First Mention in Print of Maranhão; Most Important Account of the French Capuchin Mission There, with Portraits of Six Tupi Indians

$50,000.00

FIRST EDITION, second issue. The first issue was published earlier in 1614; this issue has corrections to a number of typos in the main text (see Borba) and a lengthier index. The Histoire is the first and most important written account of the Capuchin mission to Maranhão, an island off the coast of Brazil: Sabin notes that it is the earliest known mention of Maranhão. It includes engravings of Tupi Indians. Borba de Moraes notes, “The narrative of the journey, and all the events, is the principal printed French source that exists about this tentative colonization of the north of Brazil. Although not endowed with the spontaneity and the literary talent of Yves d’Evreux, Claude d’Abbeville gives us valuable information concerning the religion and ‘astronomy’ of the Tupis, not to be found in any other writings.” Duviols says of the Histoire, “C’est le texte le plus important—avec celui d’Yves d’Evreux—non seulement sur la tentative de colonisation française dans l’île de Maranhão, mais surtout pour les renseignements précieux qu’il fournit sur ‘les singularitez admirables et les moeurs merveilleuses des Indiens’.”

In 1612 a mission composed of the French Capuchins Yves d’Evreux, Arsène de Paris, Ambroise d’Amiens, and Claude d’Abbeville accompanied Daniel de la Rivardière’s expedition to settle Maranhão. D’Abbeville relates the mission’s westward voyage, the arrival in Maranhão, the death of Father Ambroise, and the activities of the Capuchins on the island. He also adds detailed descriptions of the region, including the animals, birds and fish found there, as well as chapters on the customs, laws, wars and history of the Tupi indians.

The account ends with the return voyage to France, the group’s arrival and welcome in Paris, and the ensuing festivities. Arsène and d’Abbeville brought back to France six important Tupi, portraits of whom appear in this account (see below). The Indian ambassadors caused a sensation in Paris, where curious crowds flocked to see them. Borba de Moraes notes that “the Histoire de la mission seems to have been printed very quickly in order to take advantage of the presence in Paris of the six Indians from Maranhão . . . . It appears that the first edition [i.e., issue] was soon out of print, and a second was printed. This was published with the misprints corrected, and a more extensive index was compiled and printed in 35 pp. in double cols.”

This Histoire includes a number of fascinating engravings of the Tupi Indians. At the top of the engraved title page, eight Indians petition Marie de Medicis, regent of France (small banners with Latin flow from their mouths). Below, Tupi (again with Latin banners) petition the Pope and St. Francis. At the lower left, a Tupi grills two human legs over an open fire as a woman looks on. At the lower right, kneeling Indians are blessed by Capuchin friars. The first full-page engraving (f. 89v) shows a crucifix being erected in Maranhão, with the Capuchins and a French soldier kneeling in the foreground, a crowd of Tupi watching, a group of teepees in the background, and a ship riding at anchor in the harbor. Three portraits show Tupi in native dress, all with weapons, one with extensive tattoos (ff. 347v, 355v, 358v). The other three portraits show Tupi wearing the soutane in which they were baptized, carrying a tall hat and a fleur-de-lys (ff. 361v, 363v, 364v).

Hemming describes in detail how the missionaries and the six Tupi ambassadors “landed at Le Havre after a stormy crossing and were given a great reception, with a procession, gun salute, visit to the Governor and acclamation by the crowd. There were similar festivities in Rouen. But the greatest excitement was in Paris. A hundred priests greeted the Tupinambá party at the city gates, and escorted it to the Capuchin church for a mass attended by a galaxy of French nobility. The Tupinambá marched in the procession wearing their feathers and holding clubs. The Parisians were wild with curiosity: people poured in from the countryside, and the excited crowd burst the gates of the Capuchin convent housing the Indians. The Tupinambá were taken to the Louvre to visit King Louis XIII, and their leader made a speech in Tupi. But the inevitable European diseases struck these Americans: the sixty-year-old Carypira caught influenza and died, and two of his companions died soon after. They were buried in Franciscan habits. But the three survivors received the full panoply of French official hospitality. They were taken for baptism in the Capuchin church in the Faubourg Saint-Honoré, wearing long soutanes of white taffeta buttoned down the front with silk buttons and with small valois collars, and carrying tall hats with white plumes. Each carried a fleur-de-lys as a symbol of submission to the French. King Louis and his mother the Regent Marie de Médicis acted as godparents, and the Archbishop of Paris officiated. The leading Tupinambá was christened Louis-Marie, and he made a speech of acceptance. The three were then taken to the convent of Sainte-Claire to satisfy the curiosity of its nuns, who were desperate to see the exotic strangers” (Red Gold p. 206).

Léonard Gaultier (who sometimes signed himself “Galter”), a French engraver, was born at Mainz about 1561 and died in Paris in 1641. The precision and style of his prints recalls those of the Wierix brothers and Crispyn van de Passe. The Abbé de Marolles possessed upwards of eight hundred prints by this prolific engraver, many of them after his own designs.

First Edition in Portuguese of this account of an earthquake, the same one that destroyed large parts of Lisbon, that caused severe damage to the Franciscan missions in North Africa on All Saints Day (November 1, 1755). Within eight minutes the convent, church, hospital, pharmacy, and other buildings of the Trinitarians (Order of Redemption of Captives) in Mequinez (Meknes) were completely destroyed, as were the hospital and infirmary in Fez—but all the brothers escaped. The author also gives information on the extent of the destruction in the towns of Morocco, at Sale, Arzila, Larache, Marmora, Tangier, Tetouan, Ceuta, and describes the effect of the tsunami at the ports of Morocco. He compares the behavior of the Muslims and Jews who suffered through the earthquake with that of Catholics.

The letter is signed at Mequinez and dated November 8, 1755 (p. 7). It was published in Madrid, 1755, and later the same year in Barcelona, as Relacion escrita por el Padre Guardian del Real Convento de Mequinês, y Vice-Prefecto Apostólico de las Santas Missiones, que en las partes de Berberia .... The author, a Franciscan from Valença do Minho, was Padre Guardian at the Real Convento in Mequinez, in north central Morocco.

Advice to a King on How to Govern

3. ANJOS, D. Fr. Manoel dos, O.F.M. Politica predicavel e doutrina moral do bom governo do mundo … Lisbon: Na Officina de Miguel Deslandes, 1693. Folio (29.5 x 20.4 cm.), contemporary speckled sheep (some wear to corners and head of spine; lacks free endleaves), spine gilt with raised bands in five compartments (some rubbing to bands), crimson leather lettering piece in second compartment from head (faded), gilt letter. Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title page. Numerous woodcut initials, several large and elegant. Woodcut headpieces (one large and nicely executed). Typographical headpieces. Large woodcut tailpieces. Text in two columns. Small hole in leaf B6 with loss of page numbers for pp. 23-4. Small tear repaired at lower outer corner of leaf F1. Very small worm trace in lower blank margin of quire G and in leaves H3-5, R2-4, and Ss5-Tt6, never affecting text. Some foxing and occasional small dampstains. Overall in good to very good condition. Contemporary ink inscription on title page: “Morgado de V.* Cova.” (14 ll.), 760 pp. $1,200.00

FIRST EDITION; a second edition appeared in 1702. This advice on how to govern was published posthumously and dedicated by Fr. Joseph Evangelista, Ministro Provincial of the Terceira Ordem, to the then four-year-old prince, Dom João, who succeeded his father D. Pedro II in December 1706 and was crowned as D. João V on January 1, 1707. When written, the book was probably intended for the ill-fated son and heir of D. João IV, who became King Afonso VI in 1656. Taking a religious and moral tone, the work offers sound counsel on the powers and duties of a ruler. In addition to many biblical and other religious references, there are also references to classical authors and to more modern secular authorities.

One curious feature of this volume is that the earliest license is dated 3 October 1652. Several more date from 1655 and 1656, then two from 1670, one from 1673, another from 21 August 1692, and the final three dated 9, 10, and 12 October 1693. Thus it took over 40 years to obtain the approval of the authorities to print the book. According to Porbase, there is a variant issue in which the final license is dated 21 August 1692.

In addition to the dedication and licenses, the preliminary matter includes a privilege for ten years granted by the crown to the Franciscan Order, a four-page author’s prologue, a neo-Latin epigram signed Emmanuel d’Abrantes, and another signed Fr. Valentinus de Alpoem, who also provides a sonnet in Portuguese. There is as well an elaborate thirteen-page table of contents. At the end is an “Elenchus por concionibus adaptandis” (pp. 640-78); an index of the most noteworthy things contained in the work (pp. 679-731); and an index to citations of Holy Scripture (pp. 732-60).

