro e sport (1906-1911); Arte musical (1907-1908); Alma nacional (1910); A Sátira (1911); Eco artístico (1914-1915); O teatro (1922-1923); Diário de notícias (the New York Times of Portugal; 1919-1924, 1930); O Mundo (1918-1924); Eco Artístico (1914-1915); De Teatro (1922-1923); República (1918); Ilustração (1926); Sempre fixe (for 30 years, starting in 1926); Alma nova (1922-1925); Portucale (Porto, 1930). He was artistic director of the weekly O Espectro (1925). Abroad, his work appeared in Rire (Paris); Boletín Fermé (Barcelona); and many newspapers and reviews in Rio de Janeiro.

Together with Carlos Simões, Valença produced the Catálogo cômico, with send-ups of works by Portugal’s serious artists shown in the Exposição de Belas Artes in 1914-1919, 1923 and 1924.

Original examples of Valença’s work are in the collections of the Museu de Arte Contemporânea, Lisbon; the Museu de Bragança; the Museu Municipal, Porto; the Museu Soares dos Reis, Porto; and the Getty Research Institute.

65. VILLA-MAIOR, Júlio Máximo de Oliveira Pimentel, Visconde de. Tratado de vinificação para vinhos genuinos. Lisbon: Typographia da Academia [Real das Ciências], 1868-1869. 8°, contemporary quarter dark blue morocco over decorated boards (slight wear), romantic spine, gilt with gilt letter, decorated endleaves, edges sprinkled. A few wood-engraved illustrations in text of equipment for making wine. Overall in very good to fine condition. [3]-160 pp., (1 l. indice, 1 blank l., 1 leaf half-title, 1 leaf divisional title-page for part II, dated 1869), [161]-291 pp., (1 leaf indice). The half-title appears to be misbound before the divisional title instead of at the beginning of the volume. $500.00

FIRST EDITION of this important and scarce treatise, which begins, “São muitos os que fazem vinho, e poucos os que o fazem bem.” Includes chapters on all the basics of wine-making, including the harvest, preparation of the grapes, pressing the grapes, putting in casks, clarification, sulfidation, adding aguardente, and bottling. The second part includes discussions of diseases of vines, mustiness, cloudiness, bitterness, and the effects of heat and cold.

The author (Torre de Moncorvo, 1809-Coimbra, 1884) was president of the Academia das Sciencias and president of the Câmara Municipal de Lisboa. He wrote numerous scientific works.

* Inocêncio XIII, 264; see also V; 161-2. Unzelman, Wine & Gastronomy p. 159 cites only the 1883 second edition, as does Simon, Vinaría 47. OCLC: 123110488 (California State University-Fresno, Stanford University, University of California-Davis, University of Wisconsin-Madison). Forbase lists four copies in the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal and one at the Biblioteca Central da Marinha. Copac locates only a copy of the second edition, at the City of London Guildhall Library.

Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title page. Internally fine; overall in good to very good condition. 239, Iviii pp., (3 ll., 1 l. errata), 1 large folding table, 3 large folding copper engraved plates.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this comprehensive treatise on wine, wine making, and distillation, with additional sections on spirits and vinegar. The three copper engravings represent distilling and pressing equipment. The work concludes with a list of subscribers and a detailed table of contents. There are specific sections on methods of winemaking in Penafiel, Vila Viçosa, Vila do Conde, Vila Real, and Douro. There are also sections on how to imitate some of the best wines: Madeira (pp. 157-8); clarete (p. 159); muscatel (p. 160); and “geropiga, our vinho doce” (pp. 161-2). In the final section of Iviii pp. are descriptions of wines from the Douro, Trás-os-Montes, Minho, suburbs of Porto, Penafiel, Basto, Ribeira do Limia, Vila do Conde, Vila Real, and Bragança. The author (Villarinho de São Romão, 1785-Lisbon, 1863), Peer of the Realm, and deputy to the 1821 Constitutional Côrtes from Trás-os Montes, later representing Vila Real and Bragança (before being elevated to the peerage by D. Maria II in 1835 after the restoration of the Liberal regime), served as administrator of the Casa da Moeda, and prefect of Trás-os-Montes and Estremadura. Landowner and economist, he was a member of the Academy of Sciences and numerous other learned societies as well as organizations devoted to the public good. During the reign of Dom Miguel he was forced to keep a low profile due to his progressive ideas, already expressed in some published writings, and later in many other published works. He was one of the most distinguished deputies.