Fr. Manoel dos Anjos was born in Manteigas, near Guarda, in 1595, and died at Coimbra, 1653. He also wrote a Historia universal, originally published in Coimbra, 1651

Handbook for Trade with Africa and the Americas

4. [BACELLAR, Bernardo de Lima e Mello, a.k.a. Bernardo de Jesus Maria, O.F.M.]. Arte, e dicionario do commercio, e economia portugueza, para que todos negoceem, e governem os seus bens por calculo, e não por conjectura; ou para que todos lucrem mais com menos risco. Lisbon: Na Offic. de Domingos Gonsalves, 1784. 8°, contemporary mottled calf, spine with raised bands in five compartments, green label in second compartment from head, short-title gilt-lettered (some rubbing). Title page dampstained, light dampstaining elsewhere. In good condition. 215 pp., (1 p. errata). $3,500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this handbook listing the prices of commodities traded by Portugal with Europe, Africa and the Americas, with evaluations of Portugal’s status in the international economy. “The statistics show, for example, that rice had become a profit-yielding item. Neverblessed, the author recommended that the export trade be expanded, finding that the Portuguese empire had a negative trade balance in 1777, and that the economy diversify instead of relying on gold mines, with all the income being spent during the ‘fat’ years” (Schäffer).

Brazil is mentioned as the source for over thirty products (often with a specific region, such as Pará or Maranhão), including indigo, coffee, copper, ginger, sponges, silk, wheat and linen. It is also mentioned ten or more times when the author feels a product could be grown there rather than imported, e.g., boar bristles, feathers, cloves, and cochineal.

Among the other commodities listed are cotton, cocoa, gum, ipecacuana, clocks and guns. Often there is a short dissertation on the product, e.g., on sugar (p. 52), fish oil (pp. 55-6), and cacao (pp. 65-6). The author is not averse to adding his own astringent comments; he is, for instance, upset that Portugal imports tartaruga emcascos (tortoise-shell) when “nós temos pelas costas, e lagoas do Brasil cascos tam grandes de tartarugas, que servem de bacias” (p. 199).

Lima de Mello Bacellar, a Franciscan, also wrote Dicionario da lingua portugueza, Lisbon 1783.

Borba de Moraes (1983) I, 50. Innocência I, 379. Not in Kress; Luso-Brazilian Economic Literature before 1850 lists only a microfilm copy (p. 3). Schäffer, Portuguese Exploration to the West and the Formation of Brazil 78. JCB, Portuguese and Brazilian Books 784/1. Not in JFB (1994) or Ticknor Catalogue. Goldsmiths’ Library 12603. Not located in NUC. 5. BARROCO, Plácido Andrade. Dissertação sobre a origem das vestes sagradas na Lei da Graça. Lisbon: Na Regia Officina Typografica, 1791. 4°, Contemporary mottled sheep, spine richly gilt (lettering piece missing), triple border in gilt on covers, outer edges of covers gilt (some wear), marbled endleaves. Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title-page, woodcut headpiece and initial (five lines high) on p. 1. Considerable use of Greek and Hebrew type, as well as some Arabic. In fine condition; internally very fine. Engraved armorial bookplate of J.G. Mazziotti Saalema Garção of Porto, noted mid-twentieth-century collector and wolfram magnate; his small embossed stamp on title-page. (8 ll.), 117 pp., (1 blank l.). $800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this treatise on clerical vestments. The extensive footnotes contain significant text in Greek and Hebrew; there are Greek and Hebrew words and phrases scattered throughout the main body of the work as well. The author was born in Lisbon, 1750 and died in 1813. A member of the Third Order of the Franciscans, having professed in 1771, he exercised the “magisterio” of the order for some years, was “Definidor,” “Chronista,” and finally was elected “Ministro geral” in 1807. He was a brother of the poet José Ferreira Barroco.

Blue paper (approximately 9 x 8.2 cm.) with contemporary inscription “Cantos,” is attached to front cover with a contemporary red wax seal. 8 pp. $250.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this poem celebrating the peace ending the “Guerra das Laranjas.” It is preceded by a sonnet to the dedicatee.

The author (1756-ca. 1806), a native of Lisbon, entered the Franciscan Order in 1773. A preacher, he knew Greek and was accomplished in letters. His Poemas lyricos appeared in two volumes, 1787-1789, and a number of his brief celebratory poems and sermons were published separately. A third volume of “poemas lyricos”, a volume containing an epic poem on the death of D. José, Prince of Brazil, as well as a volume of sermons—all in manuscript—were said to have been held by the bishop of Beja; Innocêncio thought they were probably in the Biblioteca Pública of Évora.

Officium for St. Catherine of Bologna

Interesting Coat of Arms

The Prefatio (p. [2]) gives a brief history of this officium; it includes the date 1587. Page 11 includes the date 1592.

The vivid but rather crude coat of arms on the title page includes the arms of Portugal and the lance wound of Christ (?), with a crest of a cross and the crown of thorns. The inscription around the edge mentions St. Francis, Portugal, and the Franciscans. Much of it is difficult to decipher, since the lettering gets progressively more cramped.

St. Catharine of Bologna (1413-1463) was beatified in 1524 and canonized in 1712. Her major work, Treatise on the Seven Spiritual Weapons Necessary for Spiritual Warfare (Le Sette Armi Spirituali), was important in the dissemination of vernacular mysticism in the early modern period. First printed in 1475, it went through dozens of editions and was translated to Latin, French, Portuguese, English, Spanish, and German.

The Virtues of the Religious Life

8. CHAGAS, Fr. Antonio das, O.F.M. [a.k.a. Antonio da Fonseca Soares]. Carta do Venerável Padre ... escrita a um amigo seu, depois de ser religioso, na qual se manifesta a sua virtude, e se qualifica seu entendimento. Dedicada ao Senhor Thomaz Antonio de Araujo e Sousa por Gonçalo Pinto Mascarenhas. Coimbra: n.pr., 1738. 4°, disbound. Woodcut vignette on title page. Fore-edge margin shaved, touching letters on several pages. Tissue repair on first page of main text (afflicting a few letters of the heading), on p. 5 (not affecting legibility) and at gutters (not touching text). In near-good condition. (3 ll.), 9 pp. $40.00

First edition? Innocência notes that this letter on the virtues of the religious life has sometimes been attributed to Cardeal D. José Pereira de Lacerda, and was printed in his Sermões, which also appeared in 1738. The text includes a redondilha, glosa, and four sonetos.

António da Fonseca Soares was born at Vidigueira in 1631, and spent his youth as a soldier. After killing a man in a duel arising from one of many love affairs, he fled to Brazil. When he returned (1657?) he attained the rank of captain, but in 1663 abandoned his military career and took vows in the Franciscan monastery at Évora, under the name Fr. Antonio das Chagas. He died in 1682 at the monastery at Varatojo, which he had founded. Bell notes, “He built up and exercised a powerful spiritual influence throughout Portugal, and it continued after his death” (Portuguese Literature, p. 248).

Fr. Chagas had written poetry in the Gongoric style, but destroyed most of it after he took vows. He is best known as a prose writer, and his Cartas espirituais (Lisbon, 1684-87) hold “a foremost place in Portuguese literature ... [his work] possesses so persuasive, so passionate an energy, and is of so clear a fervour and harmony that its eloquence is felt to be genuine” (Bell, pp. 248-9).

FIRST EDITION. According to the title page, this work by Chagas was written when he was about to quit the army and join a religious order. “Alerta homens; pois não ha vida tão prevelegiada, que não termine em tumba ...”

Sermons on How to Give Sermons

10. CHAGAS, Fr. Antonio das, O.F.M. [a.k.a. Antonio da Fonseca Soares]. Escola de penitencia, e flagello de viciosos costumes, que consta de sermoens apostolico do ... tirados a luz por Fr. Manoel da Conceyçam … I Parte [all published] .... Lisbon: Na Officina de Miguel Deslandes, & à sua custa impresso, 1687. 4º, contemporary limp vellum (stained and creased, front hinge nearly gone), spine with author (“Chagas”) in horizontal ink manuscript. Small woodcut ornament of a floral basket on title page; woodcut headpieces and tailpiece. Text in 2 columns. Three brownish stains on title page, mostly in margins, where ownership signatures (?) were effaced, touching several letters without affecting legibility, and with a few small holes, without loss; stains have bled onto following leaf. Scattered stains elsewhere. Overall in good condition. (7 ll.), 516 pp. $600.00

FIRST EDITION of these seven sermons by one of Portugal’s noted authors, edited after Chagas’s death by Fr. Manuel da Conceição, who also wrote an introduction (sermão preludial) for the collection. The Escola de penitencia is described on the title page as Part I, but no further parts appeared. A second edition was printed in Lisbon, 1738, and a third in Lisbon, 1763.

Innocência notes, “pela alteza dos assumptos, pela solidez e força do raciocinio, e até pela cultura da dicção, gravidade do estilo, e pureza da phrase não são menos recomendaveis que as outras obras do respeitavel missionario” (I, 110-11). Each of the 7 sermons is divided into 3 or 4 parts. Two are on being a good preacher: the qualities necessary and the differences in preaching at a court or in the grand home of a noble family. The other sermons deal with sins, penitence, why it’s difficult for the highborn to stop sinning, the pains of hell, and the worst sins. The index includes entries for bestiality, luxury, comets, and swagger (jactância). This edition includes a dedication to the King of Portugal (f. †3r, immediately following the title page) that does not appear in the 1738 edition.

António da Fonseca Soares, born in Vidigueira in 1631, spent his youth as a soldier. After killing a man in a duel arising from one of many love affairs, he fled to Brazil. When he returned (1657?) he attained the rank of captain, but in 1663 abandoned his military career and took vows in the Franciscan monastery at Évora. He refused an appointment as bishop of Lamego in order to become an apostolic missionary. In 1682 he died at the monastery of Varatojo, which he had founded. According to Bell, “He built up and exercised a powerful spiritual influence throughout Portugal, and it continued after his death” (Portuguese Literature p. 248). He is best known as a prose writer, and his Cartas espirituas (Lisbon, 1684-1687) hold “a foremost place in Portuguese literature … [his work] possesses so persuasive, so passionate an energy, and is of so clear a fervour and harmony that its eloquence is felt to be genuine” (Bell, Portuguese Literature pp. 248-9).

Before his conversion, Fonseca Soares wrote a great deal of poetry in the Gongoric style, most of which he destroyed after he had taken vows. Little of this was ever published: Innocêncio cites only 2 short poems that had appeared in anthologies. Other short poems continued to circulate in manuscript.

The sermons were edited by Fr. Manuel da Conceição (d. Placencia, 1693, age 53), whose secular name was Manuel Teixeira de Seixas. He earned a doctorate in canon law and was Desembargador da Relação Ecclesiastica in Braga. Having heard Fr. Antonio das Chagas speak in 1679, he was so moved that he donned the Franciscan habit at Varatojo. Fr. Manuel became a passionate preacher, and having rejected D. Pedro II’s offers of the bishoprics of Macao and Miranda, he was part of the group assigned to reform the Franciscan Order.

Na Oficina de MIGUEL DESLANDES, & I ha sua Imprensa,
Com todas as comissas necessarias, & Privilégio Real. Anno 1687.

Little-recorded second edition (or issue?) of this addition to a classic work. The Obras espirituaes, first published in Lisbon, 1684 and 1687, have earned Fr. Antonio das Chagas a foremost place in Portuguese literature. According to Belchior Pontes, the Obras espirituaes posthumas first appeared in Lisbon, 1684, and again at Coimbra, 1685 (this edition); Coimbra, 1700; Lisbon, 1715; and Coimbra, 1728. The Lisbon, 1684 edition is described in Ameal 590 (xviii, 316, ii pp.), Nepomuceno 460 (xvii, 316, 2 pp.), and Castello Melhor 702 (without collation). Given the similarity of this collation with that of our Coimbra, 1685 edition, it is possible that the 1684 edition is merely a different issue, but without comparing the two side by side, it is impossible to be certain.

António da Fonseca Soares was born at Vidigueira in 1631, and spent his youth as a soldier. After killing a man in a duel arising from one of many love affairs, he fled to Brazil. When he returned (1657?) he attained the rank of captain, but in 1663 abandoned his military career and took vows in the Franciscan monastery at Évora. He died in 1682 at the monastery at Varatojo, which he had founded. Bell notes, “He built up and exercised a powerful spiritual influence throughout Portugal, and it continued after his death” (Portuguese Literature, p. 248).

Fr. Chagas had written poetry in the Gongoric style, but destroyed most of it after he took vows. He is best known as a prose writer, and his Cartas espirituaes (Lisbon, 1684-87) hold “a foremost place in Portuguese literature … [his work] possesses so persuasive, so passionate an energy, and is of so clear a fervour and harmony that its eloquence is felt to be genuine” (Bell, pp. 248-9).

12. CHAGAS, Fr. Antonio das, O.F.M. [a.k.a. Antonio da Fonseca Soares]. Obras espirituaes posthumas .... Coimbra: Na Officina de Luis Seco Ferreyra, 1728. 8°, contemporary speckled calf (slight wear, a few small wormholes on spine), spine gilt with raised bands in five compartments, citron lettering piece in second compartment with short title and author gilt. Some browning. Overall in very good condition. Contemporary ownership inscription of Fr. Isidoro da S. Miguel on verso of title. (8 ll.), 316 pp., (1, 1 blank ll.). $200.00

Fifth edition of a work that first appeared in Lisbon 1684, and again at Coimbra 1685, Coimbra 1700, and Lisbon 1715. The Obras espirituaes posthumas is an addition to the classic Cartas espirituaes, Lisbon, 1684-87, which holds “a foremost place in Portuguese literature” (Bell, p. 248).

Antonio da Fonseca Soares, born at Vidigueira in 1631, was in his youth a soldier. After killing a man in a duel arising from one of many love affairs, he fled to Brazil. When he returned (1657?) he attained the rank of captain, but in 1663 abandoned his military career and took vows in the Franciscan monastery at Évora. He became an Apostolic Missionary and founded the monastery at Varatojo, where he died in 1682. According to Bell, “He built up and exercised a powerful spiritual influence throughout Portugal, and it continued after his death …. If [his prose] has not the simple severity of a Bernardes, it possesses so persuasive, so passionate an energy, and is of so clear a fervour and harmony that its eloquence is felt to be genuine” (pp. 248-9). Fonseca Soares had written poetry in the Gongoric style, but destroyed most of it after he took vows, and remains best known as a prose writer.

FIRST EDITION. Fr. João da Concepção (d. 1643), a Franciscan born in Lisbon, taught at the Convento de San Francisco de Xabregas. His dedication and the sermon itself are a paean on the close relations between the Portuguese king and his people, and how these were demonstrated in the period when D. João was acclaimed king in early December of 1640.

This work originally appeared in 1987 as a master’s thesis in Portuguese literature at the Faculdade de Letras da Universidade de Lisboa. Known in the secular life as Agostinho Pimenta prior to entering the Capuchin Order at age twenty-one, Frei Agostinho da Cruz (Ponte da Barca, 1540-Setúbal, 1619), was the brother of the poet Diogo Bernardes, and an important poet in his own right. His work remained for the most part unpublished until there appeared in 1771 an edition of his Obras.

Tribute to the Franciscan Order, Written by a Native of Macao

*17. DEUS, Jacinto de, O.F.M. Caminho dos frades menores para a vida eterna. Lisbon: Na Officina de Miguel Deslandes, 1689. 4°, contemporary stiff vellum, fore-edge cover extensions, spine with vertical title in manuscript, textblock edges rouged. Small woodcut floral vignette on title-page. Woodcut initials. Woodcut headpiece on recto of second preliminary leaf; typographical headpiece on recto of following leaf.
Large woodcut tailpiece on p. 386. Very small blank piece torn away in upper corner of title-page; neat repairs to upper blank margins of a few leaves; occasional slight marginal stains. In very good to fine condition.
Remains of small paper tag (nineteenth-century?) near foot of spine. (4 ll.), 389 [i.e., 387] pp. Page 387 wrongly numbered 389. $4,000.00

FIRST EDITION of this tribute to the Franciscan order. A second edition appeared at Coimbra, 1721 (with another issue in 1722).

In the course of his treatise the author frequently refers to specific situations in the “Estado da India” (i.e., all areas of Portuguese influence in East Africa and Asia), missionary activities, and monks who worked primarily in the East, many of whom were known to the author personally. He also discusses who can become a novice of the order—descendants of Jews, Moors and heretics are excluded, but there is mention of special conditions existing in India, and of exceptions that can be made there for those with some native ancestry (pp. 168-78).

According to Porbase, there is a variant issue, in which the final license is dated 18 May 1689. In our copy, there is indeed a license of this date on the verso of the final preliminary leaf, followed by:

Large elegant woodcut initial on recto of second leaf. Smaller woodcut initial on p. 1. In fine condition. (12 ll.), 307 pp. $6,000.00

FIRST EDITION. In this work Fr. Jacinto de Deus treats 61 military orders, including the Orders of Santiago, Malta, Aviz, Christ, the Templars, etc. There is even a brief section (pp. 192-4) devoted to King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table! He gives accounts of their foundation, their jurisdiction, and their activities, if any, in the early discoveries, in Ethiopia, and in the “Estado da India.” The final section (pp. 266-307) contains letters from King Philip III (II of Portugal) to the Conde da Vidigueira, to D. Jeronymo de Azevedo, and to D. Francisco Mascarenhas, viceroys of India, as well as one letter from King Philip II (I of Portugal) to D. Fr. Aleixo de Menezes, Archbishop Primate of India, regarding various decrees, papal authorizations, and so on, related to the military orders in the East. The book is dedicated to D. de Sirigão, in Damão. The preliminary leaves include a neo-Latin epigram, a sonnet in Portuguese “A Monarchia Portugueza ao Author”, an unsigned poem in Spanish of four ten-line stanzas, a poem in Portuguese of six six-line stanzas by Fr. Hyacintho de Santo Thomas, followed by two Portuguese sonnets and a three-page elegy in Portuguese, all by the same author.

The Capuchin Fr. Jacinto de Deus, born in Macao in 1612, worked in the province of Madre de Deus in Goa where he was Provincial and a deputy of the Inquisition. He died in Goa in 1681.

In the present copy, on the verso of the fourth unnumbered leaf is a final three-line taxation statement dated 27 March 1670. According to Porbase, one of the copies in the Biblioteca Nacional de Portugal is a variant which does not contain this taxation statement.

19. DEUS, Jacinto de, O.F.M. Vergel de plantas, e flores da Provincia da Madre de Deos dos Capuchos Reformados. Lisbon: Na Officina de Miguel Deslandes, 1690. Folio (28.1 x 19.8 cm.), contemporary vellum, originally limp (board stiffeners, warped, new endpapers and leather ties recently added), manuscript vertical title on spine, text-block edges sprinkled red. Woodcut vignette on title-page, woodcut initials, head- and tailpieces. Paper flaw in F3 costing a few letters, light marginal dampstaining at end, occasional light spotting. Internally fine; overall in very good condition. Stamp of the Casa de Cadaval in blank margins of title and 2 text pages. Small square printed paper shelf-ticket of same with manuscript notations near upper outer corner of recto of second (older) front free endleaf. (6 ll.), 479 pp.

FIRST and ONLY COMPLETE EDITION of this very rare chronicle of the province of Madre de Deus, Goa, with hundreds of pages on China, Macau, Cambodia and Ceylon. Excerpts, titled Descrição do Imperio da China … were published in Hong Kong, 1878. That Vergel de plantas begins with the arrival of Franciscan missionaries in Goa in 1540; it also provides significant material on Cochin, Damão, Chaul and Diu. Chapter 4 is devoted to the activities of Capuchins in China (pp. 115-271), many in Macau, and pp. 149-264 are given over to a “Discriçam do Imperio da China,” which includes comments on buildings, navigation, language, police, government, industry, and more. Chapter 5 deals with Malacca and Siam (pp. 272-98), Chapter 6 with Cambodia (pp. 298-354). Chapter 8 has sections on Moçambique (pp. 424-6) and Ceylon (pp. 426-9), and a biography of a Capuchin who was a Kaffir (pp. 439-41). Throughout the volume are extensive comments on churches (including their miraculous images) and on the missionary activity of individual Capuchins in Goa and elsewhere in Asia. (Many of these biographies are 6 to 10 pages long.) While much has been written concerning Jesuit missions in this area, relatively little is known of the Capuchin work which this book details, including at the end a year-by-year chronicle from 1623 to 1679 with the names of the “guardians.” Everywhere the Capuchins went they established schools, wrote books in the vernacular of the country, and held public conferences with learned heathen. They found their chief obstacle to be European traders, including Portuguese.

Fr. Jacinto made efforts to consult primary source material: “Com grande trabalho descobri o fogo escondido no poço da antiguidade, & obscura caverna do esquecimento por cartorios, & archivos, por informações, & papeis, que alguns particulares curiosos conservarão” (†3v). Some of these documents are transcribed within the text.

Born in Macau in 1612, Fr. Jacinto de Deus was a Capuchin who served as provincial and a deputy of the Inquisition in the province of Madre de Deos. He died in Goa in 1681. This work was edited and published posthumously by P. Fr. Amaro de Santo António, provincial of Madre de Deos.

During the eighteenth century, Fr. Jacinto was harshly criticized for unnecessarily turning into Portuguese many words that the critics thought had adequate Portuguese equivalents. One critic suggested that the Vergel das plantas should have been entitled Sementeira de vocabulos latinos puérilmente aportuguezados. Innocência notes, however, that many of Fr. Jacinto’s neologisms had been accepted into common Portuguese usage by the nineteenth century.

Baroque Festivity Book, Including Concrete Poetry

$900.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this rare work on the ceremonies that took place in Porto on the occasion of the entrance of the new Bishop. This work is rare, perhaps due to some positive mentions of Jesuits, and a letter praising the Bishop from a Jesuit in Rome. After the suppression of the Jesuit Order, the all-powerful Marquês de Pombal probably looked askance at such texts. Due to the subject matter, and the quality of the printing, the book may have been produced in a small edition.

Pages 25-8 contain a three-page description of the procession, indicating the order of arrivals, number of horses, clothing worn by distinguished guests, and decoration on the horses, following an account of the Bishop’s entrance on pp. 1-25. A letter sent from Rome by the Jesuit Father Alexandre Duarte occupies pp. 35-52. António de Deos Campos provided text for a panegyric and dialogue between Rome and Évora (pp. 53-118); the future author of the Compendio geral da historia da veneravel Ordem terceira de S. Francisco … (1752), Fr. Manoel de Oliveira Ferreira (pp. 119-154) is the author of poems including an acrostic sonnet (p. 132) and “Enigma: Estrellas, Mitras, sem Bago” (pp. 144-5); in addition to writing in Portuguese, he includes some neo-Latin verses, and one poem in Italian; at the end of the volume (pp. 303-371) comes a long neo-Latin laudatory poem by him, preceded by a neo-Latin prose argument, Joseph Carlos Pinto de Azevedo provides several poems (pp. 155-62).

Especially fascinating are concrete poems by Manoel Ferreira Leonardo called labyrinthos (or “labyrinths” on pp. 163-71. Martinho Lopes de Moraes Alão, canon of the Porto cathedral, writes a poema historicó-panegyrico in honor of the city of Porto (pp. 173-214). Thomás António de Noronha e Menezes (pp. 215-36) provides a long “Metrica narração heroica da magnifica, e triunfal entrada, que a 6 de Mayo deste anno de 1743, fez …” followed by a sonnet and five decimas. An anonymous “Relaçao poetica, lyrica, jocoseiria …” is to be found on pp. 237-46. A neo-Latin panegyric oration by P. Josepho de Sampayo can be found on pp. 247-80. Luiz de Sousa de Mendoça provides neo-Latin epigrams (pp. 281-300); while Fr. Salvador da Guia (pp. 301-302) gives a neo-Latin eulogy.

Unnumbered preliminary leaves 3 verso to 4 verso contain a Censura do Ordinario by Diogo Barbosa Machado dated 2 May 1744 which heaps lavish praise on this volume and its subject.

of Master of Arts from the University of Évora, and another in canon law from Coimbra. He accompanied the Marquês de Fontes on his ambassadorial mission to Rome in 1712. While in Rome he entered the Franciscan order, for which he eventually performed numerous important functions, as well as occupying diplomatic and political positions. He participated in several Academies, including the Academia Real da História Portuguesa. D. João V chose him to be Bishop of Porto in 1739, a post he accepted after having refused various bishoprics in Italy, and which he occupied with dignity for the rest of his life.

Descriptions of Palestine and the Persecution of Christian Religious Orders There

FIRST EDITION. In his visit to the Holy Land, Fr. João toured all the major sites in Jerusalem, as well as the Sea of Galilee, Bethlehem, Mt. Zion, and a few other places outside the city. At the end (pp. 233-71) he gives an account of the persecution suffered by the religious orders there since the mid-seventeenth century. Fr. João mentions, for example, an uprising of the people in 1756 when, in order to keep the members of several religious orders safe, the governor of the area had to lock them in the church of the Holy Sepulchre for seven months, where they lived on bread, water and herbs (p. 247). In 1799, when Bonaparte was invading Egypt, about 3,000 Turks attacked a monastery, shouting “Death to the Franks, who are spies for the French” (p. 251). Fr. João argues that it is Portugal’s duty to support the religious orders in Palestine, because the Spanish have been seriously weakened by the recent war.

The engraved frontispiece (unsigned) shows scenes from the lives of Christ and the Virgin, the resurrection, and two Franciscans kneeling outside the Holy Sepulchre. The Viagem appeared in at least three later editions: Lisbon 1822, 1831 and 1837.

Two-line contemporary ink manuscript note at foot of p. 22, referring to an error on p. 17. 22 pp. $200.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. On p. 10 is stated that D. Pedro caused the Brazilian empire to become reborn from its ashes, for which he was badly repaid. His services to the Island of Terceira in the Azores are mentioned on p. 14, and his granting Portugal its second constitution, the Carta constitucional, is also emphasized.

Father Vicente de Santa Rita was born in Lisbon, probably in 1776, and is said to have died in 1842 or shortly thereafter. Initially a member of the Franciscan order, he became a secular priest. During the period 1820-1823 he was a supporter of liberal doctrines, for which he suffered persecution afterwards, finally being imprisoned in 1830 under D. Miguel. He was liberated in 1833 along with other political prisoners.

Everything You Could Ever Want to Know about Everything cm.), contemporary speckled sheep (worn and scraped but sound, board on front cover exposed at foot, minor worm damage to boards), spine richly gilt (faded) with raised bands in six compartments, dark red lettering-piece in second compartment from head with gilt short-title. Half-title with large, elaborate woodcut arms of Portugal. Title page in red and black. Large woodcut and typographical headpieces and tailpieces, woodcut initials. Wide margins with printed sidenotes. Ugly dark brown stain at top edge through p. 40, extending as much as 6 cm. into text but not affecting legibility. In good condition, if just barely. Two early ink manuscript rubric inscriptions in margins of half-title. Three lines of old ink manuscript notes on front pastedown endleaf, noting sections of the book. Later (nineteenth-century?) ten-line, faded ink inscription in margin of p. 51. (18 ll.), 760 pp. $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This compendium in ten books, which purports to cover all fields of human knowledge, is an early Portuguese encyclopedia. We have never seen a work whose imprint included the statement that it was paid for at the expense of one of the author’s relatives: “a custa de hum parente do Autor”. The doting relative apparently spared no expense: the half-title has a large woodcut, the title page is in red and black, the font is large, the margins wide, the headpieces and initials elaborate, and the length remarkable (speaking as one who has counted every page). In the charming prologue (f. b1r-b4r), the author describes to “amigo, ou inimigo, sabio, ou insipiente Leitor” his aims in this book and his insatiable reading habit.

Frei José de Jesus Maria, a native of Lisbon, entered the Franciscan Order in 1704 at the convent of N.ª S.ª dos Anjos, Torres Vedras, in the province of Arrábida and, says Barbosa Machado, “aplicouse a todo o genero de erudição em que sahio egregiamente versado.” Fr. José was preacher to the infamous brother of D. João V, the Infante D. Francisco, to whom he dedicated the Academia, despite his fear that it was a mere trifle (“tão pequena”). Indeed, this dedication to so controversial a personage may account for the rarity of the volume. Also, such a work may have been “read to pieces” at first, with surviving copies later discarded when thought to be out of date. According to the title page, Frei José had been a missionary in Brazil, and three times served as Guardião do Convento de Santa Catherina de Ribamar. Aside from this work, he published Brognolo recopilado, e substanciado com addictamentos de gravissimos authores, metodo mais breve, muy suave, e utilissimo de exorcizar expellindo demonios, e desfazendo feitiços segundo os dictames do Sagrado Evangelho, Lisbon, 1725.

The preliminary leaves include two Romances in verse, by Dr. Vitorino Vitoriano Xavier do Amaral, and Francisco Manuel de Brito Mascarenhas, a Decima by Dr. António Soares de Carvalho, a neo-Latin Epigram by Dom Francisco Antônio Vanicheli, and a neo-Latin ode by “Æmidærius Hæsipus Lusitanus Setobricensis Barbaricus”.

Here are the topics covered in Frei José’s summary of all aspects of human life, documented with “vastíssimas noticias.”

I. Das primeiras acçoens, e operaçoens da creatura humana: including on man as a rational being, giants, pygmies, remarkable examples of maternal and paternal love, pagan gods, counting, orthography, caring for children, the evils of luxury

II. Da vida espiritual: including teaching children to be Christians, heretics, schisms, and Church councils

III. Da vida, e estado real: including the qualities of a perfect monarch, the creation of laws, Portuguese history
IV. Vida ecclesiastica: including early priests, papal elections, patriarchs, reliquaries, lamps in churches, swearing oaths
V. Vida religiosa: e monastica: including the lives of monks and clergymen, dozens of religious orders, military orders
VI. Vida conjugal: including choosing a spouse, marriage rites among barbarians, subtleties and excesses of the married state
VII. Vida literaria: including origin of grammar, rhetoric, oratory, poetry, philosophy, logic, ethics, physics; earth, air, water, and fire; metaphysics, medicine, mathematics, astronomy, civil and canon law, moral and speculative theology
VIII. Vida militar: including origin, military engineers, weapons, notable battles
IX. Vida maritima, nautica, e piscatoria: including the invention of sailing ships, knowledge necessary for sailors, the invention of fishing, monstrous fishes
X. Vida officiosa: including chapters on the origin of lawyers, scribes, mayors, prisons, etc.; surgeons, anatomists, chemists, pharmacists, blood-letters; musicians, poets, painters; sculptors and architects; the ten wonders of the world and the cities most celebrated for their sumptuous buildings; horsemen, farriers, and ironmongers; men who hunt and engage in gladiatorial combats or other sports
XI. Vida laboriosa: including chapters on the origin of farmers and others who work the land; millers, bakers, etc.; cooks, pastry chefs, tavern-keepers, cheese-makers; makers of oil, bread, hats, dyes, and shopkeepers; spinners, weavers, dressmakers, launderers; tailors, embroiderers, shoemakers, tanners; gold- and silversmiths, diamond-cutters, assayers, grinders; smelters, brazier-men, tinkers, plumbers; watchmakers, blacksmiths, gunsmiths, swordsmiths; contractors, merchants, gilders, printers, booksellers, candle-makers; hairdressers, barbers, glaziers, couriers, saddlers; carvers, statuary-makers, carpenters, turners, coopers, bed-makers.
XII. Vida perdida: including chapters on comedians; dancers, gamblers, bullfighters; drunkards, thieves, murderers; prostitutes, witches; magicians; sorcerers; “Vida perdida por natureza”; those who are presently or chronically ill; natural and sudden deaths; why some live long lives; rituals after death, including funerals; final paroxysms and how the body rots. (A cheerful note to end on!)

At the end are a 3-column index of authors cited (pp. 719-732), a second index with authors and works (pp. 733-743), and a detailed table of contents (pp. 745-760). At the end of the second, the present author notes that he has not always cited works in full in the sidenotes for fear of making it difficult to print, “por não encher mais as margens fazendo-as imperceptíveis para o Prelo.”

On the Martyred Bishop of Nanking

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. Freire de Monterroyo Mascarenhas tells Fr. João de N. Senhora his opinion of the latter’s eulogy on the martyrdom of Francesco de Santa Rosa de Viterbo, a Franciscan who served as bishop of Nanking (Nanjing) from 1742 to 1750. Most of the Carta is a discussion of the bishop’s actions in China. Nanking, Peking, and Macau were all part of the Portuguese Padroado in the East: the king of Portugal named the bishops and paid their living expenses. All the missionaries mentioned in this account suffered persecutions at the hands of Chinese authorities.

The author (1670-1760?), a native of Lisbon, began his studies in Portugal and extended them for ten years, beginning in 1693, by traveling throughout Europe to study its politics and languages. Back in Portugal, he served from 1704 to 1710 as a cavalry captain in the War of the Spanish Succession. When the war ended he began to publish the Gazeta de Lisboa, of which he remained editor for more than 40 years. He also published numerous pamphlets on current events.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. In Morocco, the years 1727-1729 were a period of civil war as the sons of the notoriously bloodthirsty Moulay Ismail Ibn Sharif fought over who would succeed to the throne. Moulay Ismail (ruled 1672-1727) had resolved to transfer the capital of Morocco to Meknes, where he was building a huge new city and royal complex; the Franciscans had a monastery there to serve the thousands of enslaved Christians in the area. This narrative includes a description of the siege of Meknes by one of the opposing factions, with great detail given on pp. 6-11 of the sack of the Franciscan monastery, including the murder and wounding of several of the brothers.

According to the introduction, this account was compiled from letters by English traders and a letter from P. Fr. Manoel do Rosario, guardião of the Franciscan monastery.

In Meknes, Innocência attributes this newsletter to Freire de Montarroyo Mascarenhas (1670-1760?), a native of Lisbon, who traveled throughout Europe from 1693 to 1703 to study politics and languages. After serving in the War of the Spanish Succession, he began to publish the Gazeta de Lisboa, of which he remained editor for over 40 years. He also published many other newsletters.

Countering the Arguments of the Materialists

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The author states his intention to combat “as doutrinas e erros dos materialistas antigos e modernos, servindo-se das provas da razão e experiencia, e tambem das doutrinas das sanctas escrituras.” This is a fairly erudite work, with references to Old and New Testament, authors from classical antiquity such as Plutarch, Pythagorus, Plato, Aristotle, and Cicero, as well as to modern ones such as Calvin, Luther, Locke, Hobbs, Voltaire, Diderot, Spinoza, and Pope.

Mayne’s full name in the religious life was Fr. José de Jesus Maria Maine. A member of the Franciscan Order, he founded a museum of natural history in his religious house in Lisbon, which was eventually integrated into the Academia Real das Sciencias de Lisboa. He was chief chaplain to the fleet, and confessor to the King-Consort D. Pedro III, to whom this work is dedicated. Born in Porto, 1723, Mayne died in Lisbon, 1792.

30. MELLO, D. Francisco Manuel de. “Il gran piccio. Vita e morte del serafino humano Francesco d’Assisi.” Manuscript on paper, in Italian. Ca. 1674. 4° (20.3 x 13.8 cm.), late-nineteenth or early-twentieth-century stiff green wrappers. Full-page pen-and-ink coat of arms of the Princess d’Aveiro on recto of the first leaf. Written in ink by a single hand, minute but legible, with copious corrections and three pasted-on corrections. Lightly browned. The last 20 leaves are lightly dampstained; the last two leaves heavily so. A few edges lightly frayed, occasionally touching a letter. The ink has oxidized in places, eating 2 small holes through the first leaf. Overall in good condition. 39 leaves, apparently complete, in the following quires (all unsigned): I4 [lacking leaves 3-4, probably blank], II6, III12, IV2 [lacking leaf 2, probably blank], V10, VI8. Quire IV wraps around quires V-VI, and quire I wraps around quires II-VI. $4,800.00

An apparently unpublished and unrecorded contemporary Italian translation of Manuel de Mello’s El mayor pequeño, first published Lisbon 1647, in Spanish, and subsequently printed at Lisbon 1650, Zaragoza 1675, and Alcalá 1681 and 1688, and in the author’s Obras morales, Rome 1664. Prestage records no Italian translation of this work, and none is cited in BLC or NUC.

Given the numerous corrections to wording in the text, this may very well be the translator’s working copy. In his dedication, dated 10 November 1674 (?) the translator explains that, while acting as chaplain on a voyage from Lisbon to Italy, he did this translation from the edition in Manuel de Mello’s Obras morales, Rome 1664. The signature at the end of the dedication is difficult to decipher (“J. M … R.”?). The translator refers to himself several times as a Capuchin. He states that during his stay in Lisbon he acted as confessor to the dedicatee and that he carried the gift of a painting from her to Pope Innocent X’s grandchild the Principessa Ludovisia.

The dedicatee is “D. Maria Principessa d’Avero,” who must be D. Maria Guadalupe de Lencastre (1630-1715), a noted painter (perhaps the painting sent to Italy was her own work?) and literary figure. She became sixth Duquesa de Aveiro in 1679, after her brother the fourth Duque de Aveiro transferred his allegiance to Spain and another brother, the fifth Duque, died. She is mentioned in Sousa’s Historia genealogica da Casa Real Portuguesa and Fr. Agostinho de Santa Maria’s Santuariano mariano. (See also Pamplona, Dicionário de pintores e escultores portugueses [1987] II, 34 and Grande enciclopédia III, 810.)

El mayor pequeño is a life of St. Francis of Assisi, for whom D. Francisco Manuel de Mello was named. It was written in 1646, while he was imprisoned in Portugal. He comments on it in his Apologos dialogaes: “Lipsio. Ouvi que neste livro vos arguião de confuso para historiadore e de afectado para moral; que para livro de devoção comprehenda sobera cultura, e para de relação reprehensivel brevidade. Auctor. Confesso que nem Chronica nem Soliloquios; mas … para conduzir a gente a qualquer leytura honesta (quanto mais piedosa), he necessario dourar lhe a pirola, como ao enfermo” (quoted in Prestage, p. 216).

D. Francisco Manuel de Mello (1608-1666) led a romantic and adventurous life and established himself as a major figure in Portuguese and Spanish literature, ranking with Quevedo among seventeenth-century Iberian writers. Born into the highest Portuguese nobility, he began both his military and literary careers at the age of 17. Shipwrecked near St. Jean de Luz in 1627 while sailing with a Hispano-Portuguese armada protecting an American treasure fleet (he was forced to supervise the burial of more than 2,000 men who perished), he was sent with the Conde de Linhares to quell the Évora insurrection in 1637, fought in the battle of the Downs in 1639, and the following year took part in the campaign against the Catalan rebels. Suspected of favoring an independent Portugal, he was jailed in Spain in 1640. Only a few years later (1644), when he returned to Portugal, he was imprisoned in turn by D. João IV, some said on a charge of murder, others said because he was D. João’s rival for a lady’s affections. The year 1652 saw him deported to Bahia, but in 1657 he was pardoned, recalled from exile, and sent on the first of several important diplomatic missions. Originally he wrote in Spanish; it was only when he had passed his fortieth year that he published his first work in Portuguese: Carta de guia de casados (1651), one of the great classics of Portuguese prose.

Life and Last Testament of Moulay Ismîl Ibn Sharif, Sultan of Morocco, Known as the Warrior King or “The Bloodthirsty”

Caption title. Five-line woodcut initial. In good to very good condition. Early ink manuscript note of translator’s name in margin of first page. Old ink manuscript foliation in upper outer corners of first three leaves recto (308-310; no foliation on final leaf). (4 ll.) $600.00

First and Only Edition in Portuguese; judging from the caption title and the note on f. 2r, Mascarenhas translated Moulay Ismail’s will from a Spanish edition, but compiled the facts of the sultan’s life from other sources.

Moulay Ismail Ibn Sharif (1643 or 1645-1727) was one of the most famous figures in Moroccan history. After becoming the second sultan in the Alaouite dynasty in 1672, he fought a series of battles to persuade the Ottoman Turks to respect Moroccan independence and captured Tangier and other important seaports from the Spanish and English, earning himself the nickname “The Warrior King.”

The prologue gives details of Muley Ismaïl’s ancestry and his actions, which included the murder of thousands, heavy taxes, the acquisition of hundreds of concubines and the siring of hundreds of children, and his transfer of the capital to Meknes, where he was building a huge new city and royal complex. The testament (ff. 2v-4v) includes provisions for his slaves, concubines, children, Christian slaves, the Franciscans at Meknes, counterfeiters, thieves, vagabonds, prostitutes, and Jews. At the end is a glossary of Arabic terms such as alcaçova, bamarkan, janezes, and xarife.

Pablo de Moya as Comisario General de Yndias. Paper seal on final page, accompanied by manuscript inscription dated 8 November 1809, and manuscript signatures of nine other Franciscan brothers. (2 ll.) $500.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this document printed in 1809, when Spain was rising against Napoleonic rule and against the French troops stationed in the Peninsula. Fr. Pablo de Moya, as commissary general of all the provinces and colegios of the Franciscan Order in America, condemns Napoleon, whose character is marked by “la doblez, la astucia, la mentira, el engaño.” He rails against Napoleon’s perfidy at Bayonne, where D. Ferdinand VII was forced to abdicate in favor of his father, who had already abdicated in favor of Napoleon. He laments the events of May 1808 in Madrid, where French troops crushed a popular uprising, even predicting that the events of May 2 will be celebrated in Spanish art. (Goya made them immortal a few years later in companion paintings, The Second of May 1808 and The Third of May 1808.)

Moya goes on to urge his fellow Franciscans to be patriotic and loyal to D. Fernando VII, and to encourage their flocks to resist the invaders: “enseñad á los Pueblos lo que deben á la Religion, al Soverano, y á la Patria.... terminado el armonioso concierto de los Divinos loores, haced que entone canciones Patrióticas.” (f. 2v).

The French were only certain of their hold on Spain where they had troops stationed, and it is clearly Moya’s intention to rouse opposition not only in Spain but in Spanish possessions around the world: this copy is directed (in manuscript) to the Colegio de Popayan, in the Viceroyalty of New Granada, now in southwestern Colombia. It was issued at Puerto de Santa Maria, near Cadiz and Seville, which became the general headquarters for the French Army during the Peninsular War, under the reign of Joseph Bonaparte (1808-1812).

Lisbon: Na Officina de Miguel Manescal da Costa, 1750. 4°, stitched. Minor soiling on first and final leaves; a few small holes in title-page, touching one letter of title. Overall in good condition. 52 pp. $750.00

FIRST EDITION (or first edition in Portuguese?) of these two detailed, eyewitness accounts of events in the Holy Land. Neither Innocência nor Fonseca, Pseudónimos lists the Fiel cópia or the two relações that comprise it. The first relação (pp. 3-24) describes an uprising in 1746 of the people of Jerusalem against the Catholics. The second relação (pp. 33-52) describes the persecution of Catholics, notably Franciscans, at the instigation of the Greek Orthodox Church in Jerusalem and Damascus in 1748. It is preceded by several letters introducing the account (pp. 25-32).

João dos Prazeres (1648-1709) was one of P. Antonio Vieira’s most notable disciples; of his principal work, O Principe dos Patriarchas S. Bento, only the first two volumes were published.

Five Works on Sebastianism: Pro and Con

"36. SÁ, José María de [a.k.a Fr. José Maria de Jesus, O.F.M.]. Impugnação imparcial do folheto intitulado Os Sebastianistas, em que se continua a responder ao segundo ponto. 5 works in 1 volume. Lisbon: Na Impressão Regia, 1810. 8°, later binding covered with piece of calf from a folio-size binding of the seventeenth century, some blind-tooled fillets and stamps (slight wear at extremities), text-block edges sprinkled blue-green. Woodcut Portuguese royal arms on title page. In very good to fine condition. Stamp and stamped accession number of Dr. José Bayolo Pacheco de Amorim, as well as the blue oval stamp of the Biblioteca of the Universidade Autonoma de Lisboa, Rua de Santa Marta, 56, on recto of front free endleaf. 48 pp. 5 works in 1 volume. $600.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. This is the second blast by this author in an extended polemical war begun by José Agostinho de Macedo on the theme of Sebastianism and Sebastianists. Earlier the same year Sá published at the same press, with the same collation, a work in which the author’s name does not appear on the title page and instead is given as “hum Amador de Verdade”, and in which the words “em que se continua a responder ao segundo ponto” are omitted.

Not much is known about the author, who was active in the first quarter of the nineteenth century and was a Franciscan of the Third Order, living at the Convento de Nossa Senhora de Jesus in Lisbon. According to Innocêncio, José Maria de Sá was his secular name.

King Sebastian was presumed killed at the Battle of Alcácer-Quibir in 1578, but there were no eyewitnesses, and his body was never found. Many Portuguese came to believe Sebastian survived the battle and would return to claim his throne. This led to Sebastianism: the belief that Sebastian could return at any moment to replace the illegitimate rule of King Philip II of Castile (Philip I of Portugal). During the time of the Iberian Union, from 1580 to 1640, four men claimed to be the returned King Sebastian. The last of these pretenders, who was in fact an Italian, was hanged in 1619.

Over the years myths and legends arose concerning Sebastian, the common thread being that he was a great Portuguese patriot, the “sleeping king” who would return to help Portugal in its darkest hour—like the British King Arthur or the German Frederick Barbarossa. He would then be known by symbolic names: O Encoberto (The Hidden One) who would return on a foggy morning to save Portugal; or O Desejado (The Desired). The legend was vigorously promoted through the massive circulation of popular rhymes (trovas) written by Bandarra. Even in the final decade of the twentieth century, Sebastianist peasants in the Brazilian sertão believed that the king would return to help them in their rebellion against the “godless” Brazilian republic.

The tale of Sebastian’s disappearance and alleged return is the basis for the popular song “A Lenda de El Rei D. Sebastião” (“The Legend of King Sebastian”) by the Portuguese band Quarteto 1111 in 1968. He also appears in a Harry Potter book (Order of the Phoenix) in the form of a portrait near the transfiguration courtyard.

FIRST EDITION. José Agostinho de Macedo (1761-1831) was a prolific writer of prose and verse, best known for his pamphleteering: “Ponderous and angry like a lesser Samuel Johnson, he bullies and crushes his opponents in the raciest vernacular … his idiomatic and vigorous prose will always be read with pleasure” (Bell, Portuguese Literature p. 282). Macedo was also well known for his arrogance in literary matters: he condemned as worthless Homer’s poems, which he had never read in the original, and believed his own epic Gama, 1811 (reworked and published as O Oriente, 1814), could have taught Camões how Os Lusiadas should have been written.

a Brazilian academy of this period in which we can see how the academy was founded and how it functioned, by reading the dedication, prologue, the letters to Sequeira e Sá, and the program. The work represents, too, a group effort by intellectuals characteristic of their era. Innocêncio believed that almost the entire edition of Jubilos had been sent to Brazil. Borba comments, “Today very few copies exist. Copies in good condition are rare.”

This volume was mostly the work of the members of the Academia dos Selectos, founded in Rio de Janeiro. The Academia met only once, on 30 January 1752, to offer congratulations to the Brazilian governor, Gomes Freire de Andrada, on his appointment as head of the Portuguese commission to establish the frontier with Spain in southern Brazil. These pieces in Latin, Portuguese and Spanish include the work of more than thirty Brazilian authors (at least nine of them natives of Brazil), most of whom did not publish works elsewhere. Even the editor admitted that the quality of the works was uneven: “Reconheço que nas obras que produzo a nossa Academia, reluz mas o affectuoso que o Poetico.” However, they are invaluable for the study of Brazilian prose and verse of this period, and also important as one of the few published products of the eighteenth-century Brazilian academies.

The volume is dedicated to Gomes Freire’s brother, José Antonio Freire de Andrada, who funded the publication of Jubilos (see preliminary leaves 2-14). Sequeira e Sá, who wrote the dedication, also composed the prologue to the reader, in which he explains how the Academia was formed (preliminary leaves 15-28). Eight leaves of poems dedicated to Sequeira e Sá follow (preliminary leaves 29-36), all written by natives of Brazil who were studying or teaching at Coimbra; none of these authors had any other works published (see Borba, Período colonial, pp. 319-20 for a list of these authors). The last four preliminary leaves include the index of contributors and the licenses.

On pp. 1-46 of the text proper are Sequeira e Sá’s letter to the members of the Academia and the replies he received. These replies are especially informative, because each is preceded by a paragraph in italics that states the writer’s occupation and literary accomplishments. Next (pp. 47-57) is the program of the Academia, listing the subjects from which the contributors are to choose their themes. Finally, on pp. 59-336, are the poems themselves. Aside from the signed works, this section includes unsigned poems by groups of Jesuits (pp. 133-73), Benedictines (pp. 175-84), Franciscans (pp. 185-88) and Carmelites (pp. 189-91). A final section, which Borba suggests was added as an afterthought (see Período colonial, p. 321), contains more poems in honor of Sequeira e Sá and some poems on subjects unrelated to Gomes Freire.

The contributors to the volume came from various walks of life. Antonio Nunes de Sequeira and Francisco de Faria were both clergymen. Nunes de Sequeira was born at S. Sebastião (Rio de Janeiro) in 1701, and entered the Church after studying law. Known for his composition of poetry and music, he also served as a choirmaster. His only known surviving works are those printed in this volume: a “Romance Lyrico” (pp. 207-09), three sonnets (pp. 210-12), an epigram (p. 213), and a long “Romance” (pp. 339-42). (See Sacramento Blake I, 272).

Francisco de Faria, president of the Academia dos Selectos, contributed two letters (pp. 7-8), an “Oração panegyrico” (pp. 59-88), and a sonnet (p. 130). Faria, born in 1708 at Goiana (Pernambuco), taught at Bahia, but in 1760 was exiled to Lisbon and Rome (see Leite VIII, 216 and Sacramento Blake II, 438-39). His only other published work is the famous Conclusiones metaphysicas de ente reali ..., Rio de Janeiro, 1747, one of the only three works printed by Antonio Isidoro da Fonseca at the first printing press established in Brazil. (See Borba I, 303).

The Jesuit Simão Pereira de Sá, a native of Rio de Janeiro (b. 1701), was Procurador da Coroa e Fazenda for Rio de Janeiro and also a historian. His history of Colonia do Sacramento had received the licenses for publication when Jubilos appeared (see p. 21), but for some reason was not printed until Capistrano de Abreu published part of it in The other works by Pereira de Sá mentioned in the Jubilos were apparently unpublished during the author’s lifetime; his only appearance in print was with the two sonnets, the “Romance heroico” and two poems to Sequeira e Sá in Jubilos, pp. 285-90 and 343-46. (See Sacramento Blake VII, 234-35).

Antonio Cordeiro da Silva, born at Rio de Janeiro early in the eighteenth century, studied at Coimbra and pursued a military career. By 1752 he was captain of a regiment in Rio de Janeiro (see Blake I, 139). Cordeiro da Silva contributed nine works to this volume (pp. 249-65), including a 29-stanza poem on the military situation of Colonia do Sacramento (pp. 253-62). One of his other poems was published separately: Maria Imaculada, Lisbon 1760 (see Borba II, 798).

The only woman author represented in the Jubilos is Angela do Amaral Rangel, “A Ceguinha,” born blind at S. Sebastião (Rio de Janeiro) in 1725. As Blake points out (I, 85-86), she lived in an age when no one knew how to give a literary education to the blind. This and the fact that her native tongue was Castilian, rather than Portuguese, made her poetic accomplishments the more remarkable: “Sem educação litteraria, sem cabedal algum de instrucção necessaria al cultivo da poesia, dona Angela do Amaral foi um genio … “ (Sacramento Blake I, 85). Her only published works are the “Romance” and two sonnets in this volume (pp. 271-75); one of the sonnets was reprinted by Varnhagen in his Florilegio. Angela do Amaral Rangel was not a member of the Academia, although she wrote on the prescribed themes.

Mateus Saraiva, president of the Academia dos Felizes (founded in Rio de Janeiro, 1736) contributed a long letter and seven sonnets (pp. 28-32, 230-35 and 305). Not mentioned in the introduction to the letter, although it does appear in the subscription to the sonnets, is the fact that Saraiva was Chief Physician of Rio de Janeiro. He wrote and circulated in manuscript one of several works criticizing João Cardoso de Miranda’s Relação cirúrgica of 1741. (See Borba II, 573; not in Sacramento Blake).

Manuel Tavares de Sequeira e Sá, the secretary of the Academia dos Selectos and editor of this volume, was trained in law at Coimbra, then served as a magistrate in Portugal and later in Paranaguá (Paraná). He wrote the dedication and prologue of the Jubilos and the final poem in the volume (p. 363), but published no separate works. (See Sacramento Blake VI, 204; Borba II, 759-60; and Borba, Período colonial, pp. 317-19).

(16 ll.), 316 pp., (1 l. errata). 3 works in 1 volume. $1,800.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. A narrative history of the Algarve derived from historic documents, mostly in Latin with a smattering of Arab, Greek, and Hebrew. The author describes the peoples who lived in the Algarve beginning with the Phoenicians, Celts, Carthaginians, and Romans. Despite the myriad of peoples who lived there, he feels that the Algarve has a distinctive culture of its own. The history ends around the 13th century, with brief comments on the Crusades and the Portuguese conquest of the Algarve from the Arabs.

One of the Earliest Sermons Preached in Lisbon after the Restauração

42. SÃO BERNARDINO, João de, O.F.M. Ao Illustrmo. e Revmo. Senhor D. Rodrigo da Cunha, Arcebispo de Lisboa ... dedica este sermão, que fez em a sua Igreja Metropolitana, em o segundo Domingo do Advento, nono dia de Dezembro e da aclamação del Rey Dom João o quarto, que foi feita Sabbado principio dia de Dezembro, avendo Sua Magestade entrado em Lisboa a seis do mesmo mes do Anno de 1640. Lisbon: Por Antonio Alvarez, 1641. 4°, modern plain beige wrappers (a few minor defects), text block edges sprinkled from older binding. Large woodcut arms of the Archbishop of Lisbon on title page. Woodcut initials. Some soiling. Overall in good to very good condition. Old ink manuscript foliation (“43-88”) in upper outer corner of each leaf recto. (6 ll.), 39 pp. $600.00

FIRST EDITION of one of the earliest sermons preached in Lisbon after the Restauração. Fr. João had been the first orator to acclaim D. João IV and defend his restoration to the throne on 1 December 1640; several of his sermons were translated and widely circulated throughout Europe. The author (1577-1655), a native of Lisbon, was a Franciscan noted for his knowledge of Hebrew, and a trusted royal counselor.

Third edition (?), following those of 1744 and 1767, of this guide to practicing the Coroa Serafica, a Franciscan celebration on the day of the Immaculate Conception (December 8). As an introduction, there are instructions for the Eve of Immaculate Conception: the “R. Padre Vigario do Coro” [Vicar Choral] is to warn his fellow Brother (who has a watch) that at dawn the next day, they must wake up the Community (without waking up anyone person in particular) for the devotion of the Seraphic Crown. The rest of the the words spoken at the Franciscan celebration of the Seraphic Crown of Mary, including prayers in Latin and a short sermon (in Portuguese, with the heading “Ponto”). Once the hebdomadario has finished reading the Ponto, the community is to recite the Ave Maria and sing Domine labia mea and other songs, in Latin (pp. 9-44). Almost every page has music, in neume notation; at times the songs are quite complex and extensive.

The attribution of authorship is based on Porbase; according to Barbosa Machado, the author was a Franciscan. The title of the present edition differs somewhat from the earlier ones.

Devotional Poem in Honor of the Madonna

44. SÃO CARLOS, Francisco de, O.F.M. A Assumpção, poema composto em honra da Santa Virgem por … Nova edição correcta, e precedida da biografia do auctor e d’un juizo criticó àcerca do poema pelo conego Dr. J.-C. Fernandes Pinheiro. Rio de Janeiro: Livraria de B.-L. Garnier, 1862. 8°, contemporary publisher’s green quarter morocco over green pebbled boards (minor stains on covers, toward edges), spine with raised bands in five compartments, gilt, with author and title in the second compartment from the head and gilt panels in the others; green sides with large elaborate gilt-stamped Madonna on upper cover and gilt-stamped vase in a niche on lower cover, bookseller-publisher’s name and address stamped in gilt at fore-edge of front dentelle (“Livraria de B.L. Garnier, Rua do Ouvidor, 69, Rio de Janeiro”), white moiré paper endleaves, green silk ribbon place marker, all text block edges gilt. Some foxing and spotting, mostly light. Overall in very good condition. Ownership inscription of F.M.L. da S. dated 1862 on penultimate endleaf, upside-down. (2 ll.), xliv, 275 pp. $800.00

Third appearance (second separate edition) of a poem in eight cantos on the Virgin Mary that originally appeared in Rio de Janeiro, 1819, and was reprinted as part of the Epicos brasileiros by the Visconde de Porto Seguro in 1844. This edition includes a biography of the author (pp. [ix]-xxi) and a critical evaluation of the poem (pp. [xiii]-xliv).

Frei Francisco de São Carlos was one of the most famed orators of his time. This is his only published poem; Sacramento Blake writes that it includes “os mais belos e variados episódios, as mais ricas e sedutoras imagens, e descrições locaes, vivas e expressivas, com que glorificando a Virgem, de quem fallas com o mais sublime enthusiasmo, amor e dedicação, glorifica ao mesmo tempo a patria.” (Blake includes a 26-line excerpt.) The author had planned extensive revisions, but Innocêncio notes that they did not appear in this edition.

The author (secular name Francisco Carlos da Silva) was born in Rio de Janeiro in 1768, and died there in 1829. He entered the Franciscan order at age 13, and lived for some years at Macau.

Rare Poem Celebrating Portuguese Defense of Évora During the Wars of the Restauration

45. SÃO FRANCISCO, João de, O.F.M. Poema heroico vitorioso successo, e gloriosa vitoria do exercito de Portugal, sobre a hostilidade da Cidade de Evora nesta anno de 1663. A El-Rey Nosso Senho D. Affonso VI .... Lisbon: Na Officina de Antonio Craesbeeck de Mello, 1663. 4°, disbound.

Six-line woodcut initial on second leaf recto. Short tears (5 and 4 cm.) repaired with paper on first 2 leaves, partially obscuring a few letters on A2. Light stains and soiling. In near good to good condition. (21 ll.).

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this patriotic poem in 116 stanzas of eight lines each (oitavas), celebrating the victory of twenty-year-old D. Afonso VI at the Battle of Ameixial on June 8, 1663. In Spain it is usually called the Battle of Estremoz. This was one of the major battles of the Portuguese Restauration, which finally ended in 1668. The Spanish had overrun southern Portugal under the leadership of D. Juan de Austria, natural son of Philip IV of Spain. The Portuguese, reinforced by English troops and led by Schomberg, inflicted heavy casualties, forced the Spanish to retreat across the border to Badajoz, and forced the Spanish garrison at Évora to surrender soon after.

The author was a Franciscan, a native of Lisbon from the Algarve who professed at a tender age in Setúbal in 1639. He was mestre de philosophia e theologia for his Order and guardião in various religious houses, and held other important positions. In 1663 he was briefly held captive in Algiers. He died in 1675.

Editions of 1771, 1775, 1776, 1779, 1793, 1795, 1799, 1804, 1814, and 1817 are recorded. While we have not been able to compare the texts of the various editions, there appear to be some differences.

Frey Francisco de Jesus Maria, O.F.M. (1713-1790), was a native of Seixo, in the Bishopric of Coimbra. He received a degree in civil law from Coimbra University, but felt the call to enter the Franciscan order, professing in 1732. He was known as a talented pulpit orator, and occupied many important posts for his order.

‡ Innocencio II, 396, states that he thinks he has seen an edition dated 1818; only those of 1776 and 1795 are cited with certainty, and even those without collations. Not located in NUC. Glosa a la declaracion del Serenissimo Duque de Anjou, conque por descuido, mas no a caso, por a clarar el derecho, que pretende a la Monarchia de Espanna, hace evidencia (como se vera en esta Glosa) de que unicamente perteneze, por derecho a D. Carlos III verdadero Rey de la Monarchia Española. Sacada a luz por .... N.p.: n.pr., ca. 1701. 4°, disbound. Caption title. Text in two columns. Corners dog-eared, but overall in good to very good condition. 12 pp. $360.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION? Argues that Archduke Charles, second son of the Holy Roman Emperor Leopold I has the right to the Spanish throne, not Philip, Duke of Anjou (the future Philip V of Spain); hence it must date to the early stages of the War of the Spanish Succession, 1701-1714. The author was a preacher for Emperor Leopold I (r. 1658-1705).

First published in 1689. One of numerous later editions of this work, providing an account of the 1667-1668 palace revolt which established the future D. Pedro II as prince-regent for his brother, the mentally and physically deformed D. Afonso VI, and annulled the marriage of the king to D. Maria Francisca d’Aumale de Savoy, daughter of the Duke of Nemours. D. Pedro then married D. Maria Francisca, thus preserving the French alliance, assuming the throne upon the death of his brother in 1683. D. Maria Francisca survived D. Afonso by only three months.

The Capuchin Abbé Vertot (1655-1735) wrote a number of other historical works; this was his most successful; in addition to the many editions in French, the work was translated into English, Spanish and Portuguese.

This edition not in Duarte de Sousa; cf. 619-620 for French editions of Amsterdam 1722 and Paris 1795; also 621-622 for English editions of London 1735 and 1754. This edition not in Coutinho, Bibliographie Franco-Portugaise; cf. 287 (listing the present edition along with 32 other later [presumably] French language editions, in chronological order, from 1689 to 1859, with only place of publication and publisher, below a fuller description of the Paris 1689 first edition), 395 (adding and describing the edition of The Hague, 1734 and noting several others), 647 (adding an edition of The Hague, 1786), 657 (a Portuguese translation by José Joaquim Soares, Amsterdam 1789), 795 (adding the Portuguese translation, in two volumes, with notes by Fr. Mateus da Assumpção, Lisbon 1815) and 927 (a Spanish translation by J.C. Pagès, Paris 1825). NUC: OU, MH, MiU, CU.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this play about a Franciscan friar set in fourteenth-century Italy, performed for the first time on April 5, 1911, at the Teatro da Republica, Lisbon. The color illustration by Thomás Bordallo Pinheiro is of the original stage design by Augusto Pina. Included is a one-page musical theme for oboe specially composed for the performance by the Portuguese composer Thomás Borba.

Afonso Lopes Vieira (1878-1946) was Portugal’s best traditional poet of the twentieth century. In 1916 he resigned his post as Redactor da Câmara dos Deputados in Lisbon in order to dedicate himself to reading and to poetry. His home, S. Pedro de Moel, became a haven for artists, musicians and writers. He also travelled extensively in Europe and North Africa, and reminiscences of these travels often appear in his works.

The author’s earliest published works were written as a student at Coimbra, 1897-1900, e.g., Para quê?, 1897, and Náufrago, 1898. From this melancholy phase he passed into a nationalistic one, in which he publicized early Portuguese literature, aiming to “reaportuguesar Portugal tornando-o europeu.” During this period he helped prepare an edition of Camões (1928) and edited Montemayor’s Diana, the Amadis, and Rodrigues Lobo. His Portuguese translation of the Poema do Cid was published in the periodical Lusiânia, of which Lopes Vieira served as secretary. He also wrote works for children, e.g., Animais nossos amigos, 1911, and Canto infantil, 1912.

Provenance: Colombano Bordalo Pinheiro (1857-1929), one of the greatest and most original Portuguese painters of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. See Pamplona Dicionário de pintores e escultores portugueses (revised ed.), II, 111-22. He was a member of the “Grupo do Leão”, which included a number of the most illustrious artists, writers, and intellectuals of the day, and his famous painting of some members of the group is now in the Museu de Arte Contemporânea in the Chiado, Lisbon.
